New-York Daily Times.

VOL. IV....NO. 1209 NEW-YORK, FRIDAY, AUGUST 3, 1855. PRICE TWO CENTS.

LATEST INTELLIGENCE

By Telegraph to the New-York Daily Times.

[illegible]

The Cotton Speculation.

[illegible]

The Turkish Loan Bill passed the Commons on Friday night by a vote of 156 to 122.

The Herald claims the small majority of three a virtual defeat of the Government.

The Times commenting upon the news, says: "We can scarcely believe that within so short a time, the whole tone of Europe, the prospects of the war, and the very existence of Turkey should have been so far affected by the mere certain risk by the minority numbering of 156 to 122."

[illegible]

Arrival of Cotton, May 29.—Charles Cannon, Cannon, New-York; Ann Maria, Hathaway, New-York; Ann Eliza, Jones, Savannah; Cracker, Nash, New-York; Georgia, Lawson, New-Orleans; Ann Perry, Wilmington, Del.; Rebecca Rogers, Rogers, Boston; Charles Dana, Dana, Boston; Ann Jackson, Ludwig, San Francisco.

The Democratic Convention at Utica.

UTICA, N. Y., Thursday, Aug. 2.

Several able and eloquent addresses were delivered at the Democratic Convention to-day, and considerable business of importance transacted. Among the speakers were Professor ANTHON, of the Normal School, Canada West, and J. D. PRIESNER, of Connecticut.

The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: E. HEUSTED, of New-York, President; Vice Presidents—S. W. DUNN, of Albany, EDWARD NORTH, of Oneida, E. BENSLON and Mr. ATKINS; Corresponding Secretary—C. H. ANTHONY, of Albany; Recording Secretaries—A. C. SALISBURY and F. B. WILE; Treasurer—M. H. BEACH, of Seneca Falls.

Accepting an invitation from Hon. O. B. MATTESON, nearly six hundred partook of a collation at the City Hall at 6 o'clock this afternoon, where Governor SEYMOUR and others delivered addresses.

The annual session of the Association will take place in Troy, August 2, 1856.

Rumored Mutiny—Yellow Fever in New-Orleans.

NEW-ORLEANS, Monday, July 30.

The steamer Nashville has arrived here with later dates from Havana.

The revolution on the Mexican frontier was progressing. Gen. WOOL had taken both upon Matamoras. The revolutionists were following him up. Gen. VIDALEZ was also marching from Monterey with twenty-eight hundred men, and the fall of Matamoras was considered inevitable.

The deaths in this city during the past week were two hundred and seventy-five, including one hundred and seventy-three from yellow fever.

Fire in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Thursday, Aug. 2.

A fire occurred this morning in the store of PERKINS & THOMPSON, wholesale druggists, on Baltimore-street, near St. Paul's. The building was entirely destroyed, together with its contents. Loss $60,000; insured $75,000.

The extensive carriage-factory of Messrs. MYERS & [illegible], on Baltimore-street, adjoining the City Hall, was destroyed by fire this evening. The owners were fully insured.

The Southern Mail—Yellow Fever at Greenport and Rendolph.

BALTIMORE, Thursday, Aug. 2.

New-Orleans papers of Friday last are too hard, but they contain no news of interest.

In Gosport, Va., yesterday, there were three new cases of yellow fever and three deaths. In Norfolk there were six new cases, but no deaths.

From Kansas—Indian Troubles.

By Lexington, Thursday, Aug. 2.

Arrivals from Council Bluff, with dates to the 20th ult., report the existence of great excitement at Omaha City, on account of the murder of the Omaha Chief LOGAN, while out on a buffalo hunt, by a band of the Sioux Indians. It is stated that the Omahas are about to join the Pawnees to make war upon the Sioux.

American Congress of Dentists.

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, Aug. 2.

The American Congress of Dentists assembled here to-day, and delegations from all parts of the world are attending it. The sessions thus far have been private, and devoted to business mainly, but the future sessions will be open to the public. Among the subjects offered for discussion is the propriety of administering chloroform to patients.

Reported Disaster to Fishhawkers Unknown.

FISHKAWKER, Mass., Thursday, Aug. 2.

The account of a disaster alleged to have taken place at the launching of the ship Sinaloa, on Monday last, and published in the New-York Herald this morning, is incorrect. No accident occurred.

FISHKAWKER, Conn., Thursday, Aug. 2.

There has been no accident at this place from the launching of a ship, or from any other cause.

Steamboat Disaster.

LOUISVILLE, Thursday, Aug. 2—10½ P. M.

Extensive arrangements were made to collect returns of the election in Tennessee to-day, by means of the wires, expresses, &c., but the prevalence of a heavy storm below this City renders it quite impossible to receive a word to night.

Supreme Judicial Court at Middletown.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Thursday, Aug. 2.

Our report relative to several cases of cholera having occurred, is contradicted in some of the papers on important authority. The report was given on the authority of a responsible physician, and was undoubtedly correct.

North Carolina Election.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Aug. 2.

The most exciting contests have been made for collecting early returns of the election, but, as usual, the wires north to Petersburg are damaged, and nothing can be had to-night.

Collision between the Steamers Asia and a Trading Schooner.

PORTLAND, Me., Thursday, Aug. 2.

We learn from a passenger per the Royal Mail steamship Asia, at Boston to-day, that the steamer came in collision, last night, with a fishing schooner, which was understood to be the Hooper. The extent of the damage was not known.

Railroad Casualty.

ALBANY, Thursday, Aug. 2.

CHARLES DERRICK, who left here at 11 P. M. this morning as the conductor of the express train on the Central Road, fell off the train two miles this side of Rome, and was killed.

Minister Soule at Albany.

ALBANY, Thursday, Aug. 2.

In the KENNEDY Libel case, Judge PARKER decided this morning to admit KENNEDY to bail for his appearance at the next term of the Court of General Sessions.

Total Loss of the Ship Columbia.

BOSTON, Thursday, Aug. 2.

The ship Columbia, ashore on Grand Manan, near St. John, N. B., cannot be got off, and will be a total loss.

WESTERN NEW-YORK.

Convention of the New-York State Council of Know-Nothings and the State Lodge of Know-Nothings—Resolutions Against Foreign Influence—Other Matters—Local and Original Proceedings.

Correspondence of the New-York Daily Times.

ROCHESTER, Thursday, Aug. 2, 1855.

Special sessions of the State Council known as the Union organization, or Christian Know-Nothings, and the State Lodge of Know-Somethings have been held in this city within the past two days. Having mentioned almost entirely similar, it was almost impossible for these two bodies to maintain separate and distinct organizations, and, indeed, I believe the first business was the appointment of Committees to present and perfect a basis upon which both could be united. A protracted discussion of the terms of this union resulted in the recommendation that there should be convened immediately a joint Convention of the two unions, for the purpose of consulting and adopting resolutions expressive of the views of the members, when, if it was found that they could agree upon principles, immediate steps should be taken to perfect the details of a permanent amalgamation.

The joint Convention was held at Minerva Hall, and was attended by every delegate to both Orders. A Committee appointed to draft a series of resolutions presented the following, which were adopted by a unanimous vote, and with more enthusiastic applause than I have ever witnessed at a similar convention:

Whereas, The great political issues of National policy now before our people, as whether Freedom or Slavery shall dictate the action and shape the accomplishments of our Government; whether the progress of Freedom or of Slavery shall be arrested;

And whereas, This issue has been forced upon the small distinct parties of the country, and the Slave Propagandists to the free principles of their creed were and in view of the recent outrage upon Freedom by the National Congress in repealing the Missouri Compact; by the lawless Pro-Slavery men of Missouri in their armed invasion of Kansas, their wanton crushing out of the sacred rights of freedom, and their present attempt to force their slave institutions upon the people of that Territory, as an entire violation of the Compact, and the first consideration of this outrage by the President of the United States in the removal of Gov. REEDER, the only actual opponent of the Missouri invaders; for these and other unenumerated reasons,

Resolved, That the aim of National and State Legislation should be, in all cases, the advancement of complete civil and religious liberty, and to arrest, arrise, restrict, and ultimately annihilate the spirit of legal human bondage.

Resolved, That we will, in every lawful manner, and to the utmost of our ability, oppose the admission into this Union of any more Slave territory whatever.

Resolved, That inasmuch as man cannot hold property in man, we will labor for the repeal of all laws which compel the subjugation to the condition of chattels or slaves of any person found within the jurisdiction of a Free State, whether there voluntarily or involuntarily.

Resolved, That Intemperance is a public evil, perilous alike to the best interests of society and the stability of the Republic, over which, as long as the Legislative power of the State may be legitimately exercised, that year experience demonstrates the efficiency of Prohibition in its suppression; and we will, therefore, firmly maintain the Prohibitory law now upon our statute books, and consent to any amendment or modification thereof, except such as shall manifestly tend to strengthen and perfect its efficiency and power.

Resolved, That Principles and Character, not Birthplace, should be the test of admission to citizenship; that in standing "against the insidious wiles of foreign influence," we but act as they the patriots of the immortal Washington, the Fathers and preserver of the Republic; that while, true to our fraternity, the oppressed of all nations, we are determined to protect the Republic from the intrusion of the degraded and the ignorant; some would, leaving the immigrant and the outlight to participate in the blessings handed down to us by our forefathers, it is our duty to maintain in their full purity the institutions which they have bequeathed to us; that any political-religious interference in temporal affairs which tends to "a union of Church and State," is at war with the fundamental principles upon which alone a free State can enjoy a lengthened existence; and that in the selection of public officers, those only should have a voice whose education will permit them to exercise their judgment, regardless of priestly dictation or religious prejudice.

Resolved, That the enthusiastic Councils and Lodges be urgently requested to work diligently and harmoniously for the selection and advancement of candidates for public offices who will firmly, consistently, and warmly labor to carry out the principles embodied in the foregoing resolutions.

The large number in attendance, the character and position of the delegates, and the enthusiastic unanimity which marked the proceedings, convinces me that the spirit of these resolves will be thoroughly and devotedly carried out in the Fall election; and a somewhat extensive communication with the people in this section of the State, satisfies me that until the questions of Slavery and Prohibition shall be settled, there can no other issues be presented to the electors, which will obtain even a hearing. The sentiment of hostility to Slavery strengthens every day, and any party that honestly and steadfastly labors for the restriction of the Slave power must acquire and maintain the political control of the State. I hear little said of men, but a constant and determined recurrence to the policy of putting in nomination none but those whose known antecedents and proclivities can leave no possible room to doubt their position upon this question of Freedom or Slavery. In the central and western portions of the State, a ticket blazoned with the names of those who had not been proved and approved friends of Freedom would not obtain votes enough to be worth the canvassing.

The agriculturists of this portion of the State begin to feel uneasy and dispirited at the unpleasant prospect of the harvest. With a growth of products far exceeding that of any late years, they are threatened with its almost entire destruction. On the line of public travel, I see almost every field of wheat is cut, and left lying in the swath, the protracted wet weather preventing its being gathered in. I am told that much of the berry thus exposed has commenced a second growth, which unfits it for breadstuffs—though it can be and is used for the manufacture of starch, and for that purpose brings nearly two-thirds the price of a prime article. Doubtless much of the ill-omened information we have relative to the extent of the damage done is the coinage of speculators, who have an interest in maintaining the present high prices of flour—but still I think in this State the evil is quite as serious as is designed. I never observed a more luxuriant growth of the potato than is universally to be seen this season. Almost simultaneously with the commencement of the rot some years since, it was noticed that there was an entire absence of the blossom and seed balls. Within the past five years, it has been almost impossible to obtain any seed, and I have looked over entire fields without being able to find one ball. This year we have a decided change. Everywhere the fields present the appearance of flower gardens, and there is a corresponding improvement in the vigor and color of the vines. I have strong hopes centred in this change, and feel satisfied in my own mind it foretells that the potato is recovering from a protracted and debilitating disease, and that it will soon regain its former strength and constitutional productiveness.

The provisions of the Prohibitory law seem to be indifferently observed in this place. The small dram shops have been closed, and the hotels have cleared out their bars. Nevertheless, "original package" appears to be in full supply, and in brisk demand. I notice six or seven stores having signs signifying that they are "licensed to sell liquor," at which, I understand, there is no difficulty in procuring the smallest package, upon a verbal assurance that you are unwell, and desire it for medicinal purposes. On the principal street, there is a store, in which they do not even even that much, but furnish the article in bottles of a half pint and upwards, to all applicants, providing they pay the fine, which is put at $10 the gallon, for brandy. Rather a steep price that—but then, you know it is imported. The number and variety of the judicial decisions already given upon the various provisions of the law, appear to make it impossible for the friends of the measure to decide upon what course they should pursue. They are now in a state of doubt and inaction, but I think the promulgation of a decision adverse to the views of the dealers, would be the signal for an onslaught upon all offenders that would be annihilating. Meanwhile, it is conceded, even by the opponents of the law, that it is doing much more good in the suppression of intemperance than they ever anticipated from it. My own observation corroborates this concession.

IRENEX.

Annual Meeting of the New-York State Teachers' Association.

UTICA, Wednesday, Aug. 1, 1855.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

The Association commenced its sessions at 10 o'clock this morning, instead of 3 P. M., as previously announced. President E. D. JENNE, of Rochester, occupied the Chair.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. FOWLER, of Utica.

The President made a few introductory remarks and submitted the order of business for the Convention, as suggested by the Executive Committee.

The Association is to hold three sessions a day, viz.: 9 A. M., and at 2 and 7½ P. M.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by W. A. S. PALMER, of Utica, one of the Recording Secretaries.

The Associate Secretary, Mr. HEFFRON, of Utica, resigned his office, and Mr. M. H. BEACH, of Seneca Falls, was appointed in his place.

An invitation was extended to teachers and friends of Education present from other States to participate in the deliberations.

On motion of Mr. T. W. VALENTINE, of Brooklyn, a Committee for selecting the time and place of the next annual meeting was ordered. The following gentlemen were appointed: Valentine, of Brooklyn; Curtis, of Rochester; Jenner, of New-York; Heffron, of Utica; Pomroy, of Erie.

The following Business Committee was also appointed: Messrs. Anthony, of Albany; Johonnot, of Syracuse; Bowen, of Albany; Fegles, of Livingston County, and McElligott, of New-York.

Professor T. H. BOWEN, of Albany, after some prefatory remarks, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That a Committee of one from each Judicial District be appointed to report on the progressive legislation required by the educational interests of the State.

Remarks were made by Messrs. HEFFRON, of Utica; ANTHONY, of Albany; POMROY, of Erie, and JENNER, of New-York. After adding Superintendent RICE to the Committee, the resolution was adopted. Adjourned till 2 P. M.

WEDNESDAY—2 P. M.

The Association convened as above. The Chair announced the following gentlemen as the Committee to take into consideration the resolution offered by Professor BOWEN in the morning: First District, J. H. Fanning, of New-York; Second District, Wm. N. Reid, of Newburg; Third District, S. B. Woolworth, of Albany; Fourth District, R. A. North, of Auburn; Fifth District, A. S. Palmer, of Utica; Sixth District, S. W. Clark, of Homer; Seventh District, M. Douglass, of Rochester; Eighth District, S. G. Love, of Buffalo.

The State Agent of the Association, JAMES JOHNNOT, Esq., read his annual report. It gave a flattering account of the establishment and success of Teachers' Institutes in our State, reviewed with much clearness the entire school system, and suggested various means and instrumentalities for its improvement. Normal Schools and Teachers' Institutes were looked upon as prominent means for the advancement of the great cause of Education.

On motion, the time of electing officers of the Association was set down for Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Mr. HEFFRON, of Utica, made a motion that a Committee of one from each Judicial District, to nominate officers of the Association for the ensuing year should be appointed.

Mr. MCELLIGOTT offered a substitute, that said election take place on open nominations.

Messrs. HAZELTINE, HEFFRON and THOMSON spoke upon the subject, after which Mr. HEFFRON's motion was adopted.

A motion was made that the Nominating Committee be instructed to report for President the name of some female member of the Association. The object of the motion was, probably, to ascertain the true position of members of the Association in regard to "Woman's Rights."

The following was proposed as a substitute:

Resolved—That the Nominating Committee be instructed to include in their nominations a fair representation of the female membership of the Association.

A warm discussion ensued, participated in by Messrs. MCELLIGOTT, of New-York, CLARK, of Ontario, WOOLWORTH, of Albany, and FANNING, of New York. Finally, however, the whole subject was laid on the table.

The State Agent having intimated in his report, read this morning, that the financial part of it would be given at another session, a member requested that it be given at this time. The Agent stated that it would be ready by the morrow.

E. PERSHINE SMITH, Esq., Deputy Superintendent of Instruction in this State, delivered an Address on State Education, and showed what Legislatures had done and what they should do, in his judgment, for the cause of Education.

Adjourned till 7½ P. M.

LATER FROM HAVANA.

Arrival of the Black Warrior.

The U. S. Mail steamship Black Warrior, J. D. BULLOCH, Esq., arrived yesterday from New-Orleans, via Havana. Left Havana on the 28th.

The U. S. sloops-of-war Cyane and Falmouth were in port. Officers and crews all well. Capt. GRINNAN had completed all arrangements for the sale of the steamship United States, and will return to New-York after the exchange of property is effected.

The Cyane will leave soon for a cruise in the Gulf.

The Falmouth will remain in port till the 1st inst.

The market is active and bright. Sugars have advanced. The weather is favorable for the growing crops, and the city is remarkably healthy. Freights are not in demand.

On the 1st, lat. 37° 50', lon. 74° 5', exchanged signals with American bark Cadet, standing to the south.

Correspondence of the New-York Daily Times.

HAVANA, Saturday, July 28, 1855.

The steamer Empire City arrived yesterday morning, and having taken on board the passengers left here for California by the Granada and Cenacus City, left for Aspinwall at 10 A. M. She brought no mail for Havana, which we think an inexcusable piece of negligence on the part of the New-York Post-Office folks. The steamers are paid for mail service, and they may as well be allowed to do it. We have now to wait for commercial correspondence brought by the Cenacus until the 9th of August—12 to 13 days, as the case may be. A mail from New-York by this steamer would at least have enabled us to judge of the consideration of what we have to wait for. We were also deprived of the pleasure of going on board of the steamer, to pick up papers, or news from the Chinese, through the exceeding courtesy of the captain, which we trust he will be remembered for when he wants intelligence, by having it furnished him in quantity to suit scarcely.

The United States steamship, sold to Messrs. ZARGONIZ BROTHERS, NORIEGA, OLMO & Co., SALVADOR LARRO and FRANCISCO MARTY Y TORRENS, is to run between this and Vera Cruz—the price, including a new set of boilers, to be placed within eight months, falling a little short of $150,000.

The Green Bird and St. Lawrence are to run between New-York and Havana direct. These steamers are to make independent connections with the Spanish line of ocean steamers—their business and management separate, although several of the parties may be interested in all. The U. S. sloops Falmouth and Cyane still in port—all well. The British sloop Rosalie went to sea yesterday, and the brig Ariel remains at anchor—all well. Commercial reports and files of the Prensa herewith.

State of Our Streets.

It would seem that New-York is destined never to be clean. Those who had hoped that Mayor WOOD and the Sweeping-machines would break the spell, now begin to despair again. This is not strange: time enough has been given. Most people were willing to suspend their judgment until the unhealthy season had fully set in. Now we have reached August; disease and mortality are on the increase among us; and yet who can deny that our streets are quite as filthy in general as they were at any corresponding period within the last three years?

There are exceptions, it is true. Broadway and a few other business streets are passably clean. But look at the back streets and most of the uptown cross streets. Do they appear as if it was anybody's business to keep them clean? When were they in a filthier state? But to be more particular, is not the condition of Washington-street, from the Battery to Rector-street, absolutely a disgrace? Filled as it is with animal and vegetable matter, in different stages of decomposition,—with its sinks choked up with slops of all kinds, and covered with a thick green scum, it is no wonder that the stench of it is intolerable. Duane-street, between Broadway and the Sixth-avenue, is but little better. There is some excuse for this, on account of the widening of the street; but certainly not sufficient to justify the enormous accumulation of filth which is but too evident from Broadway. For obvious reasons the Avenues on which the cars run, and the Fifth-avenue, are in general pretty clean, but the Seventh and Ninth avenues, particularly the former, are at this moment in almost as filthy a condition as we have ever seen them. It were easy to mention several other streets in different parts of the City, which are thus neglected from week to week, and we fear from month to month. For example, can any of our Street Inspectors tell us when, if ever, was that part of Thirty-third-street between the Third and Lexington avenues cleaned? It probably does not contain as much garbage as the lower end of Washington-street, already alluded to; but that it [illegible] tolerated in a half-dozen streets, no one who has seen it can deny.

Why has New-York no Zoological Garden?

This question has often been asked, with some surprise, by strangers; it is now high time that our citizens should put it to themselves. Every intelligent person will acknowledge the benefits to be derived from a well supplied and skillfully managed Zoological Garden in a City like New York. It would be an inexhaustible source of instruction and amusement. More knowledge of natural history could be acquired by a half dozen visits to an institution of this kind than by weeks or months of laborious study.

We have schools, academies, colleges, and libraries, in abundance—all munificently sustained. There is no lack of money—no unwillingness to contribute freely towards any project designed to forward the cause of education. All that is wanting, therefore, is an enterprising company to take the matter in hand, and there is no doubt that it would pay. It would be visited weekly by thousands of the old as well as the young, for "Nature hath nothing made so base, but can Lend some instruction to the wisest man."

There is scarcely a single city in Europe of one-third the size, or one-tenth the importance or wealth of New-York, but has its Zoological Garden. In Germany, there are not less than sixteen; France has a dozen or upwards; England has three or four; and poor as Ireland is, she has at least two—one in Dublin and one in Belfast. Let New-York be without one no longer. Now is the time to attend to it, so that a site may be secured for it in the new Park before the dimensions and location of the latter are finally settled upon.

Crops and Weather in Onondaga County.

BALDWINSVILLE, Onondaga Co., July 31, 1855.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

For nearly two weeks it has rained almost incessantly, and unless we are favored with a little sunshine very soon, all kinds of grain, and particularly wheat, must suffer severely.

Even now "Winter Wheat" has, in many instances, commenced "growing" as it stands in the fields; and grass that had been cut just previous to the commencement of the "rainy season," is of course spoiled.

A farmer told me yesterday he found, upon close examination, that his rye had commenced "sprouting," although he seemed confident that we should have favorable weather before it could be materially injured.

Corn looks quite thrifty, but is somewhat backward; however, no fears of a small crop are entertained.

Of potatoes, there will be the most plentiful crop that we have had for some years, and but a few days since I heard the opinion advanced by a large dealer, that they would be a drug in the market this Fall, at eighteen pence per bushel. Verily, potato-eaters have great cause for rejoicing. At this present writing they are retailed in our streets at seventy-five cents per bushel.

I do not think there will be one solitary peach raised in Onondaga County this season.

The roads are so badly broken up as they were on the 1st day of March. In fact, one can hardly realize that Summer has nearly flown, we have had so little genuine Summer weather. Yours, &c.

THIRTY-TWO LIQUOR AGENTS IN ROCHESTER.—The Rochester Democrat of yesterday, publishes a list of persons, numbering 32, who have received licenses from the County Judge to sell liquors. Nine of the whole number are keepers of drug stores; two are wholesale dealers in liquors; one or two brewers, and several keepers of groceries. One of them, it is alleged, has four times been fined for violating the old Excise laws. Blame is commonly attached to Judge HUMPHREY, for giving licenses so indiscriminately, but that judicial officer regards the law as imperatively requiring him to sign bonds that are made out in accordance with its provisions, and divesting him of discretion in the matter.

FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE WASHINGTON.

RECEIPT OF THE ASIA'S MAILS.

Interesting Details of European Intelligence.

Debates in Parliament on Lord John Russell's Resignation.

LATER FROM THE CRIMEA.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL.

We received the Asia's mails and our exchanges, at a late hour last night. The telegraph from Halifax, has already given a full summary of her intelligence.

The Washington, Capt. CAVENDY, arrived at an early hour yesterday morning, with London dates to the 19th July.

The Moniteur publishes a dispatch from Gen. PELISSIER dated July 12, which states that according to the report of a deserter, Admiral NAKIMOFF was killed by a ball in the forehead, on the 6th, in the Central Bastion. The construction of the batteries of Carenning Bay was being carried on with great energy.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg confirms the intelligence received via Stockholm, of the bombardment and destruction of Levina, and further states that the Prince of Prussia had arrived in the Russian capital.

Intelligence from the Crimea to the 19th of July states that the operations of the siege were going on well, and that the health of the army continued satisfactory.

We learn by way of Paris, that at Kars on June 19, the Russians continued their movements to surround the town with 27,000 infantry, 5,000 cavalry, and 70 guns. The Turks, well provided, awaited the enemy with resolution, orders being given to hold out to the last, and if necessary, to retire upon Erzeroum. The Turkish General demanded reinforcements of men only. Up to June 30, nothing new had occurred at Yenisile.

The Siècle says that the programme of fêtes in celebration of Queen VICTORIA's visit to Paris, will soon be published. The fêtes begin Aug. 17, and will last a fortnight.

The disturbances in Catalonia have been happily appeased.

A Russian sortie took place against the French rifle pits in front of the Malakoff on the night of the 14th inst., which was gallantly repulsed.

The French Minister of War received the following dispatch dated Crimea, July 13.

"The night has been a successful one on the side of the Malakoff Tower. About 1 o'clock the Russians made a sortie with three or four battalions, and made vain efforts to carry an ambuscade on the glacis of the Malakoff Tower. Received by a brisk fire at close quarters, and by the fire of batteries 15 and 16, they retreated, carrying away a number of killed and wounded. The ground in front of the ambuscade was found covered with muskets in the morning. There were also five dead bodies on the ground, one of which was that of an officer. The combat was obstinate. The French lost 9 killed and 11 wounded."

In the House of Commons on the night of the 19th July, Lord JOHN RUSSELL announced the fact of his own resignation, which Her Majesty had been graciously pleased to accept. He assigned the necessity of his resignation to a wrong impression, both in Parliament and among the public, and declared himself quite contented with his present position.

Sir B. LYTTON reviewed the conduct of Lord JOHN RUSSELL, both with relation to the previous and the existing Government, as well as in the Vienna Conferences, and contended that the confidence of the Government was forfeited by the retention of the Colonial Secretary among the advisers of the Crown. In consequence of the resignation of Lord JOHN, the remarks of Sir B. LYTTON, which were brought before the House in the shape of a resolution, were withdrawn, thereby saving the PALMERSTON Administration for the time from certain destruction. On the following evening, however, the Government were again compelled to hear the wrath of Mr. ROEBUCK, who, in a speech of most bitter complaint against the conduct and policy of the Government, proposed that the House, deeply lamenting the sufferings of the army during the Winter campaign in the Crimea, and coinciding with the resolution of their Committee that the conduct of the Administration was the first and chief cause of the calamities which befell that army, do hereby visit with severe reprobation every member of that Cabinet whose counsels led to such disastrous results. After a lengthened conversation, the debate was adjourned until Thursday. A bill to give effect to a convention between Her Majesty and the United States of America, was brought into the House.

The expedition sent in Her Majesty's steamer, the Tenser, to compel the Chief, BURRO MONTON LAKE, to fulfill a treaty entered into between him and Commander SELWYN, of the steamship Pronetheus, in which the Chief promised to pay an indemnity of $1,030 for injury done to the British, had failed. The British had two officers killed, and two seamen, besides others, wounded. Of the 150 rank and file of the West India Regiment forming the expedition, 77 were killed, wounded and missing.

A letter from the Baltic fleet announces the intelligence that on the night of the 23d and 24th June, Her Majesty's ship Hornet, while lying off Lipk Wahas, destroyed by her boats 47 Russian ships, varying from 700 to 200 tons each, which comprises the whole of the Nystad shipping, probably amounting to upwards of 20,000 tons.

A difference has sprung up between the French and Turkish Governments, growing out of complaints on the part of the former that RESCHID PASHA was opposing the project of canalizing the Nile.

The Turkish troops continue to be sent into the Dobroudscha, not with any view to hostile operations at present, but to be in proper position for commencing them after the fall of Sebastopol.

A dinner was given on the 13th, at Paris, by the Secretary of the Imperial Commission to the Commissioners of Foreign Governments at the Industrial Exhibition.

A Commission of three gentlemen, the Recorders of London, Manchester and Liverpool, has been appointed to investigate the conduct of the Police during the Hyde Park riots.

Letters from Turin state that the grain harvest in Italy is most abundant, but in the South the vines are again affected. In Piedmont the disease has not yet developed itself much, and the silk crop here, though not so good as last year, has turned out better than was expected. Altogether, the accounts from the country are most satisfactory.

The Paris correspondence of the Times of the 17th, contains the following notice of a new scheme for raising Austria over to the Allies:

"A project was broken off, about two months ago, in one or two political circles in Paris, which [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

Lord JOHN RUSSELL is no longer Her Majesty's Secretary for the Colonies. He has resigned, and so the debates of yesterday evening have been deprived of their decisive character. Sir E. BULWER could not help withdrawing his motion, since he had no longer any prospect of success; though he did deliver his speech, because he did not wish to lose sleep of opinion. Lord PALMERSTON remains for the time being, firm again. He would stand or fall by his noble friend, he said; but that noble friend had other noble friends who would not stand by him, and so the ex-Plenipotentiary thought it best to become a simple member for the city of London, and to leave the Treasury benches for a seat on third row, behind. His defence, yesterday evening, was a poor one, and the House took it with marked coldness. The question, indeed, was not one of opinion, but one of public political morality. Lord JOHN may change his views as well as anybody else; but what he had no right to do was to utter his belligerent speech on the 27th of May, by which the House and the country have been placed under a false impression about the position of many in the Cabinet. This is what Lord JOHN was wrong in. And his forced retirement is a merited punishment.

However, you must not suffer your judgment to be too much influenced by the factious clamor of the moment. Lord JOHN is not dead, though so much has been said by even the Times. The authority of the Whig leader will be felt, despite even it, once again. And I must say that, although the blunder, selfish ambition, and indecision on Lord JOHN's part, he is the most honorable of living British statesmen. This may be no praise for him, but it certainly gives a comparative value to his personality. It is therefore by this light that the severity of accusations against his Lordship must be regarded, lest we should be led to believe in those prophecies about the irretrievable disgrace of a man, who, after all, has done a great deal of good to his country, and cannot be accused of having grown rich in office. True, if we were to believe some whisperings we hear [illegible] there, his Lordship has been bribed, and will receive I don't know what honors and emoluments from Austria and Russia.

Many a venal though unbought politician will tell you the very sum of gold rubles for which the chief of the RUSSELLS has promised to sell his country. Lord JOHN's conduct has certainly been most injurious to his reputation as a thoughtful statesman, and legislators like Roebuck may fairly claim the right of branding that conduct as unworthy of a British Minister; but then it is perfectly disgusting to hear the world-be-patriots indignation and insulting vituperation of men who are ten thousand miles below the disgraced leader's public as well as private morality. Quis talem? Gracchi [illegible] sutlerum? Who could bear with BERNSTORFF and Co., condemning a RUSSELL? Are the Tory leaders a whit better than their antagonists? Is PALMERSTON better than his retired friend? Why, the immorality is in the class, and this class is maintained by the system of organized corruption, which is upheld, however unwilling, by that great middle class of society, which might, if it is so willed, overthrow this whole fabric of political [illegible] called the "home and foreign policy of Great Britain," but which seems to be here on earth except money making, and will buy peace "at any price," provided it should not affect the pocket.

I am writing, I confess it, under the influence of indignation, caused in me by the reading of a particularly article on "[illegible]" in the Westminster Review, which [illegible] have in all its [illegible] of corruption. If this article had been written by a foreigner, there would have been [illegible] against the [illegible] and [illegible] of the Atlantic [illegible] in America, [illegible] in Europe.

[illegible]

[illegible] Russian officers, wounded on the 16th of June, at Sebastopol, is Major-General TOTTLEBEN, who was badly injured by a rifle ball in the calf of his leg. This is the officer who planned and executed the defences of Sebastopol. He is the scion of a German family long resident at Riga, and this foreign origin is perhaps the reason of his not being popular in Russia, combined with jealousy at his great talents and rapid promotion. He was a great favorite of the late Emperor, and appears to be also in favor with the present Czar, who has just granted him the distinction of having his name engraved on the marble tablet in the dining saloon of the Military Academy (where he was educated,) on which are inscribed the names of those pupils who, in later life, distinguish themselves by their talents or courage in the field. Last Autumn, before the commencement of the siege of Sebastopol, TOTTLEBEN was only a simple Captain of Engineers.

This city is now almost denuded of regular troops, whose place is filled up either by little boys from the Military Academy, or else by the half-uniformed corps of the lately organized militia.

There is no truth in the report circulated by foreign papers that the Czar is in a decline and not likely to live long. It is true that he is not of so robust a constitution as his late father, but there is nothing in his health or appearance to indicate consumption or the existence of any other chronic disease.

The Army of Russia.

The London Press (weekly) of July 14, publishes the following, with the remark that it comes from a high authority at Berlin:

BERLIN, Tuesday, July 10, 1855.

I hasten to communicate to you the important intelligence that the Prussian Government have received positive information from St. Petersburg that the effective army of Russia amounts, at the present time, to 650,000 men. Of this force, it is ascertained that there are 140,000 in the Crimea, and that already Gen. LUDERS and Gen. GRABBE—the former with 80,000, the latter with 60,000—are advancing to the relief of the garrison of Sebastopol by forced marches. The knowledge of these facts, proceeding from an authentic source, has produced a great sensation here. It cannot be doubted that Russia is straining every nerve to secure the active cooperation of Prussia by an imposing display of strength. Nor can it be a matter of surprise that the intelligence I have here conveyed to you should have great weight in her councils.

The Debate in the House of Commons on Lord John Russell.

In the House of Commons, on the 18th, on the orders of the day being called,

Lord J. RUSSELL stated, that having on Thursday signified to the First Minister his wish to retire from the service of the Crown, and her Majesty having been graciously pleased to accept his resignation, he held office only until his successor was appointed. Recent events, he proceeded to say, having been complicated and perverted, he wished to place before the House some account of his conduct in these difficult transactions. It had been said that he had pledged himself to use his influence with the Government to accept certain Austrian propositions. This was not true, but it was true that he did lay these propositions before the Cabinet, and he did so in concurrence with persons of great weight and authority. He brought those propositions to London on the 29th of April, and a Cabinet was held, at which they were not adopted, circumstances having occurred, quite independent of the merits of the propositions themselves, which made it, to his mind, impossible to agree to them. With regard to the merits of those propositions, he justified the opinion he had first formed of them, believing then that they might afford the means of combining all the Powers of Europe against the future aggressions of Russia, and placing Turkey in a secure position. Having stated the general grounds upon which he had thought at the time that the propositions might have been accepted, he went on to show that further knowledge of the views of Austria as to the obligations imposed upon her by the treaty of December the 2d induced Her Majesty's Government to think that it was not worth while to enter into negotiations founded upon her last proposition, and in these circumstances, things reverted to their original condition, and war must be continued to obtain the objects for which it was commenced. It had been made a reproach to him, he observed, that, in a speech made since his return from Vienna, he had been in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war, or, in the words of Mr. DISRAELI, became "an uncompromising advocate for war." After the rejection of the Austrian propositions he had no other course. But it had been said that the House had not been informed at the time of the fact of those Austrian propositions. He was not responsible, he said, for that; it was the duty of the Foreign Secretary to make this communication; but he thought it was quite right on the part of the Government to abstain from a premature communication, which would have been unjustifiable and a dereliction of duty on their part. Mr. DISRAELI and others seemed to believe that there were but two abstract things to be considered—one peace, another war. But the Government had viewed the matter differently; they thought peace preferable to war; that satisfactory terms might be obtained, and that a limitation of the Russian fleet would furnish a security, though an imperfect one, that would justify a termination of the war. When the propositions of Austria were refused he felt back upon his former opinions, and from the week ending the 5th of May the Cabinet was as united a Cabinet as he has ever known; but the impression seemed to prevail that, because he had taken a favorable view of the Austrian propositions, he must be ever after incapable of serving her Majesty during the war. He was not of that opinion. Finding, however, that impressions, founded either upon errors he had committed or upon misapprehension and misrepresentation of his conduct, were so wide and general that his presence in the Cabinet would be disadvantageous, he had pressed his resignation, which had been tendered once before. Having taken that course, he did not feel at all discontented at the position in which he stood. He had acted on what he believed to be for the benefit of his country, and with a view to the public interests. He rejoiced to have left sincere friends in the Cabinet, and, although there was another class of friends who were of a different character, he trusted they were few, and he regarded them with nothing but contempt. He had been slandered and calumniated, he said, but not had Lord ALTHORP and the gallant and good Lord RAGLAN, who had been pursued by slander to the verge of the grave. Whatever errors he might have committed, he had always endeavored to satisfy his own conscience.

Sir E. B. LYTTON said, as Lord J. RUSSELL had entered upon a vindication of his conduct, he trusted that the House would allow him to vindicate the motion of which he had given notice, and which declared that the continuance of Lord J. RUSSELL in office had shaken the confidence of the country in the Administration. It was not on light grounds that he brought forward such a charge against a man so eminent, and against a Government so justly entitled to compassion. Sir EDWARD THEN entered upon an extended criticism of the conduct of Lord J. RUSSELL, from the period of his secession from the Administration of Lord ABERDEEN, pointing out his inconsistencies, down to the period when his language in that House, he said, invited the country to prosecute a war which he believed to be unnecessary. When allusions were made in the House to a proposal from Austria he had evaded the matter, and left the country and the greater part of Europe in the dark regarding it. He inveighed strongly against this want of candor. Referring to the last proposition which the Noble Lord had made to the Cabinet, he said, he could not but admit the frank, hearty and English tone of the communications of Lord CLARENDON; but he observed that the First Minister carefully abstained from consulting the Foreign Secretary, lest he could concur with his opponent. Was the Cabinet now united for the objects of the war? Was Lord CLARENDON the spokesman for the Cabinet? There were members of it in the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the First Lord of the Admiralty, whose opinions upon the subject he should be glad to know. It appeared to be mine, he observed, whether the secession of Lord J. RUSSELL removed the only obstacle to earnestness in the prosecution of the war.

Mr. BOWYER gave some explanations respecting a statement that, on the part of a number of his colleagues, not of the Cabinet, and himself, he informed the First Minister that they could not oppose the motion of Sir B. LYTTON, which, he said, as far as he was concerned, was the very reverse of the truth. He, however, admitted, amid the loud laughter of the House, that he had made a communication of this very nature to Lord J. RUSSELL, which, although painful to himself, he felt it to be his duty to make to him as a friend.

Lord PALMERSTON declared that he had never heard a speech more full of inconsistencies than that of Sir B. LYTTON, who had argued, he said, as if Lord J. RUSSELL had from the day he resigned from Vienna continued to be of opinion that the arrangement proposed by Austria was proper to be adopted. He gave Sir B. LYTTON his choice between deliberate insincerity and the grossest ignorance, when he said that he allowed credit to Lord CLARENDON for his communications, yet regarded him as only the organ of his individual opinions. Did he believe this? If so, he must be as ignorant as a child. He denied that there was any division of opinion in the Cabinet on the subject of the war; all were animated by the same determination to carry it on with all the vigor which the resources of the country would supply.

Mr. DISRAELI observed that with a defence of an Administration placed in a most critical position, as that just offered by Lord PALMERSTON, he did not suppose any person had ever listened to. Sir E. LYTTON had expressed the feelings of the country in regard to the noble Lord and his colleagues, and the reply was a reckless statement, upon which he (Mr. DISRAELI) would not make a single remark if the subject were not of the utmost importance. After commenting upon the inconsistencies of Lord J. RUSSELL, and the ambiguities in the language of the Government, he inverted to the tone adopted by Lord PALMERSTON, and inquired whether or no it was a fact that there had been a general understanding between the Governments of England and France that the terms in question would be accepted, and that this was communicated to Lord J. RUSSELL. [Lord PALMERSTON said "No."] If the Parliament lasted six weeks, he believed this statement would be received by a majority of the House as authentic.

Mr. ROEBUCK said, Lord J. RUSSELL had led the House to adopt an opinion which gave Lord PALMERSTON a large majority, and had induced him (Mr. ROEBUCK) to vote in a particular way. He had practised a deceit upon him, and Lord PALMERSTON had concurred in it. He wanted to know the traitors now in the Cabinet. Lord JOHN had not, in his opinion, done his duty to the House, to his country, and to his own honor.

Sir G. GREY, who had been named by Mr. ROEBUCK, declined to answer an interrogatory put to him without a shadow of ground. The papers before the house showed, he said, what had been the opinion of the Cabinet on the subject of the proposition of Austria, and, as a member of the Cabinet, he was bound by that opinion. The Government had come to the unanimous conclusion that their duty to the country required that the proposition should be rejected, and the dispatch of Lord CLARENDON was communicated to every member of the Cabinet before it was sent.

Mr. GLADSTONE observed, it was plain that, as the House had debated the subject of the negotiations with most imperfect information, there must be an early opportunity given for returning to it. The papers recently laid on the table raised some questions respecting which it was desirable that the Government should afford information with regard to the rules applicable to papers meant to be made the foundation of debate and decision. He pointed out various other matters in which explanation was needed, expressing a doubt whether the Government had observed the relations they owed to the House.

The motion for postponing the order of the day till after the notice of motion given by Sir B. LYTTON was then withdrawn, and the House proceeded to the orders of the day.

The Extinction of Lord John Russell—Review of his Political Career.

From the London Times, July 17.

The incident which has terminated the connection of Lord JOHN RUSSELL with the present Administration, and changed, for the twentieth time in the last few years, the head of the Colonial Office, does not derive its sole or even its chief interest from the late negotiations at Vienna or the conduct of the war. This occurrence is the last link in a chain of transactions which appear to us to leave no excuse either to Parliament or to any party in this country for ignorance of the true character of Lord JOHN RUSSELL as a public man. Our own opinion of that character has long been formed, and not unfrequently expressed; it is now justified and confirmed by evidence so irresistible and demonstrative that we hear of no attempt to combat the conclusions which a more correct estimate of Lord JOHN RUSSELL's disposition and abilities had long ago suggested to us. Yet, so powerful in this country, but more especially in the House of Commons and in what is called political society, are the ties of old association, the fictions of party, and the influence of coteries, that it required a failure and misconduct as gross as that we have recently witnessed at Vienna on the part of Lord JOHN RUSSELL to drive him from the position he still sought to retain. Nothing in this transaction is more significant than the fact that the fatal blow was struck at last by the subordinate members of the Whig party in the House of Commons, who could no longer endure to be led by a man who had so ill-served his country in the face of Europe. It is understood that Lord JOHN RUSSELL had previously tendered his resignation to his colleagues in the Cabinet, but that they declined to accept it from that mistaken tenderness which sometimes plays the part of weakness. The members of the Government not being members of the Cabinet, but serving under it and voting for it in the House of Commons, were of an opposite opinion; and they finally announced to Lord JOHN RUSSELL himself and to the Prime Minister, that if the late Plenipotentiary to Vienna did not withdraw from office before the debate on Sir BULWER LYTTON's motion, they were themselves prepared to quit office and to record their votes against the Ministry of which Lord JOHN RUSSELL still formed part. These gentlemen appear to have acted with a spirit and independence which does them much honor, and we trust that there is some one to be found among them capable of leading hereafter the great Liberal party in this country with more energy, ability, and honesty than have been displayed while Lord JOHN RUSSELL affected to perform that duty.

It is not to be supposed, however, that the fall of Lord JOHN RUSSELL from the position he once occupied in the estimation of his party and of his countrymen has been the result of any sudden pique or extraordinary incident. Although his conduct at Vienna and since his return has roused the just indignation of Parliament, and terminated, as we hope, his career as a Minister of the Crown, the decline of his influence and of his reputation has long been perceptible. In December, 1851, he availed himself of an event on which he had the feelings of the country with him to eject Lord PALMERSTON from the Foreign Office, and although, opposed as we had been to the foreign policy of Lord PALMERSTON in Greece, Sicily, and elsewhere, we viewed that change without regret, the measure was a strange act of perfidious treachery on the part of Lord JOHN RUSSELL against a colleague whom he had shortly before described and defended as the British Minister par excellence. A very few weeks served to show that Lord JOHN RUSSELL was utterly incapable of prolonging the existence of the Government of which he had been the head since the overthrow of the Cabinet of Sir ROBERT PEEL; and, on looking back to that period of six years, we must say that an insurrective and unconstitutional [illegible] never existed for so long a period in this country. It was kept in office mainly by the dread of letting in the Protectionist party, and so inflicting the grand commercial reforms of Sir ROBERT PEEL. Yet in 1852 the Protectionist party were restored to office, though only long enough to compel them to abjure the doctrines for which they had so vehe-

[illegible] BERNE, Cottenham, [illegible] which Mr. GLADSTONE has [illegible] the frank, hearty and English tone of the communications of Lord CLARENDON; but he observed that the First Minister carefully abstained from consulting the Foreign Secretary, lest he could concur with his opponent. Was the Cabinet now united for the objects of the war? Was Lord CLARENDON the spokesman for the Cabinet? There were members of it in the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the First Lord of the Admiralty, whose opinions upon the subject he should be glad to know. It appeared to be mine, he observed, whether the secession of Lord J. RUSSELL removed the only obstacle to earnestness in the prosecution of the war.

Mr. BOWYER gave some explanations respecting a statement that, on the part of a number of his colleagues, not of the Cabinet, and himself, he informed the First Minister that they could not oppose the motion of Sir B. LYTTON, which, he said, as far as he was concerned, was the very reverse of the truth. He, however, admitted, amid the loud laughter of the House, that he had made a communication of this very nature to Lord J. RUSSELL, which, although painful to himself, he felt it to be his duty to make to him as a friend.

Lord PALMERSTON declared that he had never heard a speech more full of inconsistencies than that of Sir B. LYTTON, who had argued, he said, as if Lord J. RUSSELL had from the day he resigned from Vienna continued to be of opinion that the arrangement proposed by Austria was proper to be adopted. He gave Sir B. LYTTON his choice between deliberate insincerity and the grossest ignorance, when he said that he allowed credit to Lord CLARENDON for his communications, yet regarded him as only the organ of his individual opinions. Did he believe this? If so, he must be as ignorant as a child. He denied that there was any division of opinion in the Cabinet on the subject of the war; all were animated by the same determination to carry it on with all the vigor which the resources of the country would supply.

Mr. DISRAELI observed that with a defence of an Administration placed in a most critical position, as that just offered by Lord PALMERSTON, he did not suppose any person had ever listened to. Sir B. LYTTON had expressed the feelings of the country in regard to the noble Lord and his colleagues, and the reply was a reckless statement, upon which he (Mr. DISRAELI) would not make a single remark if the subject were not of the utmost importance. After commenting upon the inconsistencies of Lord J. RUSSELL, and the ambiguities in the language of the Government, he inverted to the tone adopted by Lord PALMERSTON, and inquired whether or no it was a fact that there had been a general understanding between the Governments of England and France that the terms in question would be accepted, and that this was communicated to Lord J. RUSSELL. [Lord PALMERSTON said "No."] If the Parliament lasted six weeks, he believed this statement would be received by a majority of the House as authentic.

Mr. ROEBUCK said, Lord J. RUSSELL had led the House to adopt an opinion which gave Lord PALMERSTON a large majority, and had induced him (Mr. ROEBUCK) to vote in a particular way. He had practised a deceit upon him, and Lord PALMERSTON had concurred in it. He wanted to know the traitors now in the Cabinet. Lord JOHN had not, in his opinion, done his duty to the House, to his country, and to his own honor.

Sir G. GREY, who had been named by Mr. ROEBUCK, declined to answer an interrogatory put to him without a shadow of ground. The papers before the house showed, he said, what had been the opinion of the Cabinet on the subject of the proposition of Austria, and, as a member of the Cabinet, he was bound by that opinion. The Government had come to the unanimous conclusion that their duty to the country required that the proposition should be rejected, and the dispatch of Lord CLARENDON was communicated to every member of the Cabinet before it was sent.

Mr. GLADSTONE observed, it was plain that, as the House had debated the subject of the negotiations with most imperfect information, there must be an early opportunity given for returning to it. The papers recently laid on the table raised some questions respecting which it was desirable that the Government should afford information with regard to the rules applicable to papers meant to be made the foundation of debate and decision. He pointed out various other matters in which explanation was needed, expressing a doubt whether the Government had observed the relations they owed to the House.

The motion for postponing the order of the day till after the notice of motion given by Sir B. LYTTON was then withdrawn, and the House proceeded to the orders of the day.

The Extinction of Lord John Russell—Review of his Political Career.

From the London Times, July 17.

The incident which has terminated the connection of Lord JOHN RUSSELL with the present Administration, and changed, for the twentieth time in the last few years, the head of the Colonial Office, does not derive its sole or even its chief interest from the late negotiations at Vienna or the conduct of the war. This occurrence is the last link in a chain of transactions which appear to us to leave no excuse either to Parliament or to any party in this country for ignorance of the true character of Lord JOHN RUSSELL as a public man. Our own opinion of that character has long been formed, and not unfrequently expressed; it is now justified and confirmed by evidence so irresistible and demonstrative that we hear of no attempt to combat the conclusions which a more correct estimate of Lord JOHN RUSSELL's disposition and abilities had long ago suggested to us. Yet, so powerful in this country, but more especially in the House of Commons and in what is called political society, are the ties of old association, the fictions of party, and the influence of coteries, that it required a failure and misconduct as gross as that we have recently witnessed at Vienna on the part of Lord JOHN RUSSELL to drive him from the position he still sought to retain. Nothing in this transaction is more significant than the fact that the fatal blow was struck at last by the subordinate members of the Whig party in the House of Commons, who could no longer endure to be led by a man who had so ill-served his country in the face of Europe. It is understood that Lord JOHN RUSSELL had previously tendered his resignation to his colleagues in the Cabinet, but that they declined to accept it from that mistaken tenderness which sometimes plays the part of weakness. The members of the Government not being members of the Cabinet, but serving under it and voting for it in the House of Commons, were of an opposite opinion; and they finally announced to Lord JOHN RUSSELL himself and to the Prime Minister, that if the late Plenipotentiary to Vienna did not withdraw from office before the debate on Sir BULWER LYTTON's motion, they were themselves prepared to quit office and to record their votes against the Ministry of which Lord JOHN RUSSELL still formed part. These gentlemen appear to have acted with a spirit and independence which does them much honor, and we trust that there is some one to be found among them capable of leading hereafter the great Liberal party in this country with more energy, ability, and honesty than have been displayed while Lord JOHN RUSSELL affected to perform that duty.

It is not to be supposed, however, that the fall of Lord JOHN RUSSELL from the position he once occupied in the estimation of his party and of his countrymen has been the result of any sudden pique or extraordinary incident. Although his conduct at Vienna and since his return has roused the just indignation of Parliament, and terminated, as we hope, his career as a Minister of the Crown, the decline of his influence and of his reputation has long been perceptible. In December, 1851, he availed himself of an event on which he had the feelings of the country with him to eject Lord PALMERSTON from the Foreign Office, and although opposed as we had been to the foreign policy of Lord PALMERSTON in Greece, Sicily, and elsewhere, we viewed that change without regret, the measure was a strange act of perfidious treachery on the part of Lord JOHN RUSSELL against a colleague whom he had shortly before described and defended as the British Minister par excellence. A very few weeks served to show that Lord JOHN RUSSELL was utterly incapable of prolonging the existence of the Government of which he had been the head since the overthrow of the Cabinet of Sir ROBERT PEEL; and, on looking back to that period of six years, we must say that an insurrective and unconstitutional [illegible] never existed for so long a period in this country. It was kept in office mainly by the dread of letting in the Protectionist party, and so inflicting the grand commercial reforms of Sir ROBERT PEEL. Yet in 1852 the Protectionist party were restored to office, though only long enough to compel them to abjure the doctrines for which they had so vehe-

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] the Czar's Government would appeal to what passed in the Danish conference, she proceeded in the protocols, as evidence to show how well-founded was the determination of the Western Powers to insist on the exclusion of the preponderance of Russia in the Black Sea, as alone affording any real security for Turkey and for Europe against any ulterior design on the part of that aggressive power. For in that conference the Plenipotentiaries of Russia insisted on substituting on the part of Russia a merely moral for a material guarantee of the territorial integrity and independence of the Turkish Empire, and they refused to be parties to an engagement, which the other Powers were prepared to contract, not only that they should abstain from respect, but also that they should come, and in case of need, by force compel, that independence and that territorial integrity to be respected by others.

The refusal of the Russian plenipotentiaries to be bound by any arrangement by which the objects aimed at could be effectually secured, and accordingly the Fourth point did not come formally under discussion. The interest which England and France have uniformly taken in the welfare of the Christian subjects of the Sublime Porte, however, a sufficient guarantee as to the spirit in which the two powers would have entered upon the discussion of the fourth point, and though [illegible] beyond the control of those persons [illegible] the door against that discussion, it is with no small satisfaction that they have seen that since the commencement of the war, and since the [illegible] of Russia in Turkish affairs has been [illegible] the Sultan has continued to give [illegible] to his benevolent intentions in favor of his Christian subjects, whose condition has of late [illegible] by the wise and [illegible] of their Sovereign.

[illegible] Russian plenipotentiary, [illegible] in the protocol of the eighth [illegible] that the question involved in the fourth point was one of conscience, and not of policy.

It would, indeed, have been fortunate for Europe if this piece of conscience had not been used as an instrument for destroying the political independence of Turkey.

By the treaty of Kainardji it is provided that the Sublime Porte will protect the Christian religion and its churches; and it was upon a complete misinterpretation of this clause, for without even an allegation that its stipulations had been violated, that Russia claimed a right of interference between the Sublime Porte and 10,000,000 of the Sultan's Christian subjects. If the claim had been yielded to, and if a great Power had then been permitted to assume the authority of the Sultan within his own dominions, would, in a great degree, have been transferred to a foreign power, and an important step would have been taken towards the overthrow of the Turkish Empire, and the establishment of Russian supremacy in Turkey.

Europe, then, is indebted to the timely and energetic interference of the Western Powers for its escape from the disastrous consequences with which such a catastrophe must inevitably have been followed.

The conferences of Vienna are now closed, unfortunately without having produced any [illegible] as to the period at which negotiations for peace may with any degree of certainty be resumed. But when that period shall happily arrive her Majesty's Government will steadily keep in view the principles which have guided them throughout the past negotiations, and while seeking to provide for the security, the welfare, and the happiness of the people of Wallachia, Moldavia and Servia, and to ensure the removal of the obstructions which have rendered the navigation of the Danube difficult and precarious, they will neglect no means of obtaining for the Turkish empire and for Europe at large sufficient guarantees against the recurrence of the danger which it is the object of the present war to avert.

In the meanwhile, her Majesty's Government have reason to expect that the Sultan will make liberal and effectual provisions for the privileges and interests of all his Christian subjects.

You are authorized to read this dispatch to the Minister for Foreign Affairs of the court to which you are accredited. I am, &c., (Signed,) CLARENDON.

The Awful Business of War.

From the London Times, July 14.

In fact, the British people, for all that Mr. COBDEN says to the contrary, are resolved to go on just this one A'le perseverance, in spite of losses, disgrace, and even apparently irretrievable disaster. The war may have to stand that greatest and severest, and truest of all tests,—the ordeal of failure. Success is no test. It gilds a bad cause as much as it recommends a good one. Knaves and tyrants may prosper and give thanks. To suffer the loss of friends, to pay largely out of the pocket, to bid farewell to private wealth and national prosperity, to smile on disaster and welcome poverty, all for the sake of a good cause, makes that cause sacred, honorable, and heroic. These are the things that bring us back to the nobility of ancient days. We cannot command success; but England is satisfied that her cause is good, and she will persevere all the more that she has to do so through many obstacles and in much discouragement. What cause so good as to have escaped these trials?

This is the natural feeling of the people, and it is a perfectly right one. A very slight reflection will serve to show that, if there is any subject in the whole sphere of human action on which there ought to be no doubt or demur, it is the awful business of war. A Government may or may not be very careful or unanimous on a question of reform in institutions that have lasted for centuries unreformed, or on a question of railways, or other material improvements; almost any question, indeed, of mere peculiar import may be left open for the variety and fallibility of human judgment; but in war we are assuming, as we needs must assume, the tremendous prerogative of Heaven—the assertion of justice by the sword. The man who takes the responsibility of sending fleets and armies to kill, to burn, to waste, and destroy; to spread ruin among millions, to sow the seeds of endless resentment, to stop the progress of civilization, and drive the human race back again to the desert, ought to be very certain, very hearty, in his hideous work. To do all this doubingly, with a perpetually intrusive misgiving that, after all, there was no need for it, and that we are responsible for these harvests, implies a singular indifference to humanity, justice, and truth. That the nature of the work demands the firmest determination and most unyielding decision, and that hesitation and doubt are sure to be writers in blood and tears, is only a proof of the infinite moral gravity of the task, and the necessity of a thoroughly resolved mind.

The Position and Intentions of the Austrian Government.

The Austrian government has caused its minister at the Federal Diet of Germany to present a document explaining its past conduct, present attitude, and intentions for the future. Passing over the first portion of this paper, which is a justification of the part taken by Austria in the Conferences, we extract the following passages:

"The Austrian Government will candidly explain to its German confederates how it regards its position, and how it wishes it to be understood by all the world.

"There has been a divergence between Austria and the Courts of Paris and London on a question of principle; but the principle contended for by these powers, and which Austria has adopted, is one which, in the view of the Imperial Cabinet, nothing is changed in the natural relations of the other powers.

"The Emperor has not brought it consistent with his honor, or the security of his up army for the interests of his Empire, and Prussia put on the alert [illegible]. The belligerent powers make use of their right; the sentiment of His Majesty respecting the common object of endeavor remains the same. Decided on persevering in her present path, Austria will maintain invariably the recognized bases of peace; she will maintain them, so far as the obligations she has entered into remain of her with all her influence and all her strength. A peace that would not secure the execution of the four guarantee points, such as they were laid down at the Conference, would not offer to Austria sufficient guarantees for the future tranquillity of Europe. Austria, therefore, regards the understanding come to on the two last points as an adjunct fact. She has indicated a mode for regulating the third point; it is requisite that this question should receive a clear and precise solution, ensuring security to the interests of Europe, but the acceptance of which should not be derogatory to the dignity of any one of the powers. Austria has proved by her intervention what importance she attached to the integrity of the Ottoman Empire; she will equally persist for the future in placing Turkey under a general and efficacious guarantee. Not only will she herself respect this guarantee, but in case of need she will also know how to cause it to be respected. Already at this moment she considers herself, in the position she has assumed on the Danube, called on to watch over the maintenance of this principle. He troops will remain in the Principalities until the conclusion of peace, and she hopes to fulfill the mission there on all the end.

"As for the fourth point, Austria relies on the sympathy of Europe for the Christians placed under the dominion of the Ottoman Empire. She has no doubt, so done as the right moment shall have arrived, that all the powers will heartily concern themselves in the interests of the Eastern Christians, respecting, of course, the rights of the Sultan's sovereignty.

"The Emperor would rejoice if ere long the work of peace could be resumed. He caused it to be declared at the Conferences that he would make no demand springing out of his personal interest, but that he would uphold all those presenting a general interest. He will maintain his present attitude so long as he can preserve the hope of attaining the object of his pacific efforts.

"In this state of things His Majesty has felt it his duty to think of alleviating the burdens of his country. Nevertheless, on account of the uncertainty pervading the situation, the measures about to be taken will be such as to enable us to be ready for every eventality. Changes will take place in the position of the troops on a war footing, but they will be combined so as to permit the reunion by the army of its old positions within the briefest space of time.

"Austria demands of the Germanic Confederation, to maintain the attitude it took in consequence of the resolutions passed at the Diet on the 9th of December and the 9th of February. She hopes that the devotion with which she has defended German interests will procure for her the support of her Federal Allies.

Dramatic Performance by Dickens and his Family.

From the London Times.

A performance, to which much interest has attached, took place on Tuesday night in a pretty little theatre, which is one of the numerous ornaments attached to Colonel WAUGH's magnificent house at Kensington. On the 18th, 18th, and 19th of June there were three gatherings of the friends of Mr. C. DICKENS, to witness the representation, at his house, and by himself, some members of his family, and two or three gentlemen of artistic distinction, of a charming little drama by Mr. WILKIE COLLINS, called the "Lighthouse." The brilliant success of those performances well warranted a repetition of the piece, and it was selected as the attraction which should enrich the funds of a valuable charity to which Colonel WAUGH has been, in other ways, a most liberal benefactor. The "Lighthouse" was therefore played on Tuesday to a high-class audience, admitted by voucher and guinea ticket. The actors were Mr. DICKENS, Mr. MARK LEMON, Mr. AUGUSTUS EGG, Mr. WILKIE COLLINS, Mr. CHARLES DICKENS, the eldest son of the novelist, and Mr. HOGARTH; and the lady characters were supported by Miss HOGARTH and Miss M. DICKENS. The play is a melodrama—the scene is laid in the old Eddystone Lighthouse—and the characters are well contrived to display the abilities of the performers and to develop a pleasing story of domestic light and shade. Mr. DICKENS and Mr. LEMON, tried and finished actors, appeared to very great advantage—the personation of a conscience-stricken but obdurate old man by the former, being as perfect a piece of acting as we have ever seen; and Mr. LEMON's hearty, earnest, irascible portraiture of one of the lighthouse men, was also thoroughly genial and unconventional. But all did well, and the grace and gentleness of the two ladies—Miss HOGARTH as a wronged and forgiving woman, who, supposed to have been murdered, reappears to warn and to pardon, and Miss DICKENS as the affectionate and trustful little jeune ingenue of the drama—gave a refined and charming tone to the whole performance. A beautiful drop scene was painted for the piece by Mr. STANFIELD, who also contributed some capital devices for preserving the illusion of storm, spray, and ceaseless play of the waves. A second piece—Mr. DANCE's "Wonderful Woman"—was given, and Hon. Mrs. GEORGE WRETTESLEY, (a daughter of the gallant Sir JOHN BURGOYNE,) sustained the chief character with great ability. But one thing was wanting to complete the eclat of the night, and that was the presence of royalty, with which the performances would have been honored but for the engagements rendered necessary by the visit of the King of the Belgians. Her Majesty was, nevertheless, graciously pleased to express her interest in the success of the performances and to their object.

The Sunday Demonstrations in Hyde Park.

From the Daily News, July 16.

Hyde Park was yesterday the scene of another "demonstration," which, at one time, assumed a rather threatening aspect, but owing to the prompt interference of the police the disturbance was of a character much less serious than that of the Sunday previous. As no placards had been issued during the week, it was generally supposed that no more than the ordinary assemblage of people would take place in the Park. Nevertheless, the authorities had taken the necessary precautions, and the police were in great force in the neighborhood of the park, and at the various stations. The gathering in the park was much inferior in numbers and respectability to that of last week. The "roughs" were the first on the ground, followed by some hundreds of noisy and mischievously inclined boys. Probably not more than 8,000 or 10,000 people were assembled at any hour of the day. The police took steps as on the preceding Sunday to prevent disturbance by directing carriages to avoid the great drive. Most of them did so, and the few vehicles which took the usual route were allowed to pass along without any interruption from the crowd. About 3 o'clock, a half tipsy man, shabbily dressed, stood upon the protuding roots of a tree, which served as a rostrum whence to address to those in his immediate vicinity a long rambling speech, the wisest part of which probably was the concluding sentence, in which he announced his intention of going home directly. Two men, who represented themselves as his friends, took him by the arms after his speech, for the purpose, as they said, of seeing him home, and preventing the police meddling with him; but it was immediately removed that they were themselves constables in plain clothes, and a mob, composed chiefly of boys, followed at their heels, shouting and cheering, and continually increasing in numbers until they passed out of the Albert-gate, when they were nearly a thousand strong. Their appearance outside the Park caused great alarm, and as they proceeded onward to Wilton-place the cry was raised, "They are going to the squares to smash the windows again." However, before they had got twenty yards, they turned back suddenly, and reentered the Park by the gate opposite the Turkish Exhibition. A second transition took place some time afterwards from the Albert gate, and the mob, passing as before down Wilton place, were just beginning to pick up stones in preparation for a skirmish with some gentlemen who expostulated with them, when they were charged by two divisions of police, who, truncheon in hand, proceeded to clear them away, but with great temper and moderation; a task in which they were vigorously assisted by some gentlemen resident in the locality. The appearance of two mounted policemen coming out of the Albert-gate at a trot, with rattling sabres, was perhaps as effectual as anything else in cowing the insurgent riotors. By 6 o'clock the neighborhood was well nigh cleared of its former disorderly occupants, and Hyde Park itself was much of its usual appearance. The police, however, were kept on duty till dark. Yesterday's demonstration will probably be the last.

Irish Remittances from America.

If the emigration within Ireland to the United States is being gradually diminished, as accounts it is, the influx into Ireland of American money, caused by that branch, is steadily on the increase. Just take a few figures in illustration of this statement. The number who left Ireland for all parts of the States, British America, and Australia, in the year 1853, was 192,066; whereas the number who left Ireland in the year 1854 did not exceed 150,200. Of these 111,000 emigrated to the United States, 29,000 to British America, and 16,903 to Australia. In 1853 the amount of money sent home by Irish emigrants to their relatives in Ireland, for payment of passages as well as for various other purposes, was £1,430,000; but in 1854 that amount, vast and wonderful as it was, was far exceeded, it having reached to £1,750,000, or nearly £300,000 over what it was the previous year. In the history of the world there is nothing like this amazing proof of the strength and intensity of the feeling of affection and family attachment which has ever distinguished and adorned the transmitted Irish race.

The Darvel Calculating Girl.

The Ayr Advertiser has an account of a recent public examination at Beith of the little girl whose wonderful powers of calculation have attracted so much notice. The gentleman in charge of the child allowed any one present to propose questions to her. Among the queries then submitted were: How many times does a clock strike in the month of June? 4,320 was the prompt reply; in the year 1855? 56,940; in a lifetime of 70 years? 4,270,500. She was now asked the value of 312 yards of linen at 2s 9½d. per yard, and in 15 seconds she gave the answer, £44 0s. 3¾d. Being requested to show the modus operandi, she began aloud with 312 ¾ make 950, the 4's in 939, 234 times and ¾ over, and so of all the other denominations. She was now asked to cube 792 and give the quotient of that product divided by 19. The product, 502,459,875, and the quotient, 26,445,256 11-19, were both correctly given. In the performance of this last heavy question, her teacher begged to be allowed to give her the square upon the board to assist her memory. She did not avail herself of it.

The excavations going on at Ostia are continually bringing to light most interesting remains of ancient splendor. One of the last prizes is a mosaic pavement, 18 feet long and 7 broad, representing Neptune drawn by four sea horses. Fine fragments of statues and bassi rilievi, silver and bronze medals, leaden conduits, and stucco ornaments, as well as some inscriptions of historical interest, have also rewarded the labor of the excavators.

Marshal St. Arnaud—Interesting Letters from the Seine Field.

The family of Marshal St. ARNAUD have published, at Paris, a selection from his correspondence while exercising the chief command of the French expedition in aid of Turkey. The letters contain much that is curious. They show what has all along been suspected, that the French Marshal regarded the English commander as a drag upon his movements. They also afford a striking illustration of that love of retirement and of home which struggled with ambition in the breast of the old soldier. Writing to his brother, under date of Varna, Aug. 9, he says:

"If I were to give way to my impressions, to my turn of mind, and the feelings of my heart, I should never have written to you a sudden, I am in the midst of one rest tomb, resisting the scourge that is decimating my army, seeing my bravest soldiers succumb at the very moment I most want them, and yet continuing, for all that, the preparations for a formidable expedition. Have there been many such situations as mine in history? My courage and energy shall at least prove equal to the occasion. God, who strikes me with one hand, raises me up with the other."

To his wife, two days later he writes:

VARNA, Aug. 11, 1854.—God spares us no misfortune, no calamity, my dear; I seek all my energy in the depth of my soul. I wish I could find there more resignation; but the most sublime patience flies away at sight of catastrophes so completely independent of the will that are incessantly striking down around you and annihilating with a breath all the good you have been preparing with such difficulty. A violent fire broke out at 7 o'clock yesterday evening at Varna, as I was alighting from my horse on my return from visiting my camp. Almost a seventh part of the town no longer exists.

After landing in the Crimea he writes to Madame ST. ARNAUD the following affectionate letter, in which he utters pleasant visions of home and quiet—visions, alas! never to be realized:

OLD FORT, (Crimea,) Sept. 7, 1854.

MY BELOVED WIFE: The English are not ready, and make me lose precious time. I lost them some flat boats this morning to expedite the landing of the horses, and I hope I shall be able to move at last by 11 to-morrow morning. I shall stop for the night at the Bulganak, so that I may be quite fresh on the 19th, and force the passage during the day. If I can, I will drive the Russians to the other side of the Katcha. I promise you I will give them no time for amusing themselves. The weather is fine, and we are favored. May God protect us yet a few days, and all will go on well. I heard mass this morning under my large tent, and I prayed for you. Four abbés breakfasted with me. They have been a great relation in the army, and the Prince is at the head of it. He says loudly that I am a man, and that but for me we should not be in the Crimea. My health is not so bad to-day. I had a favorable crisis last night; a copious perspiration came to my relief. As I have to endure all my pains, I have two causing ones above my left breast, which agonize me. CABROL says it is my health. I could strangle him.

Nothing as yet is changed in my plans. Prince MENSCHIKOFF may do what he likes, but I shall be before Sebastopol between the 20th and 22d. Perhaps I shall go and attack them on the south, and leave their great preparations on the north side useless. All that will depend on what I shall see when I reach Balbeck. The swifter time moves, my love, the nearer it brings me to you. This doubles my courage. I only think of the moment when we shall be very quiet at home. In the Spring we will take a trip to Italy, and we will return by Switzerland and Germany. We will travel with only two servants, and like plain folks. Do not let us build too many castles in the air, for that brings bad luck.

On the next day he writes to his wife:

"I have just written to Lord RAGLAN that I could not wait any longer, and that I should issue my order of departure for 7 o'clock to-morrow morning, and nothing shall stop me longer."

To his brother he writes:

FIELD OF BATTLE ON THE ALMA, Sept. 22.

To-day every one thinks as I do in the armies and the fleets. The change has been rapid; it began on the 14th, broke out into acclamations on the evening of the 20th, and to-day I am a great man. Such is the world.

Four days after writing this, the Marshal resigned his command, and on the 29th, three days later, died.

Protestant "Help" vs. Catholic "Help"—Ludicrous Discovery.

Those who think their Protestantism endangered by keeping Roman Catholic "help," must feel very much pleased with the present rather remarkable increase of Protestant "help." Before the advent of Father GAVAZZI and the "Angel Gabriel," Protestant Bridgets were like angels' visits; now they are all "the go." Look at their advertisements in the papers, apply to them where or how you will, and in nine cases out of ten they are sure to be Protestant—at least, until they find that you are something else.

A lady of our acquaintance was so much pleased with a recently-imported Irish Protestant girl of this description, whom she lately employed, that she hadn't her two days before she had made her a present of a very handsome Bible. "Musha an' the blessin' of the Virgin be upon you, Ma'am, but that same's the purty book!" "The Virgin!" did you say, Julia? why, you must be a Catholic!" "Indeed an' I amn't, Ma'am, sorra bit o' me; but God betuse us an' harm," added she, crossing herself, "isn't there a Protestant Virgin Mary too?"

The case of Julia is by no means peculiar. Most verdent Roman Catholic girls have recently got it into their heads that if they don't represent themselves as Protestants they will get no place. It would be well, therefore, for those who congratulate themselves on having "got rid of the Papists at last," to pause and consider whether their Julias, too, don't believe in more Virgins than one.

Ferry Commutation.

The Jersey City Ferry Company have given public notice to the commuters that it is indispensable for the protection of the Company that commutation tickets should be shown when required by the ferry master, and the Company will decline a commutation in all cases where there is a want of compliance with this regulation. It has also been intimated that if the Company meets with much difficulty in enforcing this regulation, the commutation system may be entirely abandoned.

NEW-YORK CITY.

A goodly number of adverts and private residences are just now in progress of erection in different parts of the City. The elegant white marble mansion, recently commenced at the corner of Fifth-avenue and Eighth-street, is already in quite a forward state. When completed it will add much to the beauty of that favored locality, and were it not for the proximity of the palatial Brevoort House, it might aspire to be the most magnificent edifice in that vicinity. Higher up in the same avenue, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth, Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets, and at the corner of Thirtieth, some fine buildings are also being erected. That new and rather remarkable looking building—intended for a hotel—between Broadway and Fifth-avenue, near Madison-square, is nearly finished. It has considerable pretensions to architectural beauty, although its style is rather obsolete. In the lower part of Seventh-avenue several respectable edifices are being built. That handsome four-story brick house at the corner of Thirteenth-street is nearly finished. When the others are completed this part of the avenue will possess quite a striking contrast to the mean and squalid appearance of the remainder. Walker-street is also being much improved, between the Bowery and Orchard-street, where some three or four handsome buildings have recently been commenced. Without adding more particulars, it may be said briefly, that there are abundant improvements in progress to show that the gloomy apprehensions caused by the crisis of last Winter are rapidly decreasing, and that the spirit of enterprise which distinguished our citizens in former years is again reviving.

The Liquor Dealers.

The Liquor Dealers' Ward Societies assembled on Wednesday night for electing each three delegates to the Liquors Dealers' State Convention at Syracuse. We subjoin such of the returns as were received at our office on Wednesday night:

First Assembly District—J. W. BLACKBURN, R. C. MONTGOMERY, S. W. WIGHTMAN.

Fourth Assembly District—A. R. BOOTH, MOSES M. LAYARD, HENRY VAN WELSOR.

Sixth Assembly District—JOHN COGSWELL, CHARLES RING, GEORGE COX.

Seventh Assembly District—P. W. ENGS, J. ENGUS, E. W. STEREIN.

Fifteenth Assembly District—No election was held in this district. Two sets of delegates were present. After a long and warm debate, it was agreed to disagree on the election of delegates, and both Conventions adjourned. The dispute is to be referred to the Central Society for arbitration.

The Hards.

The Hard-Shell Nominating Conventions completed their election of delegates to the Syracuse State Convention on Wednesday night. From the Fifth Assembly District, JOSEPH U. BLACKBURN was chosen Delegate, and ALEX C. MORTON Alternate. The Ninth District Convention chose DANIEL B. TAYLOR Delegate, and WM. B. PARSONS Alternate. The Convention of the Fifteenth Ward chosen on Tuesday evening AUGUSTUS SCHELL Delegate, and GEO. C. GENNETT Alternate.

Tenth Ward K. N.'s—Bro. S——n on Trial.

On Tuesday, the 28th ult., our reporter spent a social evening at the K. N. Tenth Ward meeting, and was pleased to see more order than usual. Though delights in a storm at times, he can appreciate a calm.

The meeting of Saturday last, as compared with those, might be called a calm. Only two members were blackballed, and but one hundred and thirty-three were added to the Treasury. Bro. S——n, the Tuesday man who was recently initiated, was called to account for his residing in the Seventh Ward. His answer was that his residence there was temporary, and that he thought he had a right to swear that he resided in the Tenth Ward; because he intended to. His explanation was satisfactory.

F——y B——N and the "little" regalia man obtained the third degree, and both will be in the field this Fall for office.

Dr. A. L. W——E is yet in statu quo.

The meeting passed off quietly and the Brothers went home harmonious. A few more withdrawals, will make them invincible.

Coroners' Cases at Public Institutions.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

"Your Correspondent behind the bush of Reform" begs to reply to a communication from Coroner JOSEPH HILTON. He commences by saying that last Saturday morning Coroner O'DONNELL informed him that he was about proceeding to Bellevue Hospital, to hold the inquest upon the body of MARGARET FERTIS, when he told him that it was his case. That he then dispatched his Deputy to the house of the deceased's husband, "the only living witness in the case," (mark this,) but that this witness would not be home until evening. He "accordingly appointed 12 o'clock the following morning (Sunday) for the proceeding of the inquiry." Now, this is all the excuse he makes for letting this case remain from 9½ o'clock Saturday morning (the time when Dr. O'DONNELL notified him) until 2½ o'clock Sunday—knowing at the same time that the body was in a decomposed state. Twenty-seven hours and a half had then elapsed since the death. Coroner HILTON has only made a bad case worse in his effort to account for his neglect of duty. He was advised that the only "living witness in the case" was summoned to be at Bellevue Hospital at or before 10 o'clock on Saturday morning. His Deputy made great efforts to find him. Where did he look? Any person of moderate intelligence and foresight would have sought for him at the Hospital. But neither Mr. HILTON nor his Deputy did so. It did not suit his convenience to attend to the case upon that day. He saw fit to appoint "12 o'clock the following day (Sunday) for the proceeding of the inquiry." What excuse has the Coroner for putting this case off to so late an hour? He had only to take the testimony of the "only living witness," and he had been dancing attendance upon him for 36 hours.

Now for the peculiar gift he has of economizing truth. Economy No. 1—Coroner HILTON stated to Mr. DALY, in justification of his so long delay in attending to the case of the woman FERTIS, that he did not hear of it until late on Saturday, and then accidentally, and yet he states in his communication that he prevented Dr. O'DONNELL from attending to it, early Saturday morning, by telling him that it was his case. Economy No. 2—Coroner HILTON says that Dr. ANDERSON informed him, after finishing the investigation in the case of the deceased woman, there was yet another inquest to be held on the person of the "Lime kiln Man," and that it "would be impossible for him (Dr. A.) to testify to the cause of his death without making a post mortem examination." Dr. ANDERSON held the post mortem examination three hours before the case of the woman FERTIS was disposed of. I can bring "several respectable witnesses" in proof of this. Economy No. 4—In reference to the case of JOHN HANLON, who was transferred from Bellevue Hospital to the Almshouse in January last, Coroner HILTON says he died before arriving at the Island. This is not so, which can be proved by the Coroner's own records, without "respectable witnesses." Comparisons, 'tis said, are odious; but the comparison that Coroner HILTON makes between a person being brought to Bellevue Hospital in the last stage of consumption, and one suffering from injuries from falling out of a third or fourth story window, is to say the least ridiculous. Coroner HILTON knows that *cases of injury and accident have never been re*fused admission to Bellevue Hospital, and that without a permit from the Superintendent of the Outdoor Poor, or the Governors, and very frequently when they are not entitled to the benefits of the Institution, from the fact of not having been five years in the State. The Governors of the Almshouse took special pains some two years since, to spread abroad the fact, that the gates of Bellevue Hospital would be open day and night for the reception of sudden surgical cases. And the excuse

[illegible]

[illegible] Mr. HILTON has only made a bad case worse in his effort to account for his neglect of duty. He was advised that the only "living witness in the case" was summoned to be at Bellevue Hospital at or before 10 o'clock on Saturday morning. His Deputy made great efforts to find him. Where did he look? Any person of moderate intelligence and foresight would have sought for him at the Hospital. But neither Mr. HILTON nor his Deputy did so. It did not suit his convenience to attend to the case upon that day. He saw fit to appoint "12 o'clock the following day (Sunday) for the proceeding of the inquiry." What excuse has the Coroner for putting this case off to so late an hour? He had only to take the testimony of the "only living witness," and he had been dancing attendance upon him for 36 hours.

Now for the peculiar gift he has of economizing truth. Economy No. 1—Coroner HILTON stated to Mr. DALY, in justification of his so long delay in attending to the case of the woman FERTIS, that he did not hear of it until late on Saturday, and then accidentally, and yet he states in his communication that he prevented Dr. O'DONNELL from attending to it, early Saturday morning, by telling him that it was his case. Economy No. 3—Coroner HILTON says that Dr. ANDERSON informed him, after finishing the investigation in the case of the deceased woman, there was yet another inquest to be held on the person of the "Lime kiln Man," and that it "would be impossible for him (Dr. A.) to testify to the cause of his death without making a post mortem examination." Dr. ANDERSON held the post mortem examination three hours before the case of the woman FERTIS was disposed of. I can bring "several respectable witnesses" in proof of this. Economy No. 4—In reference to the case of JOHN HANLON, who was transferred from Bellevue Hospital to the Almshouse in January last, Coroner HILTON says he died before arriving at the Island. This is not so, which can be proved by the Coroner's own records, without "respectable witnesses." Comparisons, 'tis said, are odious; but the comparison that Coroner HILTON makes between a person being brought to Bellevue Hospital in the last stage of consumption, and one suffering from injuries from falling out of a third or fourth story window, is to say the least ridiculous. Coroner HILTON knows that *cases of injury and accident have never been re*fused admission to Bellevue Hospital, and that without a permit from the Superintendent of the Outdoor Poor, or the Governors, and very frequently when they are not entitled to the benefits of the Institution, from the fact of not having been five years in the State. The Governors of the Almshouse took special pains some two years since, to spread abroad the fact, that the gates of Bellevue Hospital would be open day and night for the reception of sudden surgical cases. And the excuse

[illegible]

Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce held a meeting yesterday, at 1 o'clock, at the Merchants' Bank, FRANCIS PRIME, Esq., President, in the Chair.

Mr. E. M. YOUNG was chosen member of the Committee on Arbitration in place of ARTHUR LEARY, Esq., whose time had expired. Captain GIDEON FOUNTAIN was chosen Marine Surveyor to supply vacancy occasioned by resignation of Captain CARTWRIGHT.

The following communication was received, and, on motion, the President was directed to transmit the same to the Secretary of State.

BOMBAY, Saturday, May 26, 1855.

To the Hon. Chamber of Commerce of New-York:

GENTLEMEN: The undersigned, Captains of American ships and Americans now in Bombay, beg to lay before your Honorable body, the present existing state of affairs regarding the manner in which assistance or protection is refused by the Government of India, to the United States Consul at this port, and through him to American life and property.

English ships arriving at this port, in case of mutiny or refusal of duty on the part of their crews, are protected by the Police authorities, who imprison the men. In contrast, whenever American ships under the same circumstances, are refused all protection or relief from the local authorities whatever, and are often prevented or deterred from using such means on board as the security of the lives of the officers or safety of the ship and cargo demands.

The ship Napoleon, Capt. CRAFTSLEY, of Boston, arrived at this port on the 20th day of May, 1854, and soon afterwards the crew refused duty unless a month's pay was given them, and liberty to go on shore for a few days. This, of course was refused, but the crew who had shipped in Boston to perform the whole voyage, now insisted upon having their discharge, and the Captain applied to the Consul for assistance. The Consul in turn applied to the local authorities, but was refused any assistance whatever, and in the meantime the crew had procured liquor, and became riotous on board. They assaulted the Captain and maltreated him severely, compelled the second mate to save his life by jumping overboard, and took mutinous possession of the ship. The Consul then applied to the Commander-in-chief of the Indian Navy, who, as a matter of courtesy, sent a file of marines on board, and had four of the ringleaders put in close irons, and removed on board one of the ships of war. The Consul afterwards paid the charge of these four men to Calcutta out of his own private purse, with the expectation of the Consul at that port forwarding them to the United States for trial.

The ship David Brown, of New-York, Capt. BREWSTER, arrived at Bombay on the 8th May, inst., and the day following the crew, although they had signed articles in London to return to a port of discharge in the ship—yet, knowing there was no assistance granted to the master or Consul, refused further duty without any cause whatever. In this case the Consul, with the assistance of several American shipmasters in port, succeeded in shipping them all in three hours time, and they were willing to return to their duty. But this course was attended with much loss to the ship, in the retarding of the work, and employment of native laborers and watchmen from the shore.

In view of the increasing number of American ships visiting this port, we venture, in behalf of the commercial interests of the United States, to call your attention to the chance and neglect which our said interest suffers in this port, and which, if suffered to continue, must greatly embarrass our intercourse with all parts of India subject to the same Government, by rendering us, as masters, liable to great danger and annoyance, and our ships (your property,) to heavy and needless expense in procuring new crews; or ruinous delays in waiting for crews, often not to be had at any rate of wages. The objects of a voyage are thus often completely frustrated, as in case of the shipment of a native crew, we are bound by Government, under heavy bonds, to return the seamen to India, which, of course, cripples us in pursuing any voyage we may think best for the interests of our owners.

We therefore pray that you will consult your own interest, as well as the interest of the entire commerce of the United States, by pressing upon our Government the necessity of immediately effecting a Consular Convention between the Governments of the United States and Great Britain, by which more ample powers may be conferred upon the United States Consuls in the dominion of the East India Company, and more assistance granted to our commerce in the parts subject to that Government.

We all unite in paying a tribute of respect to EDWARD ELY, Esq., the United States Consul at this port, for the steady and determined manner in which he has granted us all the support and assistance in his power, and we consider that if his powers were more unlimited, much of the present abuse of our interests would be remedied, and the honor of the United States Government more fully sustained.

Praying that you will give this subject your earnest attention, we remain, Gentlemen,

Your obedient servants,

JOHN G. PENDLETON, bark John Gardiner, Boston.
LEONARD GAY, Master of ship Samuel Adams, of Castine, Me.
HOLLIS MOORE, Ice House, Bombay.
R. T. MARRIOT, Baltimore, Md.
GEO. S. BREWSTER, ship David Brown, New-York.
B. W. SUCKER, ship Swallow, New-York.
E. BURR BROWN, New-York City.

Military.

Captain RICHARD FRENCH, of French's Hotel, was elected on Thursday evening last, to the Colonelcy the 12th regiment of this City.

PROHIBITORY LAW.

Drunkenness in New-York.

THE TOMBS.

A WALL-STREET OPERATOR.

Ludwig Dugan, lives in Thirteenth-street, was found in Water-street, lying on the sidewalk, bought liquor in Wall-street.

MANY A PLACE.

Dennis Egan, found intoxicated and brawling in the street, residence at No. 116 Cedar-street; got liquor in many a place.

GROWN ROUND.

William Smith, found lying in St. John's-park, lives in Reade-street, No. 141; a friend treated him in several saloons, their location being to deponent unknown.

DINNA KEN.

Patrick Reddy, lives corner Centre and Leonard, and don't know where he got his liquor.

A LONG LANE.

Dunn Lane, lives in West Broadway, at No. 36; got liquor in South William-street.

IN HOOT.

Mary Tracy, lives in Dominick-street, can't tell where she got liquor.

Walter Young, of No. 149 West Broadway, can't tell where he got liquor.

FROM HIS ACQUAINTANCE.

William Johnson, belongs on board the schooner Tuesday Greely. Got liquor by falling in with shipmates.

Daniel McDermot of No. 26 Spruce-street, got liquor in Gold-street House.

STORE RUM.

Michael Crow, lives at Glen Cove. Got liquor in stores.

WALKER!

James Lescraft was found lying on the pavement. Lives in Walker-street. Got liquor corner Forsyth and Walker streets.

IN A DEMOCRATIC CARRIAGE.

Margaret Sullivan was brought in a hand-cart, having been found lying on the pavement. Lives in Brooklyn. Got liquor in James-street.

Ann Williams was collecting a crowd in Centre-street. Lives at No. 151 Hudson-street. A friend sent out for rum.

Margaret Castle, lives in Nineteenth-street.

John Shaw, landed from Scotland on Tuesday night. Put up in Washington-street.

ASTONISHING.

Catherine Lanergan, found intoxicated in Hudson-street, lives at No. 54 Anthony-street; is a shirt-maker; took one glass of ale, and was greatly astonished to find the effects of it so great as to bring her to the Tombs.

ESSEX MARKET.

DISTRAUGHT.

Ellen Conday, corner of Catharine and Hamilton street, don't know where she got her rum.

THREE CENTS WORTH.

Margaret Kelly, No. 76 George-street—a woman sent out and got three cents' worth of brandy for her.

SENT A BOY.

Owen McGee, No. 806 Grand-street, bought gin in George-street; don't know the number; sent a boy for the gin; was treated to some the boddem.

A BROOKLYNITE.

John Haley, York-street, Brooklyn, don't know where he got his liquor.

JEFFERSON MARKET.

BEFORE MORNING, ABOUT 10.

Archibald Wilson, of No. 377 First-avenue, drunk, steady, but does not know in what house, nor where he obtained it; knows nothing at all of the matter.

FIVE OR SIX GLASSES.

Hugh Kidney, of No. 599 Seventh-avenue, drunk—five or six glasses of brandy and gin; don't know the place where he got in.

[illegible]

The Lawson Trouble in Tompkins.

The parties of Lawsonites assembled in Tompkins every day for the purpose of party meetings, but they are doing all they intend to do in the way of [illegible] all such purposes, and they said they [illegible].

The following persons were brought before Justice Jacobs, charged with being drunk and disorderly: James Hunt, Mary Gardner, Isabella Chapman, Frederick Burbeta, and Benjamin Gallagher. They were all fined $10, and in default of payment, to be committed to the Penitentiary.

Peter McGarry was brought before Justice Jacobs on the charge of being drunk. He was fined $10.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES FOR THE ALLEGED SEIZURE OF LIQUORS—JUDGMENT FOR DEFENDANTS.

Before Justice Jacobs.

James Atwater vs. George Hunt, H. Jacobs, and J. Hunt.—This was an action brought by the plaintiff against the defendants, for the alleged illegal seizure of his personal property, with the alleged intention of the holding of the same from him. The defendants, GEORGE HUNT, Mayor, H. JACOBS, Justice of the Peace, and J. HUNT, Assistant Captain of the Tompkins Police. The warrant was issued on the 17th of July, on which day the liquors were seized, and placed in the hands of the constables.

R. J. O'BRIEN, Esq., appeared for the plaintiff; J. W. WHITNEY, Esq., and RICHARD, Esq., appeared for the defendants.

The counsel for defendants put in the following pleas:

Defendants deny the authority of the Justice of the Court, and object to the su

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

Miscellaneous Gems.

From Sacredness Words.

Mourn, O rejoicing heart!
The hours are flying.
Each one some treasure takes,
Each one some tie breaks,
And leaves it dying;
The chill dark night draws near,
Thy sun will soon depart,
And leave thee sighing;
Then mourn, rejoicing heart,
The hours are flying!

Rejoice, O grieving heart,
The hours fly fast,
With each some sorrow dies,
With each some shadow flies,
Until at last
The red dawn in the east
Bids weary night depart,
And pain is past.
Rejoice, then, grieving heart,
The hours fly fast!

Frightful Mining Accident.

From the Pottsville Journal of Saturday.

A frightful accident occurred on Tuesday evening at Mr. AGNEW's, Belmont Colliery, in this county—the place is better known by the old name of the Five Points. Four persons, two men and two boys, have been taken out of the slope, dead and dreadfully mangled—one more is not likely to live, and six others are seriously injured. It has been, and may be denominated, an explosion of gas; but more properly it was a powder explosion, for the latter did the most injury, though the "fire damp," as it is generally called, exploded first and ignited the powder.

The mining boss, Mr. JOHN W. DAVIS, went into the mines early in the morning as usual, and examined the works carefully before any of the miners were at work. He found "fire" in one of the "breasts" near the face of the gangway. This breast was worked by JAMES SILVERTHORN and son, and was the only part of the mine considered dangerous. Mr. DAVIS met SILVERTHORN and told him twice that his place was full of fire, and that he should not venture in it with a naked lamp until the gas was driven out. Accordingly, SILVERTHORN took the "safety," or safety lamp, and commenced to brush fire out of the breast. But unfortunately several of the miners were seated around the bottom of the breast, in the gangway with their naked lamps, taking their customary "whiff" before commencing work, and near them were between two and three kegs of powder, open and unprotected.

The gas being driven down the chute past the feeders, penetrated to the gangway, where the miners were seated, and as might be expected, it took fire from their lamps. But the explosion of gas would have been trifling, in comparison to the amount of damage done, had not the powder, which was in close proximity to the men, also ignited and exploded, crushing and bruising everything in the vicinity, and doing considerable damage to the mines. The effect of the shock was felt at a great distance from the scene, and the mines throughout trembled with the concussion. Coal, timber and material were hurled with dreadful velocity for out toward the slope. But the damage done to the work, the amount of which cannot yet be fully ascertained, is nothing in comparison to the dreadful loss of life and limb—the horrid suffering which the fearful accident occasioned.

FREDERICK SAVERBREY and JAMES DEVLIN, the two men who were killed, leave behind them families. The two boys killed were named DAVID MORGAN and ENOCH SILVERTHORN. JAMES SILVERTHORN, the father of ENOCH, is not expected to live—thinks dead. Some of the other six are severely injured. There are eleven killed and wounded.

It seems that some of the men were badly burned except SILVERTHORN, who was in the midst of the gas when it exploded. The rest were mutilated by the powder, which tore out the props and covered the men in the vicinity with fragments of rock and coal. They were horribly mangled.

Steamer Kentucky Blown Back.

From the Cincinnati Commercial, Aug. 1.

On Monday night, between 9 and 10 o'clock, the new stern wheel steamer Kentucky Home, Capt. Geo. W. REED, bound for Louisville, from Pittsburg, came in collision with the huge Cincinnati and Louisville U. S. Mail steamer Telegraph, No. 3, Capt. SAM. HILDRETH, in Sugar Creek Bend, about five miles above Warsaw, Ky., and in less than five minutes went down in twenty feet water. It appears that both steamers were under full headway—the Telegraph ascending the Indiana shore, when the Kentucky Home rounded the point. Capt. PHILLIPS, the pilot of the Telegraph, gave the usual signal by blowing the whistle twice, on starboard, which was promptly answered from the other boat. From some unknown cause, however, when within two hundred yards of the Telegraph, the Kentucky Home suddenly changed her course, making across the Telegraph's bows. The engines of the Telegraph were immediately reversed, and had made two or three revolutions backward, when her bow struck the Kentucky Home on the larboard side, forward the boilers, and directly opposite the hatch, cutting nearly through her, sweeping away the boiler deck, together with her bell, derricks, freight on boiler deck, "nigger" engine, and contents of the bar, and several staterooms.

The officers of the Telegraph immediately run out lines and made fast to the wreck, and used every exertion to rescue those on board. In one moment Capt. HILDRETH and the watchman manned the yawl, to rescue those that might have fallen or leaped overboard from the wreck, while Capt. PHILLIPS very properly ordered the engineers to stop the starboard engine, and examine the wheel, where three men were found clinging to the buckets and saved.

From all accounts there were only two persons drowned—a deck hand and a fireman, who were in the hold of the Kentucky Home getting out freight for Madison. They are probably lost, as they were not seen after the accident occurred. The Telegraph remained at the wreck two hours, and brought the passengers and crew here, except Capt. REED, and Mr. WILLIAMS, pilot on the Kentucky Home, who remained.

The Kentucky Home lies near the Indiana shore, sunk to the hurricane deck, and will doubtless prove a total loss. She had on board but few passengers, and one hundred and fifty tons of freight for Louisville. She was built at Pittsburg, by Capt. Geo. M. REED, Clerk JAS. MELLAN, and others, for $17,000, with insurance in that place for $12,000. Capt. REED has been very unfortunate. It will be remembered that, a few months since, the steamer Forester, belonging to him, was destroyed by fire at New-Richmond, O.

The only damage sustained by the Telegraph was the loss of her jack-staff, and breaking of a few sky-lights.

Death of a Monomaniac.

A correspondent of the Boston Herald announces the death of SILAS LAMSON, so well known as a monomaniac. He died at Shelburne Falls, at the residence of his son, on the 29th, aged 79. He was many years a resident of Sterling, where he was an extensive manufacturer of scythe-snaths, having himself invented the most approved one in use. He there accumulated considerable property, and brought up a large family.

He was at one time united with the Baptist Church; but having adopted peculiar views of religion, and conceived that he had himself a call to preach and teach a new doctrine, he eventually separated from his friends and family, and has for many years been a sort of wanderer. He has resided many years in this city, and, although always harmless, has occasionally come under the ban of the law on account of his idiosyncrasies. His long white beard and white dress, and general patriarchal appearance, have marked him as one of the characters of Boston. The correspondent of the Herald says: "He came back to reside with his wife and sons about a year ago, after a stay in Boston and other places for several years, and has during that time been very quiet and laborious, affording great consolation to his family."

DUELING.—GEORGE D. PRENTICE, editor of the Louisville Journal, thus sets forth his opinions on the subject of dueling:

"We scorn and abhor the whole infamous code of duelists. If at our present age we were to allow ourselves to fight a duel with Mr. J. B. CLAY on account of our comments upon his abusive article recently published by us, we should feel as though we had forfeited all claims to mankind's respect and our own. Yet we do not call ourselves non-combatants. If any man feels himself mortally aggrieved at any publication of ours, he knows, whether we accept a challenge from him or not, where to find us, and he may seek us when and how he pleases. We hold ourselves responsible for what we write. If we think we have given any man just cause to seek our life, we will either permit him to take it without resistance, or, criminal as the act may be, obey his call to the field; and, if any recognized gentleman does us so deadly an injury as to make us thirst for his blood and we cannot send him to the gallows, we will summon him to the field—and if, in such a case, the summons be unheeded, we will poise ourselves upon our own will, and seek redress wherever we can find it."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

CLEARING OUT SALE OF LADIES' SUMMER BOOTS And shoes to make room for new Fall Stock, at HARRIOTT'S BROADWAY FAMILY SHOE EMPORIUM, No. 435 Broadway, corner Howard-st.

☞ We are now Offering the balance of our splendid stock of Summer goods at greatly reduced prices, to make room for our Fall importations and manufacture.

Ladies' French gaiters, slippers and ties, also misses' and children's shoes in every style.

Ladies' gaiters from $1 75 to $2.

N. B.—Just received, a new style of ladies' rubber overshoes for those who wear heels.

☞ Dr. James McClintock's Diarrhœa Cordial gives instant relief, and effects a speedy cure of Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Cholera Infantum, and Summer complaints. Prescribed and used with the happiest effects in Cholera Hospitals and prisons in Philadelphia during the dreadful epidemic of 1832. Prepared by A. CUSHMAN & CO., No. 385 Broadway. Sold by druggists everywhere.

☞ Redding's Russian Salve—25 cts. a Box.—A Boston remedy of 20 years' standing—a sure and speedy cure for Burns, Scalds, Boils, and all external injuries; recommended by physicians. Sold by all druggists in the United States. A. B. & D. SANDS, C. V. CLICKENER & CO., C. H. RING, New-York; WM. R. SIMERS, JOHN GILBERT & CO., Philadelphia, and REDDING & CO., Proprietors, Boston.

☞ Balm of Thousand Flowers—For beautifying the complexion and eradicating all tan, pimples or freckles from the face. PETRIDGE & CO., Franklin-square, New-York; for sale by C. H. RING, Broadway, and all druggists.

OFFICE OF COMMISSIONER'S OF EMIGRATION, New-York, July 21, 1856.

☞ The Castle Garden will be opened on WEDNESDAY, the 1st of August, as the "Emigrant Landing Depôt" for the reception and inspection of all emigrants arriving at this port.

BERNARD CASSERLY, Secretary.

☞ Fancy Goods for Druggists' Sales.—Tooth, nail and hair brushes, Lubin's and Atkinson's Low's brown Windsor soap, Farina cologne, and every article adapted to Druggists' sales, for sale by RUFUS K. McHARG, & CO., Importers, No. 159 Broadway.

☞ The Largest Bread in the City, MADE FROM NEW FLOUR, TEEADWELL'S BAKERY, No. 56 Carmine-st.

PERSONAL.

WILL "ONE WHO KNOWS," OR "S." please say where a note will reach him. It is of great importance—will write particulars. Address M., at this Office.

WANTED.

SITUATIONS WANTED—By two highly respectable Protestant girls. One is a good cook, also a good washer and ironer, understands the care of milk and butter, is a good baker; the other would act as chambermaid and seamstress, or chambermaid and waitress; she can cut and fit to please any family, has the best of City and country references. Call or address No. 24 Division-st., between 5th and 6th sts., in the Bible House.

SITUATION WANTED—By a highly respectable Protestant young man,—no cross, good and unexceptionable references, proving strict moral character, sobriety, &c., from his last place, where he lived for the last eight months—as coachman and to assist in a garden, in a small Protestant family. Has no objections to go a short distance in the country. Call or address by letter for two days at No. 154 Clinton-st., near Grand-st.

SITUATION WANTED—By a respectable young girl, as chambermaid and plain sewer. Has no objections to go a short distance in the country, or to travel with a lady. Inquire in the dry goods store No. 260 1st av., between 16th and 17th sts., for three days. Good City references can be given.

SITUATION WANTED—By a respectable young woman, as cook and to assist in washing and ironing, and is a good baker, and is willing to do general housework. Good City reference can be given. Can be seen for two days at No. 56 Sands-st., Brooklyn.

SITUATION WANTED—By a respectable woman, who work with a sewing machine. She has a good machine, and is willing to take work to manufacture, either from a store or any one desiring machine sewing. Address H. K. N., this office.

SITUATION WANTED—In the City or country, by two very experienced girls, with good City reference. One as a good cook, and to wash and iron, in a private family; the other as chambermaid and waiter, or as chambermaid and seamstress. Call at 17 4th-av., in the bookstore.

50 MEN WANTED—Of good address, to engage in a genteel business, where by the investment of $10, $5 a day can be made. Address a letter, containing three cents or stamp, to JAMES WARNOCK, No. 342 Broadway, New-York, and full particulars, with a specimen of the article, will be sent by return mail. Those residing in the City can call.

TALENTED BUSINESS MEN WANTED—In this City, and in all parts of the country, by J. H. COLTON & CO., No. 172 William-st., as agents for a handsome and valuable $2 Book, which cannot be obtained at the bookstores. Each agent will have his district. This is a rare chance.

A MASTER MACHINIST—Of industrious habits, at present waiting for a situation, would like to hear of a chance to superintend the building of some kind of milling, sewing or manufacturing property. Persons owning idle property where water or steam power can be introduced, will find just the man they want by addressing MILL-WRIGHT, this office.

DOMESTICS WANTED—In every capacity (male and female,) at the Female Industrial Institution, No. 356 Fulton-st., under the approval of the Mayor. Sewing is provided for those waiting for situations, to enable them to pay for board. A competent woman is wanted to take charge of the sewers. Wanted immediately, a good nursery girl, cook and chambermaid, and several Protestants for general housework. Mrs. ALLEN, Female Superintendent, F. BROWNE, General Agent.

COMPETENT AGENT OR CANVASSER WANTED in every City in the Union, to dispose of Kidder's Gas Regulator and Rights under the Patent. None but thorough and efficient men need apply to J. L. DOUGLASS, Secretary, No. 263 Broadway.

TEACHER WANTED.—Wanted, a gentleman competent to take charge of the classical department in a boarding school for boys, a few miles from New-York. The engagement would commence in September next. Address Box B., Norwalk, Conn.

A YOUNG LADY wishes a situation as teacher of the common and higher English branches and mathematics in some literary institution. Address E. P., Box No. 216, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

BOY WANTS A TRADE—17 years old; he would like ship-building or machinist, or any trade in which he would not be required to sit steady; his grandmother would like to place him with a steady, respectable man, as he is an orphan. Further information can be given by calling at No. 238 West 18th-st.

BOY WANTED.—An active, intelligent boy, from 16 to 18 years old, who resides with his parents, is wanted in a jobbing house; he must be stout and healthy, and willing to devote his time to his business. Good reference required. Salary $50 the first year. None need apply but such as can fully answer the description. Box No. 3,622.

BOY WANTED—13 or 14 years of age. Apply at No. 122 Court-st., Brooklyn, front room, first story, between 11 and 12 o'clock A. M.

MILLINERS.—GOOD TRIMMERS WANTED IMMEDIATELY.—Apply No. 60 Barclay-st., up stairs.

TO SILVERSMITHS.—Wanted, several Spoon-makers, by WOOD & HUGHES, No. 104 Fulton-st.

BOARDING.

BOARDING ON BROOKLYN HEIGHTS—Between Fulton and Wall-st Ferries, for gentlemen, with partial board, in a private family. The house and situation very desirable. References unexceptionable. Address during the month of August, with real name, W. ANDREW, Times Office.

BOARDING—Wanted by a single gentleman, teacher of music, two small furnished rooms, or one middling sized room, with full or partial board, in a private family. Catholic preferred; location about five minutes' walk from Chatham Square; rent not to exceed $18 or $20 a month. Address TEACHER, Chatham Post-office.

BOARDING ON BROOKLYN HEIGHTS.—A Gentleman and their Wife, also Single Gentlemen can be accommodated with permanent or transient Board at No 99 Cranberry-st., corner of Willow; about three minutes' walk from the Fulton and Wall-st. Ferries.

BOARD WANTED—By a gentleman and wife, in a family or boarding-house where they would meet with persons of intelligence and refinement. Would not object to a French family. Would be permanent, if suited. Address HERO, Tribune Office, stating terms.

BOARD WANTED—For a gentleman and his wife, from the 1st of September next, in a private family, residing between 10th and 16th sts., west of and near Broadway. Address, stating terms, location, &c., R. W., Box No. 3,133 Post-Office.

ROOMS WANTED—In 20th, 22d, or 21st sts., near 4th or 6th avs., two or three rooms suitable for a dentist or physician. Address R. V., Times Office.

BOARDING AT THROG'S NECK, WEST-CHESTER—Two or three families may be comfortably accommodated with board, or if preferred half or the whole of a large house may be had furnished, with a good vegetable garden, fruit, carriage-house and stable. Inquire of E. UNDERHILL, on the premises.

COUNTRY BOARD AT YONKERS.—Persons seeking good accommodation, with splendid country and river scenery, and close to depôt and steamboat landing, may apply on Warburton-av., near Lamartine-av., to JAMES YOUMANS, or Yonkers Post-Office.

MRS. BARBER—Formerly of East Broadway, now occupying the large five-story house, No. 461 Broadway, near Broadway, can accommodate a few more single gentlemen or married couple with pleasant rooms, on the most favorable terms; baths, &c.

WHISKERS OR MOUSTACHES—Produced in six weeks by my ONGUENT, without stain or injury to the skin. This is a fact, as a trial will show. $1 a bottle. Large bottles, containing eight of the small, $4. Sent to any part of the country. R. G. GRAHAM, No. 344 Broadway. HAYES, No. 195 Fulton-st., Brooklyn; BRIGGS, No. 1 State-st., Albany; SPAULDING, No. 37 Tremont-row, Boston.

HAT AND STRAW CUTTERS.—DEDERICK'S patent Hat and Straw Cutter, simple, efficient and durable. Price $4. F. D. GATES, No. 13 Ann-st. Agent for the Manufacturer.

A ASHCROFT'S STEAM AND VACUUM GAUGES—The best and most reliable of any in the market. Warranted correct. A liberal discount allowed to the trade. For sale by CHAS. W. COPELAND, No. 64 Broadway.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

STIRRING ADVENTURE WITH HUMOROUS INCIDENT!

NEW HOPE;
OR, THE RESCUE.
A TALE OF THE GREAT KANAWHA.

From the New-York Express.

It is full of active and even thrilling interest. Its pages are vividly written, and are largely composed of dramatic and characteristic dialogue. In its description of scenery and picturesque adventure, it will be found exceedingly fresh and fascinating.

From the Boston Atlas.

This is a spirited and interesting work of fiction, and will please all who fancy vivid and natural pictures of border life. It will be found to be an amusing as well as exciting romance.

From the Home Citizen.

The plot is ingenious, and the story artfully wrought. It contains some very charming pictures of forest and rural life, together with one or two scenes of considerable tragic power.

From the Ladies' Gazette.

Here is a fresh, vigorous American book, worth half a dozen of your novels that "have a n ation." We have seen nothing so like Cooper, since "The Last of the Mohicans," and yet there is individuality and originality here, which proves it far above imitation, and is a true picture of Western Life without its exaggeration.

Just published in one elegant 12mo. volume. Cloth $1; paper 75 cents. BUNCE & BROTHER, Publishers, No. 128 Nassau-st., New-York.

IRVING'S NEW AND GREAT WORK.

In three volumes. $3 a volume. Published exclusively by subscription.

THE LIFE OF GEORGE WASHINGTON.

THE FIRST VOLUME IS NOW READY.

Subscriptions received by the General Agent, CHARLES T. EVANS, At his office, No. 37 Gilsey Building, and at Mr. Disturnell's Map Store, No. 197 Broadway.

Agents and Canvassers desirous of engaging in the sale of this national work, must apply to C. T. EVANS, No. 37 Gilsey Building.

NEW LAW BOOK.
HOWARD'S COURT OF APPEALS CASES.

By NATHAN HOWARD, Jr., Counselor at Law.
For sale by JOHN J. DIOSSY & CO. No. 1 Nassau-st.

BODENHAMER ON THE PILES, &c.

Will be Published on SATURDAY, August 4.
PRACTICAL OBSERVATIONS on some of the Diseases of the Rectum, Anus and Continuous Textures—giving their Nature, Seat, Causes, Symptoms, and Prevention; especially addressed to non-medical readers. By W. BODENHAMER, M. D. Second edition, with plates, 8vo. 82.

From the Southern Literary Advertiser.

Fathers of families would do well to provide themselves with a copy of this work.

From the Pittsburg Christian Advocate.

This is a most valuable work for the non-medical reader.

From the New-Orleans Delta.

Hundreds of persons in the West rejoice in the cures of these horrible diseases, effected by the science and skill of Dr. Bodenhamer.

From Hall's Journal of Health.

Medically the most critically accurate of any similar publication at home or abroad.

On SATURDAY, August 11,
OLIATTA, and other Poems. By HOWARD H. CALDWELL. J. S. REDFIELD, No 34 Beekman-st.

JUST PUBLISHED,
A new work by Rev. W. K. TWEEDIE, D. D., of Edinburg, author of "Sacrifice and Harvest," "A Lamp to the Path," "Glad Tidings," &c., &c.

THE EARLY CHOICE:
A BOOK FOR DAUGHTERS.

foolscap 8vo., beautifully bound. 75c.

The just popularity Dr. TWEEDIE's former writings have attained both in America and England, entitles the above to the attention, especially of daughters, for whom it is more directly intended.

For sale by all Booksellers.

A copy will be forwarded post-paid to any one on receipt of 75c., or gilt edges 50c. NELSON & SONS, Publishers, No. 151 Nassau-st., New-York.

SPIRITUALISM!
President Mahan's Great Work on this Subject, Entitled
MODERN MYSTERIES
EXPLAINED AND EXPOSED,
Will be published by us on MONDAY, Aug. 4.
JOHN P. JEWETT & CO., 117 Washington-st., Boston.

SUMMER RETREATS.

BERNERS HOTEL,
BERNERS-STREET, LONDON.

VISITORS TO ENGLAND—Will find at the above Hotel handsome apartments, moderate charges, and every attention to the comforts of those who may favor Mrs. ASHTON with their patronage.

ELGIN SPRING HOUSE—THE ELGIN SPRING HOUSE is open for the reception of visitors. It is a desirable place of resort for invalids or people of pleasure. The scenery about the Springs is most delightful, and presents rare attractions for fishing and shooting. The medicinal qualities of these Springs equal to any in the world, and are recommended by the best physicians in the country for all cutaneous diseases. The proprietor will run a carriage to the Vergennes depôt, in connection with the mail trains of cars, or to any other place when requested. Address, Vergennes, Vt. SOLOMON ALLEN, Proprietor.

NEPTUNE HOUSE, NEW ROCHELLE—This well-known Summer retreat, fronting Long Island Sound, accessible at all hours of the day by either railroad or steamboat, and within one hour's ride of the city, is open for the season. Excellent fishing and boating, and all the other attractions of a first-class watering place. Southerners especially, will find it adapted to their taste. Applications may be made at No. 164 Fulton-st., or by letter addressed to the proprietors of the Neptune House, New Rochelle, New-York.

THE SUBSCRIBER, owner and proprietor of the brick mansion house in Plainfield, one block from the depôt, takes this opportunity of informing the general public that he is now prepared to receive from 50 to 100 boarders, single or in families, at his residence. The house is large and commodious, and no pains will be spared to make guests comfortable. JACOB THORN. References—R. Harriott, No. 436 Broadway; Tileworth & Dunn, No. 22 Dey-st.

REMOVALS.

REMOVAL.—S. DRUMMOND would respectfully inform his friends and the public, that he has removed his apothecary Store to No. 307 Broadway, where he has opened with a new, complete and well-selected assortment of Drugs, Medicines, Perfumery, Brushes, Soaps, Fancy Articles, &c., &c. Physicians' prescriptions accurately prepared. A superior quality of Brandy, old Jamaica spirits, pure Wines, &c., constantly on hand for medicinal purposes. S. DRUMMOND, Apothecary, No. 307 Broadway, New-York.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL.—WALTER LOCKWOOD has returned to his old stand, No. 243 Greenwich-st., between Barclay and Robinson, occupied by him for many years previous to the 1st of May last, where he will be happy to see his old friends and customers. He has on hand a large and general assortment of goods, and intends to keep his stock replenished with the newest and most desirable styles of goods in the market, all of which will be sold at the very lowest market prices for cash.

LOST AND FOUND.

$25 REWARD.—Lost hanging in the water-closet of Messrs. Clark & Brown, Maiden-lane, a gold patent lever watch, with a black braid guard chain attached, L. Moore, maker, No. 7,558. Apply to the owner, MARK BANES, No. 17 Cedar-st.

$25 REWARD.—Lost at the Carlton House, on Tuesday afternoon, a gold hunting case Cooper WATCH, No. 5,624. The above reward will be paid to the finder by leaving the watch at B. RAITS', 202 Broadway.

PUBLIC MEETINGS.

THE MEMBERS OF MOSAIC T. OF H. NO. 1—Are urgently requested to attend the regular weekly meeting THIS EVENING, at 8 o'clock, at the Hall No. 187 Bowery, third floor, on important business. JOHN MURPHY, W. F. R.

ZINC PAINTS.

PURE ZINC PAINTS.
HENRY ATKEN & CO.,
AGENTS OF THE NEW-JERSEY ZINC COMPANY,
No. 145 Washington-st., N. Y.

ZINC PAINT.—The undersigned, Agents for the sale of Zinc White of Pure quality, manufactured by the PENNSYLVANIA AND LEHIGH ZINC COMPANY, are prepared to receive orders for the same, and would invite the attention of the trade to its evident superiority over others of American manufacture, and the most successful competition with the best of foreign dealers, can with confidence offer and upon invoice obtaining any limited supply of this Paint, which will be found to recommend itself for purity, great body, and uniform whiteness. Prices and terms arranged on the most liberal footing.

JAMES T. LEWIS & CO., No. 42 Water-st.

PURE ZINC PAINTS.—THE PASSAIC MINING AND MANUFACTURING COMPANY having recently erected extensive works in Jersey City for the manufacture of Dry White Zinc and White and Colored Zinc Paints, are now prepared to execute orders. Their White Zinc is superior to any other of American manufacture, and compares favorably with the best quality of French. For sale on favorable terms by the Company's Agents.

MANNING & SQUIER, No. 84 Cortlandt-st.

NEW AND EXTENSIVE JOB PRINTING OFFICE.

NEW TYPE AND STEAM PRESSES, AND EVERY REQUISITE FOR EXECUTING ALL KINDS OF PLAIN AND ORNAMENTAL PRINTING,

| | SUCH AS |
|---|---|
| BOOKS, | CIRCULARS, |
| PAMPHLETS, | CARDS, |
| CHECKS, | BILL-HEADS, |
| NOTES, | HAND-BILLS, |
| RECEIPTS, | LABELS, |
| STORE BILLS, | SHOW BILLS. |

And all kinds of MERCANTILE PRINTING at the LOWEST CASH PRICE.
Orders left at the office of this paper promptly attended to

100 BARRELS ALCOHOL
For sale by
CHARLES FULLER,
Agent for Manufacturer,
No. 220 Greenwich-st.

WEBNER'S PATENT WASH TUB—Is the only one of a new invented which is equally adapted to the use of hotels, restaurants and private families. With this you can wash the finest fabric, as well as the coarsest material, without injuring them. It does away with the boiling process, leaving the clothes equally clean, and saves three-fourths of the time and any labor. The price is so low as to place it within the means of every family. Call and examine.

I. A. HEAD, Agent, No. 201 Broadway.

N. B.—Opportunity given to test them.

DRY GOODS.

ASTONISHING REDUCTION
IN THE PRICE OF DRY GOODS,
AT THE BOWERY SAVINGS STORE,
No. 128 Bowery.

AS THE SEASON ADVANCES, WE REDUCE TO MAKE ROOM FOR FALL GOODS.

LAWNS, we are selling as low as 6d., very good.
GINGHAMS, at 8d. and 10d.; Bonnets at 12d.
DOTTED SWISS, very fine at 2s., for Jerseys, Spencers, Waists and Pinafores.
MULL JACONET, STRIPED, CHECKED and FIGURED GOODS for the same purpose.
Some ELEGANT SILKS, at 2s. 6d. per yard, worth 7s. to $1.
LUSTROUS BOILED BLACK SILKS, with, &c. to 6s.
SUMMER FLANNELS, 10d.; excellent goods.
All sorts of BOYS' WEAR, of LINEN, COTTON and WOOL.
SUMMER CASSIMERES, at 50c. per yard.
MARSEILLES QUILTS, $2 to $4, worth from $3 50 to $7.
Another Invoice of MADAGASCAR GRASS CLOTH, for Shirts, (the most popular goods ever introduced into the United States.)
FINE LINEN CAMBRIC HANDKERCHIEFS, 1s.; Very good do. at 6c.
EMBROIDERED do., at half the cost of Importation.

DOMESTIC GOODS.

As usual, we receive direct from the factories, and retail at wholesale prices.
All goods marked in plain figures. One price and no deviation.

F. W. & W. F. GILLEY, No. 128 Bowery.

UMBRELLAS, UMBRELLAS, UMBRELLAS!
JOHN T. SMITH,
WHOLESALE MANUFACTURER,
Nos. 204 and 206 Broadway,
Solicits the attention of dealers to a new style of exceedingly light and neat
SILK UMBRELLA
at all sizes and colors, particularly adapted to the sun, with Ivory, Wood and Steel Handles.

YOUTHS' AND CHILDREN'S CLOTHING—For all ages from three to twenty years, at wholesale. J. R. CLARK, BAILEY & CO., No. 5 Park-place, N. Y.

INSTRUCTION.

BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES—By Rev. J. HUTCHINGS and Mrs HUTCHINGS, New Haven, Conn. The Autumn Term of this School will commence on the second WEDNESDAY in September. It is the aim of the Instructors of this Institution, to make it in all respects, such as parents may desire for their daughters.

TERMS.—For board and instruction in the English, Classical and Scientific studies, $250 per annum. Pupils have the privilege of attending the Scientific Lectures of Yale College, at the charge of the Professors. Modern languages by competent native masters.

REFERENCES.—Rev. Drs. Taylor and Bacon, and Prof. B. Silliman, B. B. Baldwin, A. S. Hewitt, Esq., Hon. A. W. Bradley, H. Russell, Esq., New-Haven; Rev. Drs. Adams, Phillips, Hallock, and Gerard Hallock, Esq., New-York; Rev. Dr. Lansing, Oswego, N. Y.; Hon. T. Frelinghuysen, President, Rutgers College, New-Brunswick, N. J.; Rev. Dr. Hopkins, President Williams College, Massachusetts; Rev. D. H. Little, Poughkeepsie Valley, N. Y.; S. I. Andrews, Esq., Cleveland, O. The Secretaries of the A. B. C. F. M., Boston. Circulars may be obtained of A. Merwin, Bible House, New-York, and of Mr. Hutchings, at No. 62 Crown-st.

REGENTS' FEMALE INSTITUTE—No. 264 Madison-st., New-York.—This Institution has been in successful operation for a period of sixteen years, and is now under the supervision of Rev D. C. VAN NORDEN, Principal. The course of instruction embraces a thorough and extended education, and, in the departments of music and the ornamental branches, it stands unsurpassed. Pupils in the City are conveyed to and from the Institute at the expense of the parent. The next Academic year will commence on MONDAY, Sept. 15. Further information may be had at the Institute, or of either of the following gentlemen, who constitute the Board of Trustees: ISAAC FERRIS, President.
E. D. BROWN, Treasurer.
A. W. S. LEVERIDGE, Secretary.
Rev. Dr. Ferris, Rev. Dr. Kirkley, Geo. M. Clearman, Esq., Rev. Dr. Holmes, A. B. Holmes, John Gray, Rev. Dr. Holmes, Thos. Williams, Jr., Benj. W. Gluey, Esq., Elbert Cauldwell, Samuel Millbank.

WILLIAM J. NEVIUS informs the parents of his pupils and others who may desire to place their sons under his tuition, that his school will be reopened after the summer vacation on THURSDAY, Sept. 18, at his residence, NO. 19 WEST 16th-st., a few doors west of his former residence. The situation is adapted for the purposes of a private school by its retired situation in the City, and the instruction is thorough in the English branches, as well as the Classics, French, Latin, Greek and Mathematical preparations. The school consists of two departments, Primary—and the number of pupils in each is limited. Aug. 1, 1856.

MISS SPALDING would respectfully inform her friends and the public that the Fall term of her School, No. 1 Bond-st., will commence on TUESDAY, Sept. 16. Tuition at $300 per annum, board, with the family of the Principal, $250. The additional branches will be furnished to a limited number of pupils. Extra charge at the usual extra prices. Circulars giving more full information can be obtained at the Bookstores of LOCKWOOD, No. 411 Broadway, or by application to the Principal.

A GERMAN Professor having closed his French and Day School for Young Gentlemen, in which I have been a Professor for the last three years, I beg to inform my friends and the public that I shall reopen, on the first of September next, in the large house No. 49 East 4th-st., which I have rented and fitted up for a select school. Prospectuses, with full details, references and a letter from H. Fathmann, will be had by addressing as above.

ELIE CHARLIER.

MISS BAINES—Begs respectfully to give notice to her friends and the public, that her school, No. 14 Grand-st., will reopen on TUESDAY, September 16. Circulars can be obtained at her residence or at Messrs. C. S. FRANCIS & CO., No. 348 Broadway, Messrs. DOLEMUS & MIXON'S, No. 21 Park-place. Applications for the admission of pupils can be made by letter, addressed to Miss BAINES, at her residence.

YOUNG LADIES' SCHOOL.—Miss HAVENS will resume her School for Young Ladies, at No. 9 8th-st., on THURSDAY, Sept. 18. Her School circulars may be obtained at the office of the Rev. THOMAS HORGAN, No. 6 Wall-st., of Messrs KETCHUM, ROGERS & BEMENT, No. 45 William-st., of R. N. HAVENS, Esq., No. 32 Wall-st., and at her residence. She will be at home after Sept. 1.

FAIR HAVEN SEMINARY—THOS. G. SLOAN, Principal.—This school is pleasantly located in Fair Haven, one mile from New-Haven, Conn. Number of scholars limited to fifteen. Young ladies, of any age, or boys under 12. A few vacancies to be filled. Next term begins Aug. 28. Circulars at SHEPHARD'S bookstore, No. 189 Fulton-st.

SPANISH LANGUAGE.—Señor VINGUT, Professor of the above language in the New-York University, will commence a new class, for ladies and gentlemen, on MONDAY next, at No. 279 4th-street. A new edition of his Spanish grammar, and the first of the Poesias de Placido, are just out. For sale at No. 129 Broadway.

MME. CHEGARAY'S DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES—Mme. CHEGARAY respectfully informs the parents and guardians of her pupils, and the public generally, that the above institution will be reopened on Thursday, the 18th of September 1856.

MISS F. E. PRIEST'S SCHOOL—No. 77 East 16th-st., near Stuyvesant-square, will re-open on WEDNESDAY, Sept. 17.

OILS AND PAINTS.

GREATEST IMPROVEMENT OF THE AGE.—Oil that will burn in a simple lamp
6 evenings, of 4 hours each, or
24 consecutive hours,
Without requiring filling or trimming.
MATTHEW VANDERHOFF,
Nos. 28 and 30 Frankfort-st.

PAINTS! PAINTS!!—For buildings, fences, roofs, &c., at 14c. a pound; White Lead, 7c. do.; Zinc, 8c.; Preble's Boiled Oil at 75c. a gallon; Oil for fences, roofs, &c., 60c., at No. 113 Maiden-lane, N. Y. J. H. SMITH.

OILS!! OILS!!!—For buildings, fences, roofs, &c., 50 cents a gallon. Preble's Boiled Oil at 75 cents. Machinery Oil, 60 cents. Also, Paints and Materials at No. 113 Maiden-lane, New-York. J. H. SMITH.

WATCHES! WATCHES!!—The subscriber is selling all descriptions of Gold and Silver Watches, at retail, lower than any house in the City.
FINE GOLD LEPINE WATCHES, 4 holes jeweled...$22
BEAUTIFUL ENAMELED LADIES' WATCHES... 36
SPLENDID ENAMELED LADIES' WATCHES, with diamonds in case... 42
GOLD DETACHED LEVERS, full jeweled... 42
GOLD ENAMELED HUNTING WATCHES... 42
GOLD DETACHED LEVERS for Ladies, rich engraved case... 36
FINE GOLD HUNTING LEPINES, for Ladies... 36
FINE GOLD HUNTING DETACHED LEVERS, full jeweled... 48
SPLENDID LEVER WATCHES for Daguerreotypes... 115
RICH WATCHES, which wind up and set without a Key. 62
REAL JULES JURGENSEN WATCHES, perfect time-keepers... $150 to $300
REAL COOPER WATCHES, Duplex and Levers... 125 to 250
INDEPENDENT SECOND and QUARTER-SECOND WATCHES, for timing horses... 75 to 250
SPLENDID GOLD POCKET CHRONOMETERS, perfect time-keepers... 125 to 200
WATCHES, which run eight days with once winding... 125 to 175
RICH MAGIC WATCHES for Ladies and Gentlemen, which change into three different Watches... 100 to 175
GOLD ENGLISH PATENT LEVERS... 50 to 80
GOLD HUNTING CASE ENGLISH PATENT LEVERS... 60 to 80
SILVER ENGLISH PATENT LEVERS... 14 to 20
SILVER DETACHED LEVERS... 14 to 20
SPLENDID GOLD and SILVER ENGLISH PATENT LEVERS, made by M. J. Tobias, and other celebrated makers.
VERY FINE DUPLEX WATCHES, made by T. F. Cooper, Warner, and all celebrated makers.
Watches cleaned and repaired in the best manner, at much less than the usual prices. All watches warranted to keep good time.
GEO. C. ALLEN, Importer, Wholesale and Retail, No. 21 Wall-st., second floor, near Broadway.

HARRISON'S EXTRACT OF MIGNONETTE—The Mignonette is a retiring modest little plant. It boasts no stately form or brilliant flower to grace the halls of voluptuous wealth or titled pride. But it has higher virtues; it has a perfume of ethereal loveliness which angels in the spirit land would quaff in joy, and our dear, sweet, lovely, delighting American angels too. The Extract is for them. It is wholesaled at E. TOWNSEND WILLIAMS', No. 253 Pearl-st.; and retailed by T. J. GREEN, No. 300 Broadway.

HARRISON'S HAIR RESTORER will, after a time of constant, faithful use, restore the flowing locks, a crown to baldness.

TAN, PIMPLES, FRECKLES, SUNBURN, &c.—HOWAYS BALM PERFECTED, or the celebrated by GOURAUD'S ITALIAN MEDICATED SOAP. POUDRE SUBTILE removes hair from any part of the body. ROUGE, LILY WHITE, HAIR DYE and RESTORATIVE, at the old store, No. 67 Walker-st., first store from Broadway. Ladies can have the latter operation performed in private by Mrs. HAYES, Brooklyn, CALLENDER, Boston, 36 South-st.-st., Phil.; BATES, 138 Washington-st., Boston.

NEW PATENT SPECTACLES

AD PATREM [illegible] OF R. A. PROCTOR.

[illegible] Henry MCCOLLY, [illegible] in verse.

Pater, mihi [illegible] nomen,
Indica polverolentia,
Dum [illegible] vivis;
Vobis vollis [illegible] plus—
Pulvis plus tollis vobis,
Et [illegible] vias nobis.

Potens, insignes omnes quantos,
Quos divisores nobis,
Cum [illegible] omnibus,
[illegible] tu [illegible],
Sit tennis [illegible] pensis vobis—
Vias aperiatis nobis.

Potens, Potens, observemus
Per [illegible] pensantes hamus,
Per symposium, per rhedas,
Et in [illegible] [illegible],
Et quicquid aliud est vobis—
Spargitote vias nobis.

Pulvere fortum est pro certa,
Mercris olim [illegible]—
Ne sinetis [illegible],
Ut non quique personas,
Pulvere [illegible] vobis,
Viae aperiatis nobis.

NOTICES OF NEW BOOKS.

GAMBIA; OR, ADVENTURES ON THE MOSQUITO SHORE. By [illegible] A. Baird. With Sixty Illustrations. 1 vol. 12mo., pp. 388. New-York: Harper & Brothers.

The name on the title page we take to be a nom de plume. The man who uses it can write, and write very well, too. He is a clever artist, also. We often do we come across a man who has such mastery of pen and pencil as this—Baird. We shall be greatly mistaken if this volume does not become the most popular book of travels of the day. The style is lucid and sparkling. The narrative never flags into dullness. The incidents are vivid, without exaggeration. The interest never flags. The characters introduced become acquaintances and friends. In a word, it is an admirable book, and the publishers, in the superior manner in which they have produced it, have done it every justice.

What is it all about? The author tells us, at starting, that he is "a poor-devil artist," who whiled away for a month at Kingston, Jamaica,—that, being rather hard-up, he paid his tavern bill by painting the portrait of his ebony landlady, who gave him £10 over and above said "little account,"—and that, with £50 more which he happened to possess, he set out in a little schooner, commanded by a retired Captain Potts, bound for Bluefields, the capital of the "Kingdom of Mosquito." There was an Indian boy, named Antonio, who acted as guide, an mysterious and interesting being. But a heavy storm, the schooner is wrecked, captain and mate drowned, and author, Antonio, and a negro barely saved. They commenced a sort of Robinson Crusoe life on the coral cay (in the sea of the Antilles,) which received them,—live on turtles' eggs, hide the turtles for their shells, and finally are rescued by a turtle schooner, which carries them to Bluefields, they managing to sell the shells for $[illegible]. The negro leaves the author, but Antonio clings to him—Antonio, whose history, "a wild and wonderful tale," the author promises one day to lay before the world. Antonio being of "regal blood, the son and Lieutenant of Chicken Pat, one of the last and bravest of the chiefs of Yucatan, who lost his life under the very walls of Merida, in the last unsuccessful rising of the aborigines; and I think it is to add that the fatal bullet which slew the hope of the Indians, was fired from the rifle of an American mercenary!"

The book then narrates adventures in Bluefields—an "imperial city" of the rudest possible wooden huts—and his interview with tiny, William Clarence, the Mosquito King! After that his journeyings along the coast, with occasional discursive visits to the interior, are faithfully recorded, concluding with his promise to accompany Antonio Chuy, "once the mild-eyed Indian boy, but now the dreaded chieftain and victorious leader of all warlike tribes of Yucatan," even to the Lake of the Itzacs. We see in this promise and abrupt conclusion, the prospect of another book, and sincerely hope we anticipate truly, because this is the best book of adventure we have read for, many a long day—the romance of reality, and the reality of romance.

Instead of extracting an account of some of the adventures by which the author was so often imperiled, our specimen brick shall be a

MARRIAGE AMONG THE TOWKAS INDIANS.

"Among all these Indians, polygamy is an exception, while among the Sambos it is the rule. The instances are few in which a man has more than one wife, and in these cases the eldest is not only the head of the family, but exercises a strict supervision over the others. The betrothals are made at an very early age, by the parents, and the unfledged children are married in a corresponding manner, so that one unacquainted with the practice then always point out the various mates. These marks consist of little bands of colored cotton, worn either on the arm, above the elbow, or on the leg, below the knee, which are varied in color and number, so that no two combinations in the village shall be the same. The combinations are made by the old men, who take care that there shall be no mistakes. The bands are replaced from time to time, as they become worn and faded. Both boys and girls also wear a necklace of variously-colored shells or beads, to which one is added yearly. When the necklace of the boy contains ten beads or shells, he is called mekasat, a word signifying three things, viz., ten, all the fingers, and half-a-man. When they number twenty, he is called ell, a word which also signifies three things, viz., twenty, both fingers and toes, and a man. And he is then effectively regarded as a man. Should his affianced, by that time, have reached the age of fifteen, the marriage ceremony takes place without delay.

As I have said, a sleek young Towka was called upon to add the final bead to his string, and take upon himself the obligations of manhood, during my stay at the village. The event had been anticipated by the preparation of a canoe full of pinolo-chicha, mixed with crushed plaintains, and a little honey, which had been fermenting to the entire disgust of my nostrils, from the date of my arrival. The day was observed as a general holiday. Early in the morning all the men of the village assembled, and with their knives carefully removed every blade of grass which had grown up inside of a circle, perhaps a hundred feet in diameter, situated in the very centre of the village, and indicated by a succession of stones sunk in the ground. The earth was then trampled smooth and hard, after which they proceeded to erect a little hut in the very centre of the circular area, above a large flat stone which was permanently planted there. This hut was made conical, and perfectly close, except an opening at the top, and another at one side, toward the east, which was temporarily closed with a net, woven of palm-bark. I looked in without hinderance and saw, piled up on the stone, a quantity of the dry twigs of the cocal tree, covered with the gum of the same. The canoe full of liquor was dragged up to the edge of the circle, and liberally covered with small white calabashes, of the size of an ordinary coffee-cup.

As soon, promptly, all the people of the village herded, without order, to the hut of the bridegroom's father. I joined the crowd. We found the "happy swain" seated in his best, sitting demurely upon a bundle of articles, closely wrapped in a mat. The old man, to whom I have referred, formed in a line in front of him, and the eldest made him a short address. When he had finished the next followed, until each had had his say. The bridegroom then got up quietly, shouldered the bundle, and, preceded by the old man, and followed by his friends, marched off to the hut of the prospective bride. He put down his load before the closed door, and seated himself upon it in silence. The fellow stationed at the door, which was partly opened upon the women, who asked him what he wanted, to which he made some reply which did not appear to be satisfactory, when the door was shut in his face, and he took his seat beside his son. One of the old men then tapped with pestle

But the old woman was obtuse. The bridegroom's father tried it again, but the she-dragon would not open the door. The old men then seemed to hold a council, at the end of which a couple of drums (made, as I have already explained, by stretching a raw skin over a section of the hollow tree,) and some rude flutes were sent for. The latter were made of pieces of bamboo, and were shaped somewhat like flageolets, each having a mouth piece, and four stops. The sound was dull and monotonous, although not wholly unmusical.

Certain musicians now appeared, and at once commenced playing on these instruments, breaking out, at long intervals, in a kind of supplicatory chant. After an hour or more of this soothing and rather sleepy kind of music, the inexorable door opened a little, and one of the female inmates glanced out with much affected timidity. Hereupon the musicians redoubled their efforts, and the bridegroom hastened to unroll his bundle. It contained a variety of articles supposed to be acceptable to the parents of the girl. There was, among other things, a machete, no inconsiderable present, when it is understood that the cost of one is generally a large dey, which it requires months of toil to fashion from the rough trunk of the gigantic ceiba. A string of gay glass beads was also produced from the bundle. All these articles were handed in to the women one by one, by the father of the groom. With every present the door opened wider and wider, until the mat was presented, when it was turned back to its utmost, revealing the bride arrayed in her "prettiest," seated on a crickery, at the remotest corner of the hut. The dragons affected to be shocked in examining the presents, when the bridegroom, watching his opportunity, dashed into the hut, to the apparent utter horror and dismay of the women; and, grasping the girl by the waist, shouldered her like a sack, and started off at a trot for the mystic circle, in the centre of the village. The women pursued, as if to overtake him and rescue the girl, uttering cries for help, while all the crowd hoddied after. But the youth was too fast for them; he reached the ring, and lifting the veil of the hut, disappeared within it. The women could not pass the circle, and all stopped short at its edge, and set up a chorus of despairing shrieks, while the men all gathered within the charmed ring, where they squatted themselves, row on row, facing outward. The old men alone remained standing, and a bit of lighted pine having meanwhile been brought, one of them approached the hut, lifted the mat, and handing in the fire, made a brief speech to the inmates. A few seconds after an aromatic smoke curled up from the opening in the top of the little hut, from which I infer that the copal had been set on fire. What else happened, I am sure I do not know!

When they saw the smoke, the old women grew silent and expectant; but, by-and-by, when it subsided, they became suddenly gay, and "went in strong" for the festivities, which, up to this time, I must confess, I had thought rather slow. But here I may explain, that although the bridegroom has no choice in the selection of his wife, yet if he have reason for doing so, he may, while the copal is burning, take her in his arms, and cast her outside of the circle, in the open day, before the entire people, and thus rid himself of her forever. But in this case, the matter is carefully investigated by the old men, and woe betide the wretch who, by this public act, has impeached a girl wrongfully! Woe equally betide the girl who is proved to have been "put away" for good reasons. If, however, the copal burns out quietly, the groom is supposed to be satisfied, and the marriage is complete.

The copal, in this instance, burned out in the most satisfactory manner, and then the drums and flutes struck up a most energetic air, the music of which consisted of about eight notes, repeated with different degrees of rapidity, by way of giving variety to the melody. The men all kept their places, while I was installed in a seat of honor beside the old men. The women, who, as I have said, could not come within the circle, now commenced filling the calabashes from the canoe, and passing them to the squatting men, commencing with the ancients and the "distinguished guests"—for Antonio and my Power were included in our party. There was nothing said, but the women displayed the greatest activity in filling the emptied calabashes. I soon discovered that everybody was deliberately and in cold blood getting up of what Captain Drummer called the "big drunk!" That was part of the performance of the day, and the Indians went at it in the most orderly and expeditious manner. They wasted no time in coyish preliminaries—a practice which might be followed in more civilized countries, to the great economy, not only of time, but of the vinous. It was not from the love of the drink that the Towkas imbibed, I can well believe, for their chicha was bad to look at, and worse to taste.

With the fourth round of the calabashes, an occasional shout betrayed the effect of the chicha upon some of the weaker heads. These shouts became more and more frequent, and were sometimes uttered with a savage emphasis, which was rather startling. The musicians, too, became more energetic, and as the sun declined, the excitement rose, until, unable to keep quiet any longer, all hands got up, and joined in a slow swinging step around the circle, beating with their knuckles on the empty calabashes, and joining at intervals in a kind of refrain, at the end of which every man struck the bottom of his calabash against that of his neighbor. Then, as they came round by the canoe, each one dipped his calabash full of the contents. The liquid thus taken up was drunk at a single draught, and then the dance went on, growing more rapid with every dip of the calabash. It got to the stage of a trot, and then a fast pace, and finally into something little short of a gallop, but still in perfect time. The rattling of the calabashes had now grown so rapid, as almost to be continuous, and the motion so involved and quick, that, as I watched it, I felt that kind of giddiness which one often experiences in watching the gliding of a swift current of water. This movement could not be kept up long, even with the aid of chicha, and whenever a dancer became exhausted, he would wheel out of line, and throw himself flat on his face on the ground. Finally, every one gave in, except two young fellows, who seemed determined to do, in their way, what other fast young men, in other countries, sometimes undertake to accomplish, viz., drink each other down, or "under the table." They danced and drunk, and were applauded by the women, but were so closely matched that it was impossible to tell which had the best chance of keeping it up longest. In fact, each seemed to despair of the other, and, as if by a common impulse, both threw aside their calabashes, and resolved the contest from a trial of endurance into one of strength, leaping at each other's throats, and fastening their teeth like tigers in each other's flesh.

There was instantly a great uproar, and those of the men who had the ability to stand, clustered around the combatants in a confused mass, shouting at the stretch of their lungs, and evidently, as I thought, regarding it as a "free fight." But there was little damage done, for the old men, though emphatically "tight," had discretion enough to send the women for thongs, with which the pugnacious youths were incontinently bound hand and foot, and dragged close to the hut in the centre, and there left to cool themselves off as they were best able, no one taking the slightest notice of them. "Verily," I ejaculated to myself, "wisdom knoweth no country."

The dance which I have described was resumed from time to time, until it became quite dark, when the women brought a large number of pine splinters, of which the men each took one. These were lighted, and the dancers paced up to the little hut, and each tore off one of the branches of which it was built, finally disclosing the newly-married couple sitting demurely side by side. As soon as the hut was demolished, the groom quietly took his bride on his back—literally "shouldering the responsibility" and marched off to the hut which had previously been built for his accommodation, escorted by the procession of men with torches. This was the final ceremony of the night, although some of the more dissipated youths returned to the canoe, and kept up a drumming, and piping, and dancing, until morning. Next day everybody brought presents of some kind to the newly-married pair, so as to give them a fair start in the world, and enable them to commence life on equal terms with the best in the village.

Of the complete success of this book, we have no doubt. It is amusing as a romance, and, at the same time, has every appearance of being strictly true. Who can the author be?

A work on The Mineral and Thermal Springs of the United States and Canada, by Dr. John Bell, which Perry & McMillen, of Philadelphia, have published, comes out in the very nick of time to convey information on a subject very important to Summer tourists. The book is remarkably well written, scientific without being pedantic, and illuminated by many brilliant rays of fine scholarship. Every mineral and thermal spring of the slightest note, in this country and Canada, is noticed and described.

W. H. Rhodes, of Niagara, has just published a Topographical and Pictorial Guide to Niagara. It is illustrated with maps and views, and not only describes Niagara and its many mighty wonders, but many places in its vicinity, and also in Canada. It also contains a good deal of information for travelers. It appears accurate and reliable.

The Young Woman's Book of Health, by Dr. William A. Alcott, is intended exclusively for the use of females. It contains a good deal of information and advice, clearly told and honestly given; but we recommend those who may read it to rely as little as possible upon book advice, and resort, when occasion demands it, to good medical counsel without delay.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS.

Special Correspondence of the New-Orleans Picayune.

Mexico, Saturday, July 7, 1855.

Señor Don Luis G. de Vidal y Rivas has received the appointment of Minister to the United States of America, and intends leaving here, I am informed, on the 22d instant, for New-Orleans. Whether, under existing circumstances, your Government will consent to receive him, is, I think, a question; your relations with Mexico being at this time suspended. However, the qualifications and antecedents of this person are such, we think, as to justify any Government in refusing to receive him, and to resent it as an insult to the whole community. He is a native of Acapulco, and was formerly a sub-editor and printer of a paper in the city. He married the mother of Mrs. Alteria Serandisima Santa Anna, and by doing such odd jobs as his step-son, Don Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, Benemerito de la Patria, Caballero, &c., &c., found for him, he succeeded in being named Minister to the United States, and is now making his preparations to astonish the weak minds of you poor benighted Yankees. By the way, speaking of Mrs. Santa Anna, it appears to be current in some parts of the United States that this lady is a native of that country. This is not so. She is a native of Vera Cruz, where her father was a clerk in a commercial house.

I understand that Mr. Minister Bonilla, in a communication to Gen. Gadsden a few days ago, in relation to the unfortunate Mr. Delgado, gave as a reason for not sending him to New-Orleans by the Orizaba, which was at that time in port, that that was the head-quarters of the fillibusteros, and he was not such a fool as to send him where he knew he would be at home.

The truth is, that under the present Government your countrymen have not the slightest security for their persons or property. By Mr. Forsyth's treaty of 1832, it is stipulated that the citizens of the United States should have the same protection and security as the citizens of Mexico; but this treaty was adopted by the people of the United States when at least there was the semblance of law and justice. The state of things is widely different now, there being not even the semblance of either the one or the other, as Mr. Bonilla has asserted Santa Anna is the law maker, the law interpreter, and the law executor, (and he might have added, with great propriety, the law breaker.) His will or whim, or caprice, or whatever you please to call it, is the only law to which this country and its unfortunate inhabitant are subject to.

The case of Dr. Smith, of Texas, is perhaps one of the most outrageous of the many outrages committed by this Government. This gentleman purchased a number of mares and jacks on this side, and after having paid the export duty, and passed his animals to the other side of the river, the territory of the United States, with the knowledge and consent of the Mexican authorities, a party of armed men came over the river, and violently carried them back again, under pretence that the exportation of them was contrary to law. Here you have an innocent man despoiled of his property, the soil of the United States violated, and its authorities insulted and set at defiance.

As I mentioned to you in my previous letter, the relations between this Government and the American legation are suspended. This appears to have been brought, not as people here usually suppose solely on Mr. Delgado's account, but by an accumulation of injuries and outrages committed upon American citizens and interests; even while the American Minister was remonstrating upon the case of Mr. Delgado, Mr. Tanner, an American citizen, was violently seized and thrown into prison, as it were in defiance of the Minister, and although this occurred some three months since, nothing is yet known of the charges against him, nor has he been allowed any communication with any one.

Santiago.

Mexico, Thursday, July 19, 1855.

Eds. Pic: Since the date of my last there has been a very serious outbreak in Puebla, which, owing to its premature discovery, was put down by the Government, and two officers who were engaged in it shot by order of Santa Anna. Owing to the large force which was immediately sent from this city, the movement for the moment has been checked. The papers here have been filled for the past week with rejoicings and exultations at the triumph obtained over the liberal party; but this morning the Governor informs the public in an official communication that the reason for shooting these men and imprisoning others, was that they wished to proclaim Santa Anna Emperor or King. The revolution in the districts of Cordova and Orizaba continues in full force, and private letters from these indicate that the whole country is in arms against the present Administration. Of four hundred men which were sent against these districts from Vera Cruz, two hundred deserted before they had got seven leagues on their journey, and it is more than probable that the remainder "ramosed" before arriving at their journey's end. There is perhaps no section of country upon which the measures of the present Administration have fallen with greater severity than upon the two before mentioned. The chief produce of this section of country was tobacco; but since the new monopoly went into operation they have refused to allow the rancheros to sow any, and also refused to purchase the stock remaining on hand; so that all the farmers who formerly gained a livelihood from the produce of their lands and labor, have been reduced to the greatest misery and want. By a secret decree of the Government all communication and intercourse with these districts has been interdicted under severe penalties.

No news has been received here for more than a fortnight from Monterey, communications with that place, as well as the most of the northern part of the Republic, being entirely cut off.

From the State of Michoacan nothing is positively known; the Secretary of War, Blanco, is at present there in command of the Government troops, but of his movements—beyond an interview which he had with Don Ignacio Comonfort—nothing is known. In this interview, the Secretary asked Mr. Comonfort what they desired, and said that he had instructions from Santa Anna to give them a Constitution, which they themselves might form, and he would pledge himself for Santa Anna's acquiescence. Mr. Comonfort replied, the first condition of any negotiation must be that Santa Anna should be delivered up, to be tried for his treason to his country. Mr. Secretary declining this, Mr. Comonfort told him their interview was at an end. Mr. Blanco has since been recalled with all his force, as it is said, to cover Santa Anna's retreat out of the country.

The new Minister to the United States, and his family, are to leave here to-day for Vera Cruz, under a strong escort, where, it is said, they are to embark on the Government steamer Iturbide for their destination. Strong doubts are expressed here whether they intend going to the United States at all. The Minister has received forty thousand dollars for three years' pay and outfit.

The relations between this Government and the United States continue to be suspended. General Gadsden, I am informed, had an interview a few days since with his Alteza Serandisima, in which his Alteza, after endeavoring in vain to make it appear that the suspension of relations was merely the result of private differences between General Gadsden and Mr. Bonilla, agreed to have the offensive and insulting letters of Mr. Bonilla withdrawn, disowning them, and also to name a commission to arrange the difficulties growing out of the outrages committed upon citizens of the United States, all of which, however, with Mexican punctuality, he has left undone. Mr. Bonilla has even had the impudence to circulate a report here that your Government were not satisfied with the conduct of the American Envoy, and had recalled him. Whether the temporizing Cabinet at Washington has given color or reason to any such assertions you can better judge than myself. Of one thing, however, I may be permitted to judge, and express an opinion that the people of the United States will not tamely submit to the violence and outrage which the Government of this country have heaped with an unsparing hand upon their fellow-citizens, and the Ministers and Cabinets will do well to see that the sin of permitting such aggressions be not post to the representatives of their nation, when reinstating their Chieftain! If the high-spirited and energetic spirits of the American Nation, be not as wealthy and powerful as they expected by the Government at home, it would be well for the people of the United States to know it at once, and know that when necessity or inclination may bring them to this country, that they come with only such resources as may be found in the purse or which old Santa Anna, or his man Bowman, who carefully has stolen everything and everybody coming from the land of liberty.

The balance of the three millions, which were to have been paid to Mexico upon the adjustment of the time of the Gadsden Treaty, has been negotiated by this Government upon terms almost too infamous to record; nearly the whole amount has gone into the insatiable maw of Santa Anna and his satellites. The nation, or rather the Government, only received $200,000, or about 10 per cent of the amount; the remainder was received in the debt of the widows' and orphans' claims against the Government, and which could have been easily purchased at 90 per cent discount, but Santa Anna allowed it at its par value. By this transaction Messrs. Lizardi, Boulle, Escandal & Co. have pocketed the snug little sum of $2,200,000, and this nefarious transaction, it is said here, was perfected and protected by the house of Howland & Aspinwall, of New-York, through their agent here, an Englishman, by the name of Hornedstle.

Dr. Tenner, of whom I made mention in a previous letter, still continues in prison, and the only reply which the U. S. Consul has been able to obtain from the Mexican Minister of Relations is, that he has referred the matter to the competent authorities for their investigation; in the meantime the poor fellow is shut up in the common jail, with all sorts and kinds of malefactors, without knowing why and wherefore; and but for the charity and benevolence of the American Legation, would stand a fair chance of starving to death. Mr. Auguerde Jouan still continues in close confinement, without any prospect of release, until the enormous fraud which they have concocted against the United States, and particularly the inhabitants of San Francisco, shall have been consummated.

The Government is now attempting to job out the Custom House at an annual rent of $9,000,000, upon the condition of an advance of $3,000,000, but I am informed with very small prospect of success. Capitalists have had too many instances of the good faith of Santa Anna to risk so considerable an amount upon no better security than his word; besides which, any one who chooses to look upon the events which are now transpiring, must be convinced that it will be impossible for him to retain his seat much longer. These people are a long suffering one, but when once fairly roused, they have shown clearly that they know how to requite their wrongs, if not to remedy them.

There is to be no Constitution; his Altera Serenissima, after having called his Council together, and heard all they had to say upon the subject, pro and con, told them they were a pack of fools and asses, that the country required no Constitution save his will, no guaranties beyond his caprice, and they had better look well after themselves or they might get into a place they could not so easily get out of.

The ceremony of laying the first stone or rail of the new railroad, and "benediction" by the church, (without which it is thought no enterprise can possibly prosper,) was postponed from last Sunday to the coming one, on account, it was said, of the indisposition of Santa Anna; it, however, has been positively announced for next Sunday, Santa Anna or no Santa Anna. The enterprise is progressing with marvelous rapidity for a Mexican undertaking, and I much doubt whether a greater amount could have been done in the United States in the same length of time; it is not thirty days since it was commenced, and they have already completed the station-house, and over 600 yards of road in a very substantial manner. The company, who are gentlemen of enterprise and capital, appear now to have set about their undertaking in good earnest, and I have no doubt, that while all the previous grants for railroads in this country have only been so many speculations of needy, unprincipled adventurers, the present one will be actively and energetically carried out.

AFFAIRS IN KANSAS.

Character of the Country—Political Movements and Opinions—Civil War Ahead.

Correspondent of the St. Louis Democrat:

Cabin of the Sultan,
Tuesday Afternoon, July 24, 1855.

There are three distinct parties in Kansas—the Free State, Abolitionist, and Pro-Slavery parties. The Abolitionists are a mere handful of scattered settlers; but they vote, except the followers of the radical leaders—Messrs. Garrison, Wendell Phillips, and Parker, who never vote from principle—with the Free State men. The majority of the Free State party adopt the doctrine which Bennett, of the Herald, has branded as Sewardism—they cry "leave Slavery alone where it already exists," but "no more Slave States." Politicians might howl to all eternity, I believe, and yet be unable to cause uncorrupted human nature to declare that this is either infamous or unjust. But it is a past of Dave Atchison's demagogical programme to represent the opponents of forcible Slavery extension, and his own personal ambitious views, as infamous and anti-Southern fanatics, whom it is the duty of all Constitutionalists to oppose and crush out; and therefore it is that the Free State party in Kansas, the majority of whom are as much opposed to a Northern crusade against Slavery as to a Southern crusade against Freedom, and a large minority of whom, I am assured, are from Southern States, especially Virginia, Kentucky, and Eastern Missouri, are universally branded as Abolitionists, or "abolition negro-thieves." Every Free-Soiler that I have met has indignantly denied that a single attempt has been made to decoy slaves from Missouri, or that such a course has ever been thought of. I should think that squatters would have too much to do to attend to their own affairs, without amusing themselves at such a dangerous pastime. But the Missouri regulators are so intensely in earnest that they are ready to believe the most improbable stories without examination, and without the slightest misgivings.

I have heard the Free State party variously estimated as constituting from one-fourth to five-sevenths of the qualified voters of the Territory! At the Shawnee Mission its force was estimated—a cheap store sales-fashion—at "the lowest possible rate." In that part of the Territory its numerical strength was certainly very insignificant. The Governor and his private Secretary, I believe were the only Free State men at the Mission. The highest estimate I heard any pro-Slavery man make of the Free State strength was "two-fifths of the entire population." This was given by Mr. Stearns, the gentlemanly but most immensely pro-Slavery proprietor of the Parkville Southern Democrat. He added, "two-fifths did not cast their ballots at the last election, but that was not a decisive test of their strength, because a great many of them did not vote." From a collection of facts shown to me by a prominent politician, a resident and one of the first squatters in the Territory, I infer that the pro-Slavery party is, at least, one fourth less numerous than its opponent. These facts have not yet been published, but soon will be.

The Free State party support their newspaper organs well; and may justly boast of them. Lawrence, not yet a year old, supports a daily paper! It is not so large as the Missouri Democrat to be sure; but it is as manly as the biggest of its brethren anywhere. Each of them has a large State as well as Territorial circulation.

The Herald of Freedom (against which the recent motion in the Legislature to prohibit reporters from commenting on the proceedings of the House was directed) has an extensive circulation in the New-England States; and the Kansas Tribune has a large subscription from Ohio. The most singular and startling item connected with the Territorial press, however, is to be found in the fact that the Kansas Free State, an uncompromising and able anti-Slavery paper, is chiefly supported by North and South Carolina—of which States the editor was recently a resident. He is a native of South Carolina, I believe; was educated and reared in that State till the age of manhood; but could never be brought to regard the peculiar institution, as he saw it there, except with feelings of regret and sorrow. It is evident from the extensive circulation of his journal in these far Southern States, that the Carolinas produce some men who do not believe in the divinity of the Calhoun doctrines.

After getting a good guess at the relative strength of the Territorial parties, I resumed my investigations into the natural capabilities of the country. An incautious admission by a violent partisan caused me to suspect a truth that I soon found verified. It is evidently a part of the Atchison programme to lower the Territory in the estimation of the people out of Kansas, in order to create the impression that it is not worth settlement. Every sceptical traveler, without exception, and every disinterested traveler, who had seen the Territory, gave me accounts of it which induce me to believe that Kansas will yet be known as the Paradise Prairie State. Every temporary political interloper I met, many of them adding, "its only fit for niggers and Indians, anyhow." Yet one of these said that "if the North had not been in such an infernal hurry, Kansas would have been a Free State; but now Missouri would have fit it she had to go into the jaws of hell to get it;" and that as soon as the standing corn was off the ground they would pour into the Territory by thousands." This is the precise language of one man; but several expressed similar sentiments in less profane or exceptable language. Now, if Kansas is the desert they represent her to be, why do these men leave fruitful Missouri for her barren soil?

The objection many of them make to the possibility of the permanent settlement of the rich prairie lands, are rather puerile, to say the least of them. There's not wood enough for fencing, says No. 1. Well, what of it? An impenetrable English hawthorne hedge can be grown in four years, as it has been in Missouri, while wire fences, cheap and portable, can be had by the million yards in New-England or New-York. Every one confesses there is wood enough for ordinary buildings, and that brick, clay, coal, granite, sandstone and limestone are to be found in abundance in every direction. There lies a fruitful virgin prairie soil, the coming mother of ten thousand heavy crops, wanting only men to give plentiful increase.

I have not yet given you any idea of the intense political excitement of the border Missourians. Excitement does not convey a just idea of their feelings, and fanaticism has been too often abused to do so. There is the earnestness which is calm in consequence of its depth and force; it is the earnestness of men ready to fight, preparing for a death-struggle. In America or Europe I never saw anything like it. But on the opposite side of the river, in the Free-Soil sections, I am told, deep has been answered by a profounder deep. The Free-Soilers are organizing military companies, and are determined to repel armed forces by armed forces at the next election, if the Missourians again attempt to cross the border to vote. They have been promised, moreover, aid and assistance from the Iowa pioneers.

Several members of both parties expressed their opinions in my hearing that there would be blood spilt yet in Kansas. A pro-Slavery politician said that if the Lawrence people did not take care, they would so enrage the Missourians that they would march upon it and burn it to the ground. All of this, too, is Atchison's work!

Sir, I leave comment to others. I will content myself by concluding my letter, as old Cato would have concluded every letter of his, had he lived in our times and State, by saying:

"I am of opinion that 'Atchison should be destroyed.'"

The Wheeler Slave Case—Chief Justice Lewis' Opinion.

The following is the decision of Chief Justice Lewis, of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, on the application for a writ of habeas corpus in favor of Passmore Williamson, imprisoned by Judge Kane for contempt in not producing Col. Wheeler's slaves in Court:

Lewis, C. J.—This is an application for a writ of habeas corpus. It appears by the copies of the warrants annexed to the petition, that the prisoner is confined for a contempt of the District Court of the United States, as he refusing to answer a writ of habeas corpus awarded by that Court against and at the relation of John H. Wheeler.

The counsel of Mr. Williamson very frankly stated, in answer to an interrogatory on the subject, that they did not desire the useless formality of issuing a writ of habeas corpus, if, on view of the course of distinctions hitherto, I should be of opinion that the adjudication of the U. S. District Court was conclusive. The habeas corpus act does not require the writ to be granted in all cases whatever. Whenever it appears upon the face of the petition, or, which is the same thing, by the detainer annexed to it and forming part of it, that the prisoner is "detained upon legal process, order or warrant for such matter or offence for which by the law the said prisoner is not bailable," the case is excepted out of the act; see Act 18th Feb., 1785, sec. 1. In like manner, where the case has been already heard upon the same evidence by another Court, the act of Assembly does not oblige the Judges to grant a habeas corpus for the purpose of rehearing it; although, perhaps, they may deem it expedient so to do in some extraordinary instances. Ex parte Lawrence, 6 Bin. 304.

We come, therefore, at once to the cause of detainer. Is it a "legal process, order or warrant for an offence which by law is not bailable?" Mr. Justice Blackstone, in Brass Crosby's case, 3 Wilson, 188, declared that "all Courts are uncontrolled in matters of contempt. The sole adjudication of contempts, and the punishment thereof in any manner, belongs exclusively, and without interfering, to each respective Court. Infinite confusion and disorder would follow if Courts could by writ of habeas corpus examine and determine the contempts of others. This power to commit results from the first principles of justice; for if they have the power to decide they ought to have the power to punish; "if it would consume the time and confusion of every Court of this State should have power to examine the commitments of the other Courts of the State for contempts; so that the judgment and commitment of each respective Court, as to contempts, must be final and without control." 3 Wilson, 204. This doctrine was fully recognized by the Court of Common Pleas of England, in the case referred to. It has since been approved of, in numerous other cases, in that country and in this.

In ex parte Kearney, 7 Wheaton, 38, it was affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States, in accordance with the decision in Brass Crosby's case, 3 Wilson, 188, that, "when a Court commits a party for contempt, their adjudication is a conviction, and their commitment in consequence is execution." 7 Wheaton, 38, 5 Cond. Rep. 237. In the case last cited, it was also expressly decided, that "a writ of habeas corpus was not deemed a proper remedy where a party was committed for contempt by a Court of competent jurisdiction, and that if granted, the Court could not inquire into the cause of commitment." 7 Wheaton, 38. Many authorities to the same effect are cited by Chief Justice Cranch, in Nugent's case. 1 American Law Journal, 111.

But it is alleged that the District Court had no jurisdiction. It does not appear that its jurisdiction was questioned on the hearing before it. The Act of Congress of 24th September, 1789, gives it power to issue "writs of habeas corpus which may be necessary for its jurisdiction, and agreeable to the principles and usages of law;" and the same act expressly authorizes the Judge of that Court to grant writs of habeas corpus "for the purpose of inquiry into the cause of commitment; provided, that writs of habeas corpus shall in no case extend to persons in jail, unless where they are in custody under the authority of the United States or committed for trial before some Court of the same, or are necessary to be brought into Court to testify. Other acts of Congress give the United States Judges jurisdiction in writs of habeas corpus in cases therein specified. It does not appear that the writ issued for persons in jail, or in disregard of State process or State authority. It may be that in an action at law, where the judgment of a United States Court is relied on as a justification, the jurisdiction should be affirmatively shown. But in a writ of habeas corpus, issued by a Judge having no appellate power over the tribunal whose judgment is shown as the cause of detainer, where the jurisdiction of the latter depends upon the existence of certain facts, and no objections to its authority are made on the hearing, the jurisdiction ought to be presumed, as against the party who might have raised the question at the proper time, but failed to do so. It is true that, if the jurisdiction be not alleged in the proceedings, the judgments and decrees of the United States Courts are erroneous, and may, upon writ of error or appeal, be reversed for that cause. But they are not absolute nullities. If other parties who had no opportunity to object to their proceeding, and who would not have writs of error, may disregard them as nullities, it does not follow that the parties themselves may so treat them.—Kempe's lessee vs. Kennedy—5 Cr., 173; Skillern's Ex'r vs. May's Ex'r—6 Cranch, 267; McCormick vs. Sullivan—10 Wheat. 192.

It is alleged that the right of property cannot be determined on habeas corpus. It is true that the habeas corpus act was not intended to decide rights of property, but the writ at common law may be issued to deliver an infant to a parent, or an apprentice to a master. Com. vs. Robinson, 1 B. & R., 25 R. On the same principle, I see no reason why the writ at common law may not be used to deliver a slave from illegal restraint, and to restore him to the custody of his master. But granting, for the purpose of the argument, (which I am far from intimating,) that the District Judge made an improper use of the writ,—that he erred in deciding that the prisoner refused to answer it,—that he also erred in the construction of the answer which was given, and that he otherwise violated the rights of the prisoner, it is certainly not in my power to reverse his decision.

If a writ of habeas corpus had issued from a State Court to the United States Marshal, and that Court had adjudicated that the Marshal was guilty of a contempt in refusing to answer it, and had committed him to prison, the District Court of the United States would have no power to reverse that decision, or to release the Marshal from imprisonment. No Court would tolerate such an interference with its judgments. The respect which we claim for our own adjudications, we cheerfully extend to those of other Courts within their respective jurisdictions.

For these reasons the writ of habeas corpus is refused.

ELLIS LEWIS.

August 1, 1855.

List of Patents

Issued from the United States Patent Office for the week ending July 31, 1855—each bearing that date:

John H. Atwater, of Kalamazoo—For improvement in washing machines.

Nelson Barlow, of Newark—For improved method of feeding planks to planing machines.

Simon Barnhart, of Chillicothe—For fan blower.

Oliver D. Barrett, of Fulton, N. Y.—For improvement in washing machines.

John Erickson, of New-York—For improvement in air engines.

John A. Estes, of Westbrook, Me., and John Richardson, of Portland, Me.—For improved machines for ruling and roping paper.

John L. Elder, of Westbrook, Me., and Ephraim

[illegible]

James Harrison, Jr., of Milwaukee—For improvement in water meters.

James Harrison, Jr., of Milwaukee—For improvement in bowling machines.

Livern Hall, of Charlestown, Mass.—For machine for sewing rattan.

Solon S. Judkins, of Lock Haven, Pa.—For improvement in machine for compressing pulp for boilers and other masses of [illegible].

Jesse Johnson, of Washington, D. C.—For improvement in washing machines.

Fielding H. Kennedy, of Newport, Ky.—For steam-saw manual.

Stephen Moselitz, of Mauch-Chunk, Pa.—For improvement in [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible].

Fred. Perry, of Newark—For improvement in [illegible] valves for steam engines.

Wm. H. Rhodes, M. D., of Berlin, N. Y.—For improvement in artificial legs.

Wm. Schere, of New-York—For improvement in vacilating beds.

Isaac M. Singer, New-York—For improvement in sewing machines.

Paul Stillman, of New-York—For improvement in water cannon for steam boilers.

Elias C. Salisbury, of New-York—For improvement in excluding dust from railway cars.

Geo. S. Sherwood, of Canaan, N. H.—For improvement in stump and road [illegible].

C. C. Taylor, of Delafield, Wis.—For improved [illegible] for water wheel.

Amos Van Hagan, of Cincinnati—For improvement in [illegible] [illegible].

Norman W. Wheeler, of Cincinnati—For method of operating steam valves. Ante-dated March 1, 1855.

Henry H. Washington, of Brooklyn—For improvement in direct acting hydraulic steam pumps.

Wm. C. Wolf, of Philadelphia—For improvement in writing desks.

Samuel M. Yost, of Connersville, Ind.—For improvement in washing machines.

Lucius N. Bigelow, of Ossa, N. Y.—For improvement in cooking machines.

Samuel A. Briggs, of Providence—For improvement in hot-air furnaces.

John P. Hayes, of Philadelphia—For improvement in ovens. Reissue.

Nathaniel

AUCTION SALES.

[illegible]

P. COLTON, Auctioneer.

LARGE SALE OF CENTRAL HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, CARPETS, OIL-CLOTHS, MIRRORS, PIANO, TABLES, &c., &c.—P. COLTON will sell THIS DAY, Friday, Aug. 8, at 10½ o'clock, at the [illegible] Central Hotel, No. 12 Mercer-st., a very [illegible] Household Furniture, Carpets, Oil-Cloths, Mirrors, Piano, Tables, &c. Also, all the second-hand furniture, [illegible] Also, will be sold [illegible] Also, a large assortment of renovated, mahogany, rosewood, and other bedstead furniture. Also, oil paintings, gilt frame [illegible] glass ware, tablecutlery, &c.

ALBERT H. NICOLAY, Auctioneer.

THIS DAY—FRIDAY, Aug. 8, at 12 o'clock, in front of the store, by order of the Sheriff, about 40 years old, [illegible] in consequence of the owner being in further use for him.

DIVIDENDS.

CUMBERLAND AND PITTSBURG RAILROAD COMPANY.—DIVIDENDS.—The Board of Directors have declared a dividend of five per cent from the earnings of the Company, to the first of May last, to be paid to the stockholders in the same, standing on the books of the Company, on the first of May last, payable in Dividend Scrip, to be issued in the form of a certificate of the Company, to be dated the 1st of July, 1856, with interest semi-annually at the rate of seven per cent per annum, in the City of New-York.

Stockholders on the New-York books will receive their dividend at the office of the Orin Life Insurance and Trust Company in New-York, on and after the 1st of August.

Signed, E. ROCKWELL, Secretary.

PEORIA AND BUREAU VALLEY RAILROAD COMPANY.—A semi-annual dividend of four per cent, payable in cash on and after the 15th inst., at the Office of the Company, No. 15 William-st., New-York.

The transfer books will be closed on the 10th, and be reopened on the following day.

CHARLES W. DURANT, Treasurer.

DIVIDEND NOTICE.—The Directors of the MONUMENTAL FIRE AND BANKING COMPANY have this day declared a dividend of five per cent, from the earnings of the Company, payable on and after the first TUESDAY, (the 5th,) of August next, at their office of Jersey City, and to receive [illegible] THOS. SELL, Auctioneer.

W. A. Conover, Auctioneer, No. 62 Dey-st., cor. Greenwich.

DAMASKED GOODS, OGAKA, FURNITURE, DIRT COLLARS.—THIS DAY, at 10½ o'clock, at No. [illegible] Damasked Goods, woolen ware, nails, sheets, [illegible] Also, a large assortment of new and second-hand furniture, [illegible] carriages, harness, and forges, pianos, [illegible] wine, champagne, smoking and chewing tobacco. TOMS MORRELL, Auctioneer.

ANCHORS SALE.—THIS DAY, at 12 o'clock, a large stock of the top Gold Jewelry for gentlemen and ladies, [illegible] at 12 o'clock, Furniture, Oil Paintings, &c., of excellent quality and large assortment. Also, [illegible] at 10½ o'clock, stock of Cigars, in lots to suit purchasers. GEORGE DOUS, Auctioneer.

EXTENSIVE SALE OF NEW AND FASHIONABLE FURNITURE.—THIS DAY, Friday, Aug. 8, at 10 o'clock, at auctioneer's, No. 342 Broadway, corner of Walker-st., a large assortment of renovated, mahogany, rosewood, and cane seat furniture. Also oil paintings, gilt frame [illegible] glass and glass ware, tablecutlery, &c.

ALBERT H. NICOLAY, Auctioneer.

THIS DAY—FRIDAY, Aug. 8, at 12 o'clock, in front of the store, by order of the Sheriff, about 40 years old, [illegible] in consequence of the owner being in further use for him.

FINANCIAL.

BROWN, BROTHERS & CO.
No. 59 WALL-ST.,
ISSUE CREDITS FOR TRAVELERS, available in any part of the world.

MESSRS. MORGAN, GRENFELL & CO., Bankers, No. 53 Wall-st., New-York, issue FOREIGN CIRCULAR LETTERS OF CREDIT on the following places:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Vienna, | Cincinnati, | Leipsic, | Pau, |
| Antwerp, | Columbia, | Madrid, | Rotterdam, |
| Albany, | Charleston, | Malta, | Rouen, |
| Amsterdam, | Cadiz, | Marseilles, | Rio de Janeiro, |
| Augusta, | Dresden, | Milan, | St. Petersburg, |
| Baltimore, | Dublin, | Montreal, | Stockholm, |
| Berlin, | Dusseldorf, | Munich, | Turin, |
| Bremen, | Florence, | Naples, | Venice, |
| Boston, | Frankfort, | Nantes, | Vienna, |
| Brussels, | Genoa, | Palermo, | Warsaw, |
| Bremen, | Hamburg, | Philadelphia, | Zurich. |
| Bremen, | Hague, | Madeira, | |
| Cincinnati, | Havre, | Mobile, | |
| Cincinnati, | Heidelberg, | Naples, | |
| Cincinnati, | Hong Kong, | Nassau, | |
| Cincinnati, | Leipsic, | Nice, | |
| Cincinnati, | Leipsic, | Oporto, | |
| Cincinnati, | Leipsic, | Orleans, | |
| Cincinnati, | Leipsic, | Paris, | |
| Cincinnati, | Leipsic, | Palermo, | |
| Columbia, Cap. | Lyons, | Palermo, | |

ALSO, CREDITS FOR INDIA AND CHINA ON THE ORIENTAL BANK CORPORATION OF LONDON.

Branches and Agencies at

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Canton, | Shanghai, | Calcutta, |
| Hong Kong, | Bombay, | Madras, |

CREDITS FOR AUSTRALIA ON THE BANK OF NEW SOUTH WALES OF LONDON.

Branches and Agencies at

| | |
|---|---|
| Melbourne, | Hunter River, |
| Brisbane and Ipswich, | Marnion Bay, |
| Victoria Branches: | |
| Melbourne, | Geelong, |
| Castlemaine, | Sandhurst, |
| Ballarat, | Mount Alexander, |
| Sandhurst Agency, | Beechworth, |
| Ovens Agency, | |

THE AMERICAN-EUROPEAN JOINT-STOCK TRADING AND EXCHANGE COMPANY, No. 72 Broadway, New-York.—Capital Stock, $250,000.—This Company have purchased the Europe, Asia, Egypt, Cases of Messrs. Leopold Wolfe & Co., Paris, Bank of Chy, and Edwards, Sanford & Co., and are prepared to forward goods, merchandise, specimens, valuable articles and treasure to all the principal cities of Europe, to transact all Custom-House business, and to make disposition in New-York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore for turn-in Bills of Exchange in sums to suit purchasers, and Letters of Credit on all the principal cities of Great Britain and the Continent, and to execute abroad commissions of every description.

Purchases for European account will be forwarded by all the first lines of the United States and the Canadas. Bills of Exchange of this Company on the principal cities of Europe can be purchased of agents in all the principal towns and cities of the United States and the Canadas.

FOREIGN OFFICES—London, Liverpool, Paris, Havre, Bremen, Antwerp, and Leipsic.

H. S. LANSING, Manager.

KISSAM & TAYLOR.—No. 3 Wall-st., National Bank Building. Notes and Drafts payable in the principal cities and towns of the United States and Canadas collected, and prompt returns given. We send proceeds to our customers immediately on receipt of advice of payment. Circulars containing the charges and all necessary information, can be obtained on application.

B. F. KISSAM,
Formerly Paying Teller in the Bank of America.
B. TAYLOR, Jr.

REFERENCES:

| | |
|---|---|
| Bank of America, | Leather Manufacturers' Bank. |
| National Bank. | Shoe and Leather Bank. |

TO THE BONDHOLDERS OF THE MANSFIELD AND SANDUSKY, MANSFIELD AND NEWARK, AND COLUMBUS AND LAKE ERIE RAILROAD COMPANIES: The Committee appointed at the late meeting of the Astor House have prepared the agreement to be signed by the different interests in the above Companies, in accordance with the report there made and adopted, and it can be found at the Office of H. D. St. GIBBON, Jr., 48 Pearl-st., where the Bondholders are requested to call and sign the same without delay. Any further information can then and there be obtained.

New-York, July 24, 1856.

ON SALE.

CITY OF CLEVELAND 7 per cent Bonds, (Water Loan.)
CITY OF DETROIT 7 per cent Bonds, (Water Loan.)
CITY OF CINCINNATI 6 per cent Bonds.
CITY OF CHICAGO 8 per cent Bonds.
CITY OF MILWAUKEE 7 per cent Bonds.
CITY OF SACRAMENTO 10 per cent Bonds, for
DUNCAN, SHERMAN & CO., Bankers, 48 William-st.

LAND WARRANTS WANTED
BY TAYLOR BROTHERS, BANKERS,
No. 78 Wall-st.

Parties wishing to purchase will always find a supply of WARRANTS for sale at our office.

MAD RIVER AND LAKE ERIE RAILROAD COMPANY.—The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the Mad River and Lake Erie Railroad Company will be held at their office in Sandusky, on WEDNESDAY, the 20th August, at 10 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of electing Directors for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of any other business that may come before it.

JAMES A. WALLIS, Secretary.

Sandusky, July 21, 1856.

NEW-YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY.—TREASURER'S OFFICE, ALBANY, July 19, 1856.—NOTICE.—The transfer books of this Company will be closed at the office of business on SATURDAY, 26th inst., and will be reopened on the morning of TUESDAY, 5th of August next. JOHN V. L. PRUYN, Treasurer.

JOHN B. MURRAY, No. 46 Wall-st., our Bank of North America, makes cash advances upon receipts of every grade, (whether at sea or in port,) upon flour, grain, provisions and other merchandise, and upon all Bank, Railroad, and Fire Insurance Stocks.

JOHN G. WESTON & CO., No. 20 Wall-st. (office of Messrs. F. F. James & Co.), New-York. Stocks and bonds of every description bought and sold strictly on commission. Refer to Bank of the Republic and Bank of North America.

LAND WARRANTS WANTED by
KIRTLAND & CO.,
No. 43 Wall-st.

MEIGS & GREENLEAF.—Office, No. 23 William-st. Stocks and Bonds bought and sold strictly on commission.

EXCURSIONS.

EXCURSION.—THE REGATTA OF THE NEW-YORK YACHT CLUB.—The Regatta of the New-York Yacht Club will take place at Glen Cove on FRIDAY, Aug. 8.

The steamer CROTON, W. H. Wood, master, will leave New-York from Peck-slip, Aug. 8, at 8 A. M., touching at Primes Dock and Whitestone, and will leave her passengers at Glen Cove. Returning on the same day, she will leave Glen Cove at about 6 P. M. for Primes Dock, Whitestone and New-York.

The new and splendid steamer GLEN COVE, Captain JOHN GERMAIN, will leave Peck-slip, New-York, Aug. 8, at 9½ o'clock A. M., for Glen Cove, and will arrive there in time for the race. This steamer will touch at Glen Cove, and taking such passengers as may wish to witness the race, will accompany the yachts until 2 o'clock, P. M., when she will touch at Glen Cove and return to New-York, arriving there at 8½ P. M.

On the arrival of the CROTON at Glen Cove she will be at the disposal of the Committee of Arrangements, and such of her passengers as may wish to attend the race will be taken by the steamer GLEN COVE.

No freight will be taken on these trips.

Fare to Glen Cove 37½ cents.

Fare from Glen Cove on excursion to accompany Yachts 50 cents.

Fare from Glen Cove to New-York 37½ cents.

The steamer CROTON will take passengers from Glen Cove to New-York, Primes Dock and Whitestone on her return at 8 P. M.

AUGUST, 1856.—The new and splendid steamer OCEAN WAVE, Capt. R. B. PARKER, for SHREWSBURY, Highlands, Ocean House, Long Branch, Port Washington, Mount's Dock, Brown's Dock, (Middletown,) and Red Bank, will run on follows, from foot of Jay-st., pier, N. R., first dock above the Erie Railroad dock:

| LEAVE NEW-YORK. | | LEAVE RED BANK. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Friday, Aug. 3 | 7 A. M. | Friday, Aug. 3 | 12 M. |
| Saturday, Aug. 4 | 7 A. M. | Saturday, Aug. 4 | 11 A. M. |
| Sat. for Passen. only | 3 P. M. | Sat. for Passen. only | 3 P. M. |
| Sunday, Aug. 5 | 8 A. M. | Sunday, Aug. 5 | 11 P. M. |
| Monday, Aug. 6 | 10 A. M. | Monday, Aug. 6 | 2 P. M. |
| Tuesday, Aug. 7 | 11 A. M. | Tuesday, Aug. 7 | 3 P. M. |
| Wednesday, Aug. 8 | 12 M. | Wednesday, Aug. 8 | 4 P. M. |
| Thursday, Aug. 9 | 12½ P. M. | Thursday, Aug. 9 | 4½ P. M. |
| Friday, Aug. 10 | 2 A. M. | Friday, Aug. 10 | 5 P. M. |
| Saturday, Aug. 11 | 2½ P. M. | Saturday, Aug. 11 | 6 P. M. |
| Sunday, Aug. 12 | 6 A. M. | Sunday, Aug. 12 | 3 P. M. |

ELIAS HAIGHT'S line of Square Stages connect with this Boat.

FOR SHREWSBURY, LONG BRANCH, HIGHLANDS, OCEAN HOUSE, LITTLE SILVER POINT, OCEAN PORT AND EATONTOWN.—FARE 37½ CENTS.—The new and light draft steamer JAMES CHRISTOPHER, Capt. JOHN BORDEN, will run from foot of Jay-st., N. R., as follows:

| Leaves New-York. | | Leaves Ocean Port. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Tuesday, July 31 | 8 A. M. | Tuesday, July 31 | 4 P. M. |
| Wednesday, Aug. 1 | 8 A. M. | Wednesday, Aug. 1 | 5 P. M. |
| Thursday, Aug. 2 | 8 A. M. | Thursday, Aug. 2 | 5 P. M. |
| Friday, Aug. 3 | 8 A. M. | Friday, Aug. 3 | 4 P. M. |
| Saturday, Aug. 4 | 1 P. M. | Saturday, Aug. 4 | 6 P. M. |
| Sunday, Aug. 5 | 8 A. M. | Sunday, Aug. 5 | 3 P. M. |
| Monday, Aug. 6 | 8 A. M. | Monday, Aug. 6 | 3 A. M. |
| Monday, Aug. 6 | 2 P. M. | Tuesday, Aug. 7 | 10 A. M. |

Stages for Squan, Red Bank and all parts of the country.

GRAND EXCURSION TO THE FISHING GRANKS, on FRIDAY, SATURDAY and SUNDAY, August 2, 4 and 5, 1856.—Fare 50 cents.—By the safe and commodious double-engine steamer MASSACHUSETTS, E. B. HAMES, Commander, leaving Pier foot of Kingsland, at 6 o'clock, and Pier No. 2, North River, at 6 A. M. Fishing Tackle and Bait on board. A Band of Music will be in attendance.

AFTERNOON BOAT FOR RONDOUT AND KINGSTON.—Landing at Cozzens, West Point, Cold Spring, Cornwall, Newburg, New-Hamburg, Milton and Poughkeepsie.—The fast and graceful steamer ALIDA, Capt. JUDSON MOREY, leaves New-York, foot Robinson-st., EVERY AFTERNOON at 3½ o'clock. Returning, leaves Rondout EVERY MORNING at 6½ o'clock, making all the above landings, arriving in New-York at 12 M.

TO CHARTER FOR EXCURSIONS.—The safe and commodious steamer MASSACHUSETTS, E. B. HAMES, Commander, being now in complete order, can be chartered for Excursions. She is the largest and most elegant steamer offered for the purpose, having a dancing saloon 112 feet long. Apply on board, at the foot of Kingsland, North River, or to L. H. GROVES, No. 102 Broadway, up stairs.

FOR CONEY ISLAND AND FORT HAMILTON.—Steamer SOWANA, Capt. BOGART, will run the regular trips for the season, leaving New-York as follows: Pier foot of Amos-st. at 9½ A. M., 12½ and 3½ P. M. Pier foot Spring-st. at 10 A. M., 1½ and 4½ P. M. Pier No. 1 North River at 10½ A. M., 1 and 4 P. M. Leave Coney Island at 11 A. M., 2 and 6½ P. M. Fare to Coney Island and back to New-York, 25 cents. No half price for children.

CHEAP EXCURSIONS BY THE LONG ISLAND RAILROAD, BETWEEN GREENPORT, SAG HARBOR AND NEW-YORK.—Fare 50 cents. Leave Brooklyn every TUESDAY, THURSDAY and SATURDAY, at 6 A. M. Leave Greenport every MONDAY, WEDNESDAY and FRIDAY, at 10 A. M.

A BROOKDAG FIG IRON.—For sale wholesale and retail purposes—for sale by JOHN W. QUINCY, No. 48 William-st., corner of Platt-st., agent of the Albion Cove Company.

WIRE ROPE.—Of every size, strength and degree of flexibility from 4 inch diameter upwards, for hoisting stores, &c. &c. For sale by CHAS. W. COPELAND, No. 64 Broadway.

MEDICAL.

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S
PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION,
By Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women. (One Hundred Edition, (Revised,) Illust. 25 cts. (108 pp. paper, extra binding, $1.)

Every woman can, very discreet, by comparing her own symptoms with those described, the nature, character and cause of her complaint, and by means of her anxiety and suffering. The work should be read by every mother, and often used of instruction and advice in respect to her situation, which she will here find. This book tells her what is the matter, and tells her what to do for it, in simple and plain language, and much at the easy expense.

Those suffering from obstructions or irregularities, peculiar to the female system, or from weakness after falling of the womb, or some other illness, will find aid in the pages the means of prevention, amelioration and relief.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Dayton, Ohio.

DAYTON, May 1, 1847.

Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU—My Dear Sir—My wife has been miserably weak for some three years or more, in consequence of great anguish and suffering, since months before our first confinement; every discovery she made and more debilitated and worse and her, putting her life in imminent danger, and which was on the last occasion despaired of. I learned that this state of things was terrible, and resigned myself to meet the worst. I heard your book highly spoken of by a gentleman whom I met in Dayton, Ohio. On its receipt and perusal I concluded to try the relief it afforded my distressed mind, and the joy of the result was unexpected. I am happy to say that the great discovery of M. M. Dupontenis provides a remedy. It opened a prospect to me which I had long ceased to have passed over my head. In all human probability, my wife would have been in her grave, or a mother never enjoyed, but for your book.

For sale by STRINGER & TOWNSEND, No. 229 Broadway; SHERMAN & CO., Astor-House, No. 1 Vesey-st.; DEWITT & DAVENPORT, Tribune Building, and at the Author's Office, No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York; JOSEPH TUCKER, Market-st., also, R. E. PETERSON, No. 102 Chestnut-st., Philadelphia. On the receipt of $1, a copy will be transmitted by mail, free of postage, to any part of the United States. All letters must be addressed, post paid, to Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, office No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York, or to box No. 1,284 New-York Post-Office.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.—Mr. KENNEDY, of Rochester, has discovered a remedy for our common humors, a remedy that cures every kind of humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over 1,100 cases, and never failed, except in two cases, where the patients died before his prescription, over 200 certificates of its virtue, all within 20 miles of Boston.

Two bottles are warranted to cure a scrofulous sore mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two to three bottles will clear the system of boils.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.

Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of tetter or salt rheum, and for scurvy, by all the physicians of the United States and the Canadas. Bills of Exchange of this Company on the principal cities of Europe can be purchased of agents in all the principal towns and cities of the United States and the Canadas.

FOREIGN OFFICES—London, Liverpool, Paris, Havre, Bremen, Antwerp, and Leipsic.

H. S. LANSING, Manager.

KISSAM & TAYLOR.—No. 3 Wall-st., National Bank Building. Notes and Drafts payable in the principal cities and towns of the United States and Canadas collected, and prompt returns given. We send proceeds to our customers immediately on receipt of advice of payment. Circulars containing the charges and all necessary information, can be obtained on application.

B. F. KISSAM,
Formerly Paying Teller in the Bank of America.
B. TAYLOR, Jr.

REFERENCES:

| | |
|---|---|
| Bank of America, | Leather Manufacturers' Bank. |
| National Bank. | Shoe and Leather Bank. |

TO THE BONDHOLDERS OF THE MANSFIELD AND SANDUSKY, MANSFIELD AND NEWARK, AND COLUMBUS AND LAKE ERIE RAILROAD COMPANIES: The Committee appointed at the late meeting of the Astor House have prepared the agreement to be signed by the different interests in the above Companies, in accordance with the report there made and adopted, and it can be found at the Office of H. D. St. GIBBON, Jr., 48 Pearl-st., where the Bondholders are requested to call and sign the same without delay. Any further information can then and there be obtained.

New-York, July 24, 1856.

ON SALE.

CITY OF CLEVELAND 7 per cent Bonds, (Water Loan.)
CITY OF DETROIT 7 per cent Bonds, (Water Loan.)
CITY OF CINCINNATI 6 per cent Bonds.
CITY OF CHICAGO 8 per cent Bonds.
CITY OF MILWAUKEE 7 per cent Bonds.
CITY OF SACRAMENTO 10 per cent Bonds, for
DUNCAN, SHERMAN & CO., Bankers, 48 William-st.

LAND WARRANTS WANTED
BY TAYLOR BROTHERS, BANKERS,
No. 78 Wall-st.

Parties wishing to purchase will always find a supply of WARRANTS for sale at our office.

MAD RIVER AND LAKE ERIE RAILROAD COMPANY.—The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the Mad River and Lake Erie Railroad Company will be held at their office in Sandusky, on WEDNESDAY, the 20th August, at 10 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of electing Directors for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of any other business that may come before it.

JAMES A. WALLIS, Secretary.

Sandusky, July 21, 1856.

NEW-YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY.—TREASURER'S OFFICE, ALBANY, July 19, 1856.—NOTICE.—The transfer books of this Company will be closed at the office of business on SATURDAY, 26th inst., and will be reopened on the morning of TUESDAY, 5th of August next. JOHN V. L. PRUYN, Treasurer.

JOHN B. MURRAY, No. 46 Wall-st., our Bank of North America, makes cash advances upon receipts of every grade, (whether at sea or in port,) upon flour, grain, provisions and other merchandise, and upon all Bank, Railroad, and Fire Insurance Stocks.

JOHN G. WESTON & CO., No. 20 Wall-st. (office of Messrs. F. F. James & Co.) New-York. Stocks and bonds of every description bought and sold strictly on commission. Refer to Bank of the Republic and Bank of North America.

LAND WARRANTS WANTED by
KIRTLAND & CO.,
No. 43 Wall-st.

MEIGS & GREENLEAF.—Office, No. 23 William-st. Stocks and Bonds bought and sold strictly on commission.

EXCURSIONS.

EXCURSION.—THE REGATTA OF THE NEW-YORK YACHT CLUB.—The Regatta of the New-York Yacht Club will take place at Glen Cove on FRIDAY, Aug. 8.

The steamer CROTON, W. H. Wood, master, will leave New-York from Peck-slip, Aug. 8, at 8 A. M., touching at Primes Dock and Whitestone, and will leave her passengers at Glen Cove. Returning on the same day, she will leave Glen Cove at about 6 P. M. for Primes Dock, Whitestone and New-York.

The new and splendid steamer GLEN COVE, Captain JOHN GERMAIN, will leave Peck-slip, New-York, Aug. 8, at 9½ o'clock A. M., for Glen Cove, and will arrive there in time for the race. This steamer will touch at Glen Cove, and taking such passengers as may wish to witness the race, will accompany the yachts until 2 o'clock, P. M., when she will touch at Glen Cove and return to New-York, arriving there at 8½ P. M.

On the arrival of the CROTON at Glen Cove she will be at the disposal of the Committee of Arrangements, and such of her passengers as may wish to attend the race will be taken by the steamer GLEN COVE.

No freight will be taken on these trips.

Fare to Glen Cove 37½ cents.

Fare from Glen Cove on excursion to accompany Yachts 50 cents.

Fare from Glen Cove to New-York 37½ cents.

The steamer CROTON will take passengers from Glen Cove to New-York, Primes Dock and Whitestone on her return at 8 P. M.

AUGUST, 1856.—The new and splendid steamer OCEAN WAVE, Capt. R. B. PARKER, for SHREWSBURY, Highlands, Ocean House, Long Branch, Port Washington, Mount's Dock, Brown's Dock, (Middletown,) and Red Bank, will run on follows, from foot of Jay-st., pier, N. R., first dock above the Erie Railroad dock:

| LEAVE NEW-YORK. | | LEAVE RED BANK. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Friday, Aug. 3 | 7 A. M. | Friday, Aug. 3 | 12 M. |
| Saturday, Aug. 4 | 7 A. M. | Saturday, Aug. 4 | 11 A. M. |
| Sat. for Passen. only | 3 P. M. | Sat. for Passen. only | 3 P. M. |
| Sunday, Aug. 5 | 8 A. M. | Sunday, Aug. 5 | 11 P. M. |
| Monday, Aug. 6 | 10 A. M. | Monday, Aug. 6 | 2 P. M. |
| Tuesday, Aug. 7 | 11 A. M. | Tuesday, Aug. 7 | 3 P. M. |
| Wednesday, Aug. 8 | 12 M. | Wednesday, Aug. 8 | 4 P. M. |
| Thursday, Aug. 9 | 12½ P. M. | Thursday, Aug. 9 | 4½ P. M. |
| Friday, Aug. 10 | 2 A. M. | Friday, Aug. 10 | 5 P. M. |
| Saturday, Aug. 11 | 2½ P. M. | Saturday, Aug. 11 | 6 P. M. |
| Sunday, Aug. 12 | 6 A. M. | Sunday, Aug. 12 | 3 P. M. |

ELIAS HAIGHT'S line of Square Stages connect with this Boat.

FOR SHREWSBURY, LONG BRANCH, HIGHLANDS, OCEAN HOUSE, LITTLE SILVER POINT, OCEAN PORT AND EATONTOWN.—FARE 37½ CENTS.—The new and light draft steamer JAMES CHRISTOPHER, Capt. JOHN BORDEN, will run from foot of Jay-st., N. R., as follows:

| Leaves New-York. | | Leaves Ocean Port. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Tuesday, July 31 | 8 A. M. | Tuesday, July 31 | 4 P. M. |
| Wednesday, Aug. 1 | 8 A. M. | Wednesday, Aug. 1 | 5 P. M. |
| Thursday, Aug. 2 | 8 A. M. | Thursday, Aug. 2 | 5 P. M. |
| Friday, Aug. 3 | 8 A. M. | Friday, Aug. 3 | 4 P. M. |
| Saturday, Aug. 4 | 1 P. M. | Saturday, Aug. 4 | 6 P. M. |
| Sunday, Aug. 5 | 8 A. M. | Sunday, Aug. 5 | 3 P. M. |
| Monday, Aug. 6 | 8 A. M. | Monday, Aug. 6 | 3 A. M. |
| Monday, Aug. 6 | 2 P. M. | Tuesday, Aug. 7 | 10 A. M. |

Stages for Squan, Red Bank and all parts of the country.

GRAND EXCURSION TO THE FISHING GRANKS, on FRIDAY, SATURDAY and SUNDAY, August 2, 4 and 5, 1856.—Fare 50 cents.—By the safe and commodious double-engine steamer MASSACHUSETTS, E. B. HAMES, Commander, leaving Pier foot of Kingsland, at 6 o'clock, and Pier No. 2, North River, at 6 A. M. Fishing Tackle and Bait on board. A Band of Music will be in attendance.

AFTERNOON BOAT FOR RONDOUT AND KINGSTON.—Landing at Cozzens, West Point, Cold Spring, Cornwall, Newburg, New-Hamburg, Milton and Poughkeepsie.—The fast and graceful steamer ALIDA, Capt. JUDSON MOREY, leaves New-York, foot Robinson-st., EVERY AFTERNOON at 3½ o'clock. Returning, leaves Rondout EVERY MORNING at 6½ o'clock, making all the above landings, arriving in New-York at 12 M.

TO CHARTER FOR EXCURSIONS.—The safe and commodious steamer MASSACHUSETTS, E. B. HAMES, Commander, being now in complete order, can be chartered for Excursions. She is the largest and most elegant steamer offered for the purpose, having a dancing saloon 112 feet long. Apply on board, at the foot of Kingsland, North River, or to L. H. GROVES, No. 102 Broadway, up stairs.

FOR CONEY ISLAND AND FORT HAMILTON.—Steamer SOWANA, Capt. BOGART, will run the regular trips for the season, leaving New-York as follows: Pier foot of Amos-st. at 9½ A. M., 12½ and 3½ P. M. Pier foot Spring-st. at 10 A. M., 1½ and 4½ P. M. Pier No. 1 North River at 10½ A. M., 1 and 4 P. M. Leave Coney Island at 11 A. M., 2 and 6½ P. M. Fare to Coney Island and back to New-York, 25 cents. No half price for children.

CHEAP EXCURSIONS BY THE LONG ISLAND RAILROAD, BETWEEN GREENPORT, SAG HARBOR AND NEW-YORK.—Fare 50 cents. Leave Brooklyn every TUESDAY, THURSDAY and SATURDAY, at 6 A. M. Leave Greenport every MONDAY, WEDNESDAY and FRIDAY, at 10 A. M.

A BROOKDAG FIG IRON.—For sale wholesale and retail purposes—for sale by JOHN W. QUINCY, No. 48 William-st., corner of Platt-st., agent of the Albion Cove Company.

WIRE ROPE.—Of every size, strength and degree of flexibility from 4 inch diameter upwards, for hoisting stores, &c. &c. For sale by CHAS. W. COPELAND, No. 64 Broadway.

MEDICAL.

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S
PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION,
By Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women. (One Hundred Edition, (Revised,) Illust. 25 cts. (108 pp. paper, extra binding, $1.)

Every woman can, very discreet, by comparing her own symptoms with those described, the nature, character and cause of her complaint, and by means of her anxiety and suffering. The work should be read by every mother, and often used of instruction and advice in respect to her situation, which she will here find. This book tells her what is the matter, and tells her what to do for it, in simple and plain language, and much at the easy expense.

Those suffering from obstructions or irregularities, peculiar to the female system, or from weakness after falling of the womb, or some other illness, will find aid in the pages the means of prevention, amelioration and relief.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Dayton, Ohio.

DAYTON, May 1, 1847.

Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU—My Dear Sir—My wife has been miserably weak for some three years or more, in consequence of great anguish and suffering, since months before our first confinement; every discovery she made and more debilitated and worse and her, putting her life in imminent danger, and which was on the last occasion despaired of. I learned that this state of things was terrible, and resigned myself to meet the worst. I heard your book highly spoken of by a gentleman whom I met in Dayton, Ohio. On its receipt and perusal I concluded to try the relief it afforded my distressed mind, and the joy of the result was unexpected. I am happy to say that the great discovery of M. M. Dupontenis provides a remedy. It opened a prospect to me which I had long ceased to have passed over my head. In all human probability, my wife would have been in her grave, or a mother never enjoyed, but for your book.

For sale by STRINGER & TOWNSEND, No. 229 Broadway; SHERMAN & CO., Astor-House, No. 1 Vesey-st.; DEWITT & DAVENPORT, Tribune Building, and at the Author's Office, No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York; JOSEPH TUCKER, Market-st., also, R. E. PETERSON, No. 102 Chestnut-st., Philadelphia. On the receipt of $1, a copy will be transmitted by mail, free of postage, to any part of the United States. All letters must be addressed, post paid, to Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, office No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York, or to box No. 1,284 New-York Post-Office.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.—Mr. KENNEDY, of Rochester, has discovered a remedy for our common humors, a remedy that cures every kind of humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over 1,100 cases, and never failed, except in two cases, where the patients died before his prescription, over 200 certificates of its virtue, all within 20 miles of Boston.

Two bottles are warranted to cure a scrofulous sore mouth.

One to three bottles will cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two to three bottles will clear the system of boils.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of ringworm.

Three to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of tetter or salt rheum, and for scurvy, by all the physicians of the United States and the Canadas. Bills of Exchange of this Company on the principal cities of Europe can be purchased of agents in all the principal towns and cities of the United States and the Canadas.

FOREIGN OFFICES—London, Liverpool, Paris, Havre, Bremen, Antwerp, and Leipsic.

H. S. LANSING, Manager.

KISSAM & TAYLOR.—No. 3 Wall-st., National Bank Building. Notes and Drafts payable in the principal cities and towns of the United States and Canadas collected, and prompt returns given. We send proceeds to our customers immediately on receipt of advice of payment. Circulars containing the charges and all necessary information, can be obtained on application.

B. F. KISSAM,
Formerly Paying Teller in the Bank of America.
B. TAYLOR, Jr.

REFERENCES:

| | |
|---|---|
| Bank of America, | Leather Manufacturers' Bank. |
| National Bank. | Shoe and Leather Bank. |

TO THE BONDHOLDERS OF THE MANSFIELD AND SANDUSKY, MANSFIELD AND NEWARK, AND COLUMBUS AND LAKE ERIE RAILROAD COMPANIES: The Committee appointed at the late meeting of the Astor House have prepared the agreement to be signed by the different interests in the above Companies, in accordance with the report there made and adopted, and it can be found at the Office of H. D. St. GIBBON, Jr., 48 Pearl-st., where the Bondholders are requested to call and sign the same without delay. Any further information can then and there be obtained.

New-York, July 24, 1856.

ON SALE.

CITY OF CLEVELAND 7 per cent Bonds, (Water Loan.)
CITY OF DETROIT 7 per cent Bonds, (Water Loan.)
CITY OF CINCINNATI 6 per cent Bonds.
CITY OF CHICAGO 8 per cent Bonds.
CITY OF MILWAUKEE 7 per cent Bonds.
CITY OF SACRAMENTO 10 per cent Bonds, for
DUNCAN, SHERMAN & CO., Bankers, 48 William-st.

LAND WARRANTS WANTED
BY TAYLOR BROTHERS, BANKERS,
No. 78 Wall-st.

Parties wishing to purchase will always find a supply of WARRANTS for sale at our office.

MAD RIVER AND LAKE ERIE RAILROAD COMPANY.—The Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the Mad River and Lake Erie Railroad Company will be held at their office in Sandusky, on WEDNESDAY, the 20th August, at 10 o'clock, A. M., for the purpose of electing Directors for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of any other business that may come before it.

JAMES A. WALLIS, Secretary.

Sandusky, July 21, 1856.

NEW-YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY.—TREASURER'S OFFICE, ALBANY, July 19, 1856.—NOTICE.—The transfer books of this Company will be closed at the office of business on SATURDAY, 26th inst., and will be reopened on the morning of TUESDAY, 5th of August next. JOHN V. L. PRUYN, Treasurer.

JOHN B. MURRAY, No. 46 Wall-st., our Bank of North America, makes cash advances upon receipts of every grade, (whether at sea or in port,) upon flour, grain, provisions and other merchandise, and upon all Bank, Railroad, and Fire Insurance Stocks.

JOHN G. WESTON & CO., No. 20 Wall-st. (office of Messrs. F. F. James & Co.) New-York. Stocks and bonds of every description bought and sold strictly on commission. Refer to Bank of the Republic and Bank of North America.

LAND WARRANTS WANTED by
KIRTLAND & CO.,
No. 43 Wall-st.

MEIGS & GREENLEAF.—Office, No. 23 William-st. Stocks and Bonds bought and sold strictly on commission.

EXCURSIONS.

EXCURSION.—THE REGATTA OF THE NEW-YORK YACHT CLUB.—The Regatta of the New-York Yacht Club will take place at Glen Cove on FRIDAY, Aug. 8.

The steamer CROTON, W. H. Wood, master, will leave New-York from Peck-slip, Aug. 8, at 8 A. M., touching at Primes Dock and Whitestone, and will leave her passengers at Glen Cove. Returning on the same day, she will leave Glen Cove at about 6 P. M. for Primes Dock, Whitestone and New-York.

The new and splendid steamer GLEN COVE, Captain JOHN GERMAIN, will leave Peck-slip, New-York, Aug. 8, at 9½ o'clock A. M., for Glen Cove, and will arrive there in time for the race. This steamer will touch at Glen Cove, and taking such passengers as may wish to witness the race, will accompany the yachts until 2 o'clock, P. M., when she will touch at Glen Cove and return to New-York, arriving there at 8½ P. M.

On the arrival of the CROTON at Glen Cove she will be at the disposal of the Committee of Arrangements, and such of her passengers as may wish to attend the race will be taken by the steamer GLEN COVE.

No freight will be taken on these trips.

Fare to Glen Cove 37½ cents.

Fare from Glen Cove on excursion to accompany Yachts 50 cents.

Fare from Glen Cove to New-York 37½ cents.

The steamer CROTON will take passengers from Glen Cove to New-York, Primes Dock and Whitestone on her return at 8 P. M.

AUG

New-York Daily Times.

NEW-YORK CITY.

THE SOFTS.

The Democratic Republican General Committee—The Atlas Cashiered.

A regular meeting of the Democratic Republican (Soft-Shell) General Committee was held at Tammany Hall, Thursday evening. Ex Chairman, HENRY KELLY, presided, and the Secretaries, Messrs. CHANCELLOR and BENEDICT, were at their posts. The meeting was a protracted one. STEPHEN M. DREW was chosen a member of the Committee from the Nineteenth Ward, in place of PHILIP TOBEY, removed from the Ward. The election for two Delegates from each Assembly District to the State Convention at Syracuse, was ordered to be held on the 16th of August, between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock P. M. A proposition to include (as heretofore) the Sunday Atlas among the papers in which to publish the call for the holding of the election, was mainly opposed by Col. MINE and others on account of that paper's hostility to the leader of the New-York Democracy, FERNANDO WOOD. Alderman HERRICK (Editor of the Atlas) replied, defending the course of his paper; but the Atlas, after a very long discussion, was ruled out. Nothing else of interest was done at the meeting.

Wanted—A Mayor.

"Mayor WOOD is looked for in town next Monday." He is needed at home—though we would patiently wait until his health is completely re-established. But he is needed at home—the very minute he has drunk Congress water enough, we entreat him to come home. For, just now, almost every promise that His Honor made in the first flush of enjoyment of the Chief Magistrate's seat is broken and unobserved. He is needed at home to keep them in better repair.

The Sunday Liquor Law which he enforced so well up to the time for the new law to go into effect is now a dead letter—so very dead that it smells bad—(Rev. H. W. BEECHER would use a stronger word.)

The Prohibitory law which he so freely promised the friends of Prohibition, (according to Mr. OLIVER in the Tabernacle,) that he would enforce, is enforced entirely "over the left." The Mayor WOOD of January is wanted in town very much.

Boys, men and girls, stripped to their natural nakedness are bathing every afternoon in the North River close by the stopping places of the steamers; the Captains of the steamers say that they have complained again and again, but nobody stirs a hair to abate the nuisance. Not only is the Mayor out of town, but his Book has gone too, if one may judge from the immunity of all nuisances. A Mayor is badly wanted.

The villainous Peter Funks never so much abounded in Broadway as now. We want a Mayor—a live Mayor, who has a little ballast of deeds to steady his heavy sail of words—one who will be as "HARRY HOWARD was," when in the Assembly, "down on these mocks."

Pickins have got into the Police, and, worse yet, Policy-vendors themselves have gone in and wear the stars. Gamblers are thicker than August blackberries; whole streets are given over to notorious houses of ill-fame, and their brazen inmates never were more impudent in the thoroughfares. If there is a Mayor at Saratoga that can kick out the politics that have nestled in the Station-house Beds,—that dare publish the names of the Policy-vendors on the Police or give the true history of the new appointees in the Department,—that will send a detachment to seize the gamblers, and hunt out the traitors that forewarns them,—that will publish the promised list of landlords who rent houses for purposes of prostitution, or do one-tenth of what Mayor WOOD promised—we want him down here by the first train.

We are not sanguine of the effects of Congress water but if its chalybeates will strengthen weak and faltering knees and purge bad blood of its corruption, we would counsel that our Aldermen and Councilmen, too, should go up, at the City's charge, for just now we need a Mayor.

The Rachel Enthusiasm.

RACHEL stock should go up. The "managing mind" is around. Our heart beats quicker in anticipation of the flush of excitement we shall all feel when the divine RACHEL arrives—for at the present pace she will be divine by the 15th of next month. Over the stagnant surface of New-York feeling a fine stiff breeze will soon blow; the ripples of interest already begin to form, waves of excitement are swelling; the tide of enthusiasm and a perfect storm of delight will visit us before next month is out. Generally the director of the dramatic storm works in secret, but the good conjuror grants us this time a full view of his operations. Let us profit by them:

NO. 49 WALL-STREET, New-York, Aug. 1.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

In answer to your kind queries which I find in your issue of this morning, I beg to state that I am not out of town; that I have never been to Coney Island, and as for being asleep, that the best proofs are even that I am writing such an epistle.

Having thus candidly answered your queries about my whereabouts, I proceed to answer the pace you put regarding RACHEL's portraits, busts, fans, fires, &c.

RACHEL's busts will soon be "abounding in the shop windows." I have not heard of fans being in preparation. The life of RACHEL has been written by an American author whom I had the pleasure to supply with every information in my power. It will soon be published with the illustration of a beautiful likeness of RACHEL, taken in Paris by the Photographic process. Match Photograph has been transferred upon a steel plate by a process still unknown in this part of the world.

As to fires I cannot settle your doubts as to which is the best manner of presenting the name of RACHEL, as I "must rule my fancy follow the French," and present the French name after the rules and customs of the French language. If there is any other information which I can give you, I'll be very happy to do so, as

I remain, my dear sir, your obedient servant,

G. N.

"The man that sees not the pace the Press" on behalf of the managers of the Rachel Dramatic Company.

Monsieur G. N. has not definitely informed us, but it is our impression that if the visitors at Newport and Saratoga return to town by the 15th inst., they will be in abundant season to take the tide of enthusiasm at its flow. Readers, pronounce the lady's name Rash-shell—that's the way they do in Per-ris.

A Nuisance.

By the Blessing of Heaven we have been enabled to enjoy good health and spirits throughout the heated term, rainy term and the Summer term in general. Nothing, however, but a clean conscience, an excellent constitution and extraordinary temperance, has enabled us to bear up under our inflation, which, we doubt not, we share with all of our cast. We refer to the reams of stupid stuff sent us in the shape of parodies upon the tables, furnished the press by E. M. That indefatigable critic of the weather clerk may indeed occasionally draw a conclusion that is not of the highest importance to the world; he may have stated a fact or two, of which a thousand united would not set the world on fire, and yet it is not to be doubted that his observations have a high value, and that he does from the love of it what much money and a profuse affection for science would not tempt others to, even though they appreciate properly the value of such data. Fortunately for the world few of the worthless parodies we speak of have ever enjoyed type, but it is too bad for the editorial fraternity to be obliged to suffer them. We notice an unusual thinning out of the employés of the several editorial rooms of the City, and have suspected that this nuisance has had more to do with it than the flowering of the Allanthus, or any fancied heat of the weather. Won't Mayor BARNUM immortalize himself by choking the pestilent fellows?

Something Rotten, Sure.

The impression is growing that the Board of Health were right in thinking that there was something on hand the Joseph Walter court which would bear a stigma if exposed. There is a very bad smell about the whole subject. Even the little of the wreck that has yet been lifted above water, is enough, if not corrected or quickly disappointed, to corrupt the morals of a generation.

The Snake-Girl in Town.

The snake-girl of Gilmanton was posted as in town last night. If she is not a bogus article, from this time forth it must be admitted that ours is a great country. If she is the true and original humbug that the denizens of the Literary Emporium have lately basked in the enjoyment of, BARNUM must be in the enterprise. But it is childish to charm a baby with a black snake and try to cram that down our throats as a curiosity. Let him take something of his size. Teach the anaconda of the Museum to charm the Maine Giantess, and he will do a thing worthy the noble showman who captured the hearts of the British aristocracy and has letters of appreciation from the British Queen.

The Ocean Telegraph.

Telegraphic communication between New-York and Newfoundland will soon be completed. The iron cable,—74 miles long, and weighing 400 tons,—to cross the strait between Newfoundland and Cape Breton, has arrived from England, and will in a few days be let down to the bottom of the ocean. The steamship Celtona sailed from this City yesterday, having on board PETER COOPER, the President of the Company, CYRUS W. FIELD, Prof. MORSE, Lieut. MAURY, several of the Directors, engineers and others, who go to witness the interesting event.

American and Foreign Bible Society.

A regular monthly meeting of the American and Foreign (Baptist) Bible Society was held at the Bible House, Nassau-street, Thursday afternoon. Rev. Dr. WELSH occupied the Chair, and Rev. Dr. BABCOCK acted as Secretary. The Finance Committee recommended the payment of certain bills, and suggested appropriations for the purchase of Bibles, &c., to be given to churches in different parts of the Union. The recommendations and suggestions were agreed to. An estimate of the amounts needed for the carrying on of the missionary labors of the Society during the next year. Some remarks relative to the progress of the revision and proof-reading of the new edition of the Bible were made, and a large edition of routine business transacted.

Annual Taxes.

The Committee on Annual Taxes, of the Board of Supervisors, met yesterday afternoon. Present, Supervisors KELLY, (Chairman,) and HOFFMIRE.

Statements were received from sundry Corporations, submitting grounds upon which a remission of their taxes was solicited. These affidavits set forth the assets and net profit or loss during the last year of the Corporations, respectively. The Committee stated that in their report they can only be guided by the act of July 21, 1853. When a net profit or clear income has been received equal to five per cent. upon the capital, after deducting the assessed value of their real estate, this amount must be made subject to commutation, and where no profits has been received the assessment must be stricken from the assessment roll. The Committee will thus report upon the papers before them.

"In the Midst of Life we are in Death."

The full force of this "oft repeated truth" has seldom, perhaps, been more painfully illustrated then by two brief announcements which appeared in the New-York papers of yesterday. In the morning our journal reported the marriage of a young gentleman named JAMES NEILSON to the daughter of WM. R. GRAY, Esq., both of New-York. In the Post of last evening an obituary notice appeared, setting forth that JAMES NEILSON had departed this life, at the age of twenty-seven years; and his remains are this day to be conveyed to their last resting-place, from the residence of his father-in-law, WM. R. GRAY, Esq.

Fires.

The entire stock in the grocery-store of W. L. & JOHN R. MEYER, on the corner of Sullivan and Broome streets, was destroyed by fire at 3½ o'clock Wednesday morning. Loss covered by insurance in the North River Company. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary. About the same time on the same day an unoccupied frame dwelling, owned by Mrs. ANN STRIKER, and situated on the corner of Broadway and Fifty-second-street, was damaged by fire to the amount of about $200.

The alarm of fire for the Eighth District, about 11 o'clock last night, was occasioned by the bursting of a camphene lamp, in the basement corner of Washington and Court streets. No damage of consequence was sustained.

A fire broke out in the attic of dwelling-house No. 226 Walker-street, occupied by German families, at 2½ o'clock Thursday morning. It was soon put out, with but little damage.

The Late Bowery Shooting Affair.

By the consent of the District Attorney the Magistrate yesterday admitted JOHN C. WORDEN (the man arrested for discharging a pistol in the face of JAMES G. FINN) to bail in the sum of $4,500 to answer the charge. His bondsman is JAMES T. BRETTNE, of Thirty-eighth-street, between Madison and Fifth avenues; and $2,500 to keep the peace, GEORGE P. WORDEN, of No. 43 Bayard-street, becoming security. WORDEN's wife is with her sister, who is married to GEORGE P. WORDEN.

The American Protestant Association.

Those who, like COWPER, are longing for a lodge, will be happy to learn who are the officers of this U. S. Grand Lodge. As the Association is yet young, and some are curious, we publish the following letter entire:

SECRETARY'S OFFICE, No. 323 Second Avenue, New-York, Tuesday, July 31, 1855.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

Herewith I send a correct and authorized list of the officers elected by the U. S. Grand Lodge of the American Association, at its annual session, held in this City last week, commencing on Monday. Joshua Robinson, Alleghany City, Pa., R. W. G. Master; D. H. Bailey, Cincinnati, O., R. W. Vice G. Master; Dr. W. O'Reilly, No. 323 Second-avenue, N. Y., R. W. G. Secretary; John Mellroy, New-York, R. W. G. Assistant Secretary; David L. Smith, Alleghany City, Pa., R. W. G. Treasurer; Rev. Geo. A. Durborrow, Philadelphia, R. W. G. Chaplain; John Armstrong, Philadelphia, R. W. G. Conductor; Thos. Coburn, Baltimore, Md., R. W. G. Assistant Conductor; John Ralston, Philadelphia, R. W. G. Tyler.

The Right Worthy Grand Lodge, in closing its session on Saturday, adjourned, to meet in Cincinnati, Ohio, on the second Tuesday in June, 1856.

Newspapers noticing the above, will please transmit a copy to the Secretary, who is authorized to furnish such with the printed proceedings soon to be issued.

WALTER O'REILLY,
R. W. G. Sec. American Protestant Association.

To whom, or JOSHUA ROBINSON, all communications relative to the Order may be addressed.

☞ Four only of the Presbyterian pastors in New-York—Rev. Drs. PHILLIPS, SPRING, McELROY and KRESS—have retained their pastoral charge for a period of twenty years, and not one in the Presbyteries of New-York Third, New-York Fourth, Brooklyn and Newark. Of the 27 Presbyterian churches in the City twenty years ago, only 5—the Brick, the Canal-street, the Carmine-street, the Allen-street and the Seventh—are now worshipping in the houses which they then occupied.

☞ The Glen Cove Regatta takes place to-day. Twenty yachts of the New-York Yacht Club, ranging from 16 to 105 tons, have been entered, and sailed yesterday to the point of rendezvous. The brothers ROGERS, the brothers KINGSLAND, M. H. GRINNELL, SIMON DRAPER, J. M. WATERBURY, DUNNIN, STETSON, & STAGG, and F. M. RAY, are among the competitors. The Commodore's Maria is not one of the competitors.

Board of Education.

A regular meeting of this Board was held Wednesday afternoon. Dr. WILLIAMS was called to the Chair.

The Committee on Libraries made a report in favor of establishing libraries in the grammar schools, Ordered printed. Ten thousand dollars was appropriated for the current expenses of the Free Academy.

The following resolution was offered by Mr. E. H. SHERMAN, Commissioner from the Twenty-third Ward:

Resolved, That a Committee of five be elected by ballot, to investigate the financial affairs of this Board, and for the purpose of recommending to this Board such retrenchment as can be made consistent with the actual wants and necessities of the educational establishments of this City.

An exciting debate arose on the motion to adopt the resolution. Pending the discussion it was found that a quorum was not present, when the Chair declared the meeting adjourned.

The next regular meeting will take place on the first Wednesday in September.

Naval Intelligence.

The U. S. frigate Potomac, bearing the broad pendant of HIRAM PAULDING, Commander-in-Chief of the Home Squadron, from Norfolk, four days, has anchored at Quarantine.

Officers—L. N. POWELL, Commander; James L. Gardner, Capt. of the Fleet; Thomas Dillard, Surgeon of the Fleet; H. M. Bickell, Purser; Melancton Smith, W. L. Herndon, L. B Avery, Maxwell Woodhull, (flag,) D. McN. Fairfax, Edward Brinley, Lieutenants; B. Macomber, Captain of Marines; George E. Morse, Master; M. B. Chase, Chaplain; H. C. May and W. O. Harris, Passed Ass't Surgeon; G. R. Graham, Lieutenant of Marines; G. M. Robinson, Commodore's Secretary; J. L. Skerrett, H. M. Garland, Isaac Taylor, T. G. Maxwell, H. Erben, Passed Midshipmen; M. Sicard, Edward Lea, C. L. Morton, H. H. Dalton, Midshipmen; Amar Colson, Boatswain; Wm. H. Hamilton, Gunner; Jas. G. Thomas, Carpenter; James Ferguson, Sailmaker.

New-York Census Returns.

FIRST WARD.

| District. | Dwellings. | Families. | Population. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 298 | 676 | 3,78 |
| 2 | 165 | 269 | 5,29 |
| 3 | 946 | 1,861 | 4,168 |
| Total | 899 | 2,706 | 12,239 |

FOURTH WARD.

| Dist. | Dwellings. | Families. | Population. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 497 | 1,216 | 6,150 |
| 2 | 251 | 1,102 | 5,149 |
| 3 | 201 | 1,103 | 5,556 |
| 4 | 130 | 499 | 3,098 |
| 5 | 158 | 770 | 3,794 |
| Total | 1,177 | 4,690 | 23,650 |

SIXTH WARD.

| District. | Dwellings. | Families. | Population. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 232 | 881 | 4,155 |
| 2 | 222 | 569 | 4,096 |
| 3 | 344 | 1,161 | 4,948 |
| 4 | 156 | 554 | 3,159 |
| 5 | 164 | 1,054 | 4,467 |
| 6 | 250 | 863 | 4,769 |
| Total | 1,370 | 5,090 | 25,590 |

Coroners' Investigations.

SUICIDE.

An inquest was held yesterday by Coroner WILHELM, at the New-York Hospital, upon the body of JOHN CALDWELL, late of No. 68 University-place, a native of Ireland, aged 34 years, who committed suicide by taking laudanum. From the testimony of the wife of deceased (MARIA), it appeared that he had been married to her nine years, and that within the past five years he had given way to habits of intemperance. When in that state he frequently threatened to take his own as also his wife's life; for this purpose he had many times procured laudanum, which had so often been taken from him. Two weeks since she was compelled to leave him, because of her fear of him. She then went to reside with her sister, but visited him daily to see to his comfort. On Wednesday he sent for her, and on her seeing him he told her that he had taken laudanum. This was thought to be but the effects of liquor, as his manner was as usual on such occasions. The wife remained with him till 1 o'clock in the afternoon, when by directions of the physician he was removed to the Hospital, where he died early the next morning. On being taken to the Hospital, it was found that respiration was almost checked from the effects of narcotics, it being only three times per minute. Verdict as above.

FATAL FALL.

Coroner O'DONNELL yesterday held an inquest on the body of JOHN FIELD, a native of Germany, aged sixteen years and six months, who came by his death from a fall from the second story of a new building in Lexington-avenue, near Twenty-ninth-street, where he had taken shelter from the rain. Verdict—"Spinal arachnitis produced by a fall accidentally received."

FALL FROM A BUILDING.

An inquest was held yesterday, on the body of GEORGE KEYSER, a German, aged twenty-nine years in Fifty-third-street, near Fifth-avenue, by Coroner O'DONNELL, who was killed by accidentally falling in a building, No. 530 Broadway, where he was engaged in laying beams on the fifth story. It appears that the beam on which deceased was sitting broke, precipitating him to the ground. He was picked up in a state of insensibility and died in a few minutes. Verdict—"Concussion of the brain caused by a fall." Deceased leaves a wife and child behind him.

FOUND DROWNED.

The body of an unknown man was found off the Battery yesterday. Coroner O'DONNELL held an inquest, when a verdict of "supposed drowning" was rendered. Deceased has apparently been in the water for about three months; he was five feet seven and a half inches in height, had brown hair, with whiskers slightly gray; he wore a blue flannel undershirt, and a cloth shirt of the same color, and black cloth pants. In appearance he looked like a longshoreman.

Railroad Accident.

A boy residing at No. 345 Greenwich-street, named MICHAEL TRACY, was on the afternoon of Wednesday playing near the track of the Eighth-avenue Railroad, at the corner of Church and Barclay streets, when he slipped and fell, a car passing over and crushing his foot. The injured boy was taken by Officer VAN DUSEN to the Hospital. No blame attaches to the driver.

A Cow Bay Muss.

A row was got up by some men in the vicinity of Cow Bay, late on Wednesday evening, in which a man named JAMES DOUGLAS of No. 123 Reade-street had his forehead severely cut by a blow from a club, in the hands of some person unknown. The unfortunate was conveyed to the City Hospital. No arrests were made.

Coup de Soleil.

A resident of Peekskill, named JOHN SIMSON, was struck down by the effects of the heat while walking along Grand-street, near Allen. He received medical aid at the hands of Dr. FRANKELL, and partially recovered. He was then sent home by way of the Hudson River Railroad.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM—Aug. 2.
Before Hon. Justice Cowles.
DECISIONS.

Finlay vs. American Exchange Bank.—Motion to allow costs as to defendants dismissed.

Frost vs. Flynn.—Report confirmed.

[Advertisement.]

☞ Blotches on the Skin, Eruptions, and all cutaneous diseases, will find an infallible remedy in HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS. If the Ointment be rubbed on the parts affected the blotches will disappear. It will cure wounds even of twenty years' standing. Sold at the manufactories, 80 Maiden-lane, New-York, and 244 Strand, London, and by all Druggists, at 25 cents, 62½ cents, and $1 per box.

[Advertisement.]

AMBROTYPES.—An entire new, beautiful and imperishable style of pictures. They are patented, and no one has a right or is taking them in this vicinity, except at my gallery, No. 84 Montgomery-street, Jersey City. Those taken on Broadway are not real Ambrotypes.

WM. A. TORLINSON.

LONG ISLAND.

Excursion.

The Annual Excursion of the Long Island Railroad Company came off on Wednesday. There were present, besides the officers of the Company, about one hundred invited guests—embracing, among the number, nearly all the Brooklyn city officials. A special train was taken for the occasion, which left the foot of Atlantic-street at 8 o'clock A. M.; and after visiting and dining at the eastern end of the Island, and stopping to inspect intermediate points on the route, the party returned, reaching home at 11½ o'clock P. M., all well pleased with the arrangements of the day.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the guests:

Resolved, That the Long Island Railroad Company, by preserving Sundays in the interests of the people of Long Island for a series of years, have vindicated their claim to the public confidence and respect; and that it is the fixed policy of the City of Brooklyn and of Long Island to extend to the road a hearty, zealous, and encouraging support.

Resolved, That the thanks of the guests are due to WILLIAM E. MORRIS, Esq., the President, and the Directors of the Road, for an excursion in all respects agreeable, which has enabled us the better to understand the resources of Long Island, and the importance of the road to their development.

Launch at Patchogue.

Will be launched on Saturday, the 4th instant, from the yard of her builder, O. PERRY SMITH, at Patchogue, L. I., a first class schooner of about 275 tons, to be called the John A. Stanly, and intended for the general coasting trade. She is owned by O. P. SMITH, SAML. N. SMITH, BARNES, BATEMAN & RUDERSOW, WILLIAMS & HINMAN, and Capt. JOHN W. SIMMONS, who will command her.

The Census.

The returns from the Eastern District of Brooklyn are now complete, with the exception of the Fourteenth Ward, and stand as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 12th Ward | 14,635 | 17th Ward | 5,469 |
| 15th Ward | 6,572 | 18th Ward | 2,555 |
| 16th Ward | 15,474 | | |

The only return in the Western District is from the Fourth Ward, which has a population of 12,388.

KINGS COUNTY TOWNS.

| | 1855. | 1850. |
|---|---|---|
| New-Utrecht | 2,728 | 2,150 |
| Gravesend | 1,326 | 1,064 |
| Flatlands | 1,029 | 1,155 |

Two more towns to be heard from.

With Bushwick included, the Eastern District of Brooklyn shows an increase of about 20,000 since 1850.

JAMAICA.

The returns in this town are not quite complete, but so far as returned, the population is estimated at 5,605. The Census Marshals are putting the last finish to their duties. We have been promised the exact figures in a day or two. In the meantime, we may state the population of Flushing to be, in round numbers, 800; Stratonport, which five years ago numbered some half dozen families, has now a population of 1,100; and Whitestone 700.

BROOKLYN.

| Wards. | Districts. | Total. | Wards. | Districts. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1st. | 1st | 3,325 | 7th. | 1st. and 2d | 12,150 |
| 2d. | (complete.) | 7,959 | 8th. | (complete.) | 5,318 |
| 3d. | (complete.) | 9,335 | 10th. | 1st. and 2d | 14,315 |
| 4th. | (complete.) | 12,388 | 11th. | 2d. and 3d | 16,422 |
| 5th. | (complete.) | 16,159 | 12th. | 3d | 5,177 |

Sacrilege.

The Flushing Journal says: "A rumor is circulated hereabout that the grave of the late WALTER R. JONES, at Cold Spring, has been violated by some miscreant, and the massive silver plate wrenched from the coffin and carried off."

NEW-JERSEY.

Hoboken.

The City of Hoboken has been remarkably quiet and orderly during the present week. The arrests have been few and unimportant. Five men, named WHITSON, MCNALLY, MCCLELLAND, COLLINS and WATSON, have been arrested for being engaged in a drunken row, on the road to Hackensack, on Monday. On Wednesday, a lad named JOHANN ADAM was arrested for purloining a small amount of money from his employer, a baker in Garden-street. He confessed his guilt, and was locked up for four days. Yesterday, PATRICK ROWEN was arrested on a charge of assault and battery, and held to bail by Justice BERNARD in the sum of $100, for trial.

MARRIED.

In this City, at Grace Church Rectory, on Tuesday, July 17, by Rev. Thomas H. Taylor, JOHN B. FLANAGAN to CATHARINE ELLA STRANG, all of this City.

In this City, on Wednesday, Aug. 1, by Rev. Dr. Macauley, RALSIE J. FULLER, of Cleveland, Ohio, and EMMA AUGUSTA, daughter of E. W. Peck, of Long Island.

In this City, on Wednesday, Aug. 1, by Rev. Mr. Beck, JAMES NEILSON to CAROLINE H., eldest daughter of Wm. R. Gray, Esq., all of this City.

At Bethel, Sullivan County, N. Y., on Wednesday morning, Aug. 1, by Rev. Wm. S. Reeve, of Queens, L. I., JAS. E. B. THORN, of Utica, and HANNAH H., daughter of Chas. H. Roors.

DIED.

In this City, on Thursday, Aug. 2, Mr. JAMES NEILSON, aged 27 years.

The funeral will take place this day, at 10 o'clock A. M., from the residence of his father-in-law, Wm. R. Gray, No. 207, West 19th-st., between 6th and 7th ave. His friends and those of his father-in-law are respectfully invited to attend.

In this City, on Thursday, Aug. 2, of consumption, Mrs. HARRIET LEACH ROE, in the 35th year.

The friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend her funeral, this (Friday) afternoon, at 1 o'clock, from No. 13 Macdougal-st.

☞ Philadelphia papers please copy.

In this City, on Thursday, Aug. 2, MARGARET MOORE, widow of Daniel Moore aged 72 years, 9 months and 12 days.

The friends and relatives are invited to attend her funeral, at her late residence, No. 20 Christopher-st., on Saturday morning, at 9 o'clock, without further invitation.

In Brooklyn, on Thursday, Aug. 2, MARTHA E., wife of John F. Bell, and only daughter of Dr. H. May.

The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend her funeral, at her late residence, No. 81 Court-st., on Saturday, 4th inst., at 8½ o'clock A. M., without further invitation.

At Port Richmond, S. I., on Wednesday, Aug 1, ELIZABETH, wife of James Sharp.

The relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral, this day, at 2 o'clock P. M., from her late residence.

At Gravesend, L. I., on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 2, MARY M., wife of George Farmer, and daughter of the late Samuel Macaulay, M. D., of this City.

Her remains will be interred in Greenwood Cemetery, on Saturday next. Notice of the funeral will be given to-morrow.

At Bloomsburg, Putnam County, on Sunday, July 29, AGNES, twin daughter of Edward N. and Ann E. Shields, of this City, aged 3 years and 9 months.

At Sea, on the passage from New-Orleans to New-York, SAMUEL WISWALL, Jr., son of Capt. W. J. Wiswall, of this City, aged 22 years.

☞ Post and Commercial please copy.

At Deer Creek, Clinton County, Iowa, on Wednesday, July 25, Mrs SARAH, wife of Mr. W. H. Rodman, and daughter of Mr. P. Williams, of Callicoon, Sullivan County, N. Y., aged 19 years.

The deceased was lovely in her life, and in her death-pain, with the assurance that she was going to her dear Saviour. Her friends would be inconsolable without the sustaining power of the blessed gospel.

At Washington, D. C., on Wednesday, Aug. 1, of disease of the heart JOSEPHINE A. ROMER, aged 18 years 1 month, wife of Charles H. Anderson.

The relatives and friends of the family, also members of Marion Hose Company, are respectfully requested to attend the funeral, from No. 146 Forsyth-st., this (Friday) afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

COMMERCIAL AFFAIRS.

For Markets see Sixth Page.

Sales of the Stock Exchange....AUGUST 2.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| $1,000 Ohio 6s '75 | 112 | 640 N. Y. Cen. R. R. | ⅛ |
| 50,000 Indiana State 5s | 89 | 150 do | ⅛ |
| 20,000 do | 85½ | 100 do | 60 |
| 10,000 Virginia 6s | 100 | 50 do | 60 |
| 1,000 Caldwell's 7s '70 | 86½ | 10 Clev. & Pitt. R. R. | 92 |
| 3,000 Hud. Riv. R. R. | 71 | 100 do | 92 |
| 1,000 Erie C Bo '71, ex int | 88 | 100 do | 92 |
| 6,000 Erie Bds '85 | 88 | 5 Chi & Rock Isl. RR. | 97½ |
| 2,000 Erie Bds. '75, ex int. | 86½ | 50 do | 93 |
| 10,000 do | 86½ | 50 Wh. Lake Shore R. R. | 65½ |
| 1,000 Hud. Convert. Bds | 78 | 110 Mich. Central R. R. | 80 |
| 10,000 Ill. Cen. R. Bds | 80 | 250 Erie Railroad | 35 |
| 28,000 do | 80 | 100 do | 35 |
| 10,000 do | 80 | 100 do | 35 |
| 15,000 do | 82 | 100 do | 35 |
| 8,000 do | 80 | 50 do | 35 |
| 5,000 Ill. Freeland Bds | 82 | 100 do | 35 |
| 4,000 do | 80 | 100 do | 35 |
| 28,000 New-York Cen. 7s | 100 | 100 do | 35 |
| 500 Little-Miami div. scrip | 91 | 100 do | 35 |
| 1,000 Cin. & Toledo div. Bds | 86 | 200 do | 35 |
| 100 Mechanics' Bank | 114 | 100 do | 35 |
| 100 do | 115 | 100 do | 35 |
| 20 Del. & Hud. Canal Co | 131 | 200 do | 35 |
| 50 do | 132 | 100 do | 35 |
| 45 Bank of Commerce | 160 | 100 do | 35 |
| 10 Knickerbocker Ins. Co. | 80 | 200 do | 35 |
| 44 New-York Gas Co. | 140 | 200 do | 35 |
| 200 Gardiner Gold Mine | 1½ | 250 Harlem Railroad | 22 |
| 200 Canton Co. | 27½ | 100 do | 22 |
| 100 do | 28 | 100 do | 22 |
| 200 Niagara Trans. Co. | 126 | 100 do | 22 |
| 100 do | 126 | 100 do | 22 |
| 50 do | 126 | 1150 Reading Railroad | 63 |
| 100 do | 126 | 100 do | 63 |
| 200 do | 126 | 200 do | 63 |
| 100 do | 126 | 200 do | 63 |
| 100 do | 126 | 1050 do | 63 |
| 100 do | 126 | 200 do | 63 |
| 50 Penn. Coal Co. | 111 | 100 do | 63 |
| 200 Cumb. Coal Co. | 32 | 100 do | 63 |
| 100 do | 32 | 50 do | 63 |
| 100 do | 32 | 10 Hudson River R. R. | 42 |
| 100 do | 32 | 200 do | 42 |
| 1000 do | 32 | 10 Panama Railroad | 127 |
| 200 do | 32 | 40 do | 128 |
| 100 do | 32 | 10 Illinois Central R. R. | 84 |
| 100 do | 32 | 140 Clev. & Pitts. R. R. | 63 |
| 100 do | 32 | 100 do | 63 |
| 100 do | 32 | 100 do | 63 |

BETWEEN BOARDS.

After the adjournment of the Board the following sales of Stocks and Bonds were made at auction by Samuel DRAPER:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| $6,000 Sacramento City 10s | | int. added | 68 |
| 44 shares Eockman Fire Insurance Co. | | | 95½ |
| 30 shares New-Amsterdam Fire Insurance Co. | | | 90 |
| 18 shares People's Fire Insurance Co. | | | 95½ |

The following sales of Bonds and Stocks were made at auction by ALBERT H. NICOLAY:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| $1,000 Flushing R. R. 1st mortgage 7s | int. adj. | 61½@63 | |
| $3,000 Great Western (Ill.) 1st mort. 10s | int. added | 94½ | |
| $1,000 Three Hours and A. R. R. 2d m. 6s | int. adj. | 62½ | |
| $10,000 Chicago and Mich. R. R. 2d mor. 7s | int. adj. | 60 | |
| $1,000 La Crosse and Mil. R. R. 6s | int. added | 72 | |
| $10,000 Hud. Riv. R. R. 2d Mort. 7s | int. added | 77 | |
| $10,000 Illinois Central R. R. 1st mort. 7s | int. adj. | 87 | |
| 20 shares Harlem Preferred Stock | | | 65 |

600 shares Rollo Ditch, W. & Ga. R. R. (par $100 each)
1000 shares Catawissa, Williamsport and E. R. R. 12
150 shares Ocean Bank ... 87¾
40 shares Chatham Bank ... 84
40 shares Lenox Fire Insurance Co. ... 81
20 shares Commonwealth Fire Insurance Co. ... 91
20 shares Harmony Fire Insurance Co. ... 90½
240 shares Lafayette Mineral Cl. (bynoth.) ... 50c.
1200 shares Ship-Timber Bond. Co., full Stock. 15c.
1000 shares Virginia Cliff Copper Co. ... 15c.

SHORT SALES.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| $1,000 Indiana State 5s | 85½ | 100 Cumber. Coal Co. | 32 |
| 35,000 Ill. Cen. R. R. Bds | 80 | 50 do | 32 |
| 37,000 do | 80 | 50 do | 32 |
| 6,000 New-York Cen. 7s | 102 | 50 do | 32 |
| 11,000 Erie Bds. of '75, ex int | 86 | 400 do | 32 |
| 15,000 Erie Bd. of '76 ex int | 86½ | 50 Penn Coal Co., ex div. | 110 |
| 15,000 do | 86 | 50 N. Y. Cen. R. R. | 99½ |
| 100 Hud. Riv. R. R. | 70½ | 50 do | p. sec. |
| 100 Panama Railroad | 128 | 200 do | 99½ |
| 200 Nicar. Trans. Co. | 20 | 100 Harlem Railroad | 21½ |
| 200 do | 20 | 100 do | 21 |
| 100 do | 20 | 200 do | 21 |
| 100 do | 20 | 50 Reading Railroad | 63½ |
| 100 Erie Railroad | 35½ | 100 do | 63½ |
| 100 do | 35½ | 100 do | 63½ |
| 100 do | 35½ | 100 do | 63½ |

THURSDAY, Aug. 2—P. M.

The business at the Stock Exchange to-day resembles in the magnitude of sales, and the general activity of demand, the speculative lists at the close of the month of June. Notwithstanding the absenteeism of the hot season, the signs of the present week point to an earlier resumption of animated Stock dealing than usual, and the impression obtains that the dullest period of the Summer has already been passed. The aggregate sales of the day amount to nearly $400,000 in various State and Railway Bonds, and 24,500 shares. The demand for Illinois Central Bonds alone amounted to $120,000, of which $150,000 were taken at 86¾ ⅌ cent. The London quotation of 82, in sterling money, fully justifies the advance. The Free Land Bonds of the same Company brought 84, buyer 30 days. Of the stock of the Reading Road, 6,000 shares changed hands at 62½@63½, ex-dividend. New-York Central shares sold at 99½, dividend off—a fraction below the operations of yesterday, which embraced over 1,000 shares at par; taken by strong parties. The Western Road stocks were dearer. Cleveland and Pittsburg 63, cash, and 65½, buyer 60 days. Toledo 92, and Rock Island 98. The shares of the Panama Company advanced to 108. The closing sales of Pennsylvania Coal Co. were made at 106, with the dividend of 5 ⅌ cent., just declared, taken off. There were several sales of Mechanics' Bank stock at 114@115. The resignation of Mr. F. W. EDMONDS, the Cashier, was to-day formally accepted by the Board of Directors. The causes which led to this step are thus involved in doubt, but now that the resignation has been accepted, the retiring officer, who has heretofore stood very high as an able and practical financial authority in Wall-street, will probably feel himself at liberty to explain publicly the difficulties which have involved him in an unpleasant altercation with his Board of Directors, and subjected the Board itself to suspicions of incapacity for the management of one of our first moneyed institutions. Mr. EDMONDS is the City Chamberlain, or custodian of the funds of the corporation of New-York, and it was in this double trust that the misunderstanding probably originated. Nothing new transpired in regard to the unpleasant affair to-day, beyond the formal acceptance of the letter of resignation. If the comparatively insignificant sum in dispute be correctly rumored; and if, as we have heard intimated, the money was really applied to the secret service of the Bank in securing certain public deposits which it was about to lose, then the Board of Directors would seem to have sacrificed their ablest officer without rational cause. He has the reputation in the Street of having brought the affairs of the Bank up from extreme depression, caused by the abuses of a previous administration—the stock being then down to 50 cents on the dollar—to a high condition of prosperity, and this fact, connected with the admission of the President, that there is no default, ought to have kept the disputed items within the precincts of the Bank parlor. Of course the Bank will now be deprived of the City account. Among the sales by Auction this forenoon were $10,000 Terre Haute & Alton 6 ⅌ cents., 85¾, August interest of. The first half-yearly coupon on the Erie new loan of 1875 was paid yesterday. The Bonds sold to-day as high as 90½ ex-dividend. The Loan has been reduced, within the six months, by the operation of the Sinking Fund, $245,000, and the Funded Debt of the Company now stands as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| First Mortgage due 1868 | $3,000,000 |
| Second Mortgage, 1859 | 4,000,000 |
| Third Mortgage, 1883 | 6,000,000 |
| Convertible Loan, 1862 | 3,500,000 |
| Convertible Loan, 1871 | 4,351,000 |
| Income or New Loan, 1875 | 3,755,000 |
| Total Fun